ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, Aug. 1 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Gen. MacArthur's amphibious forces advanced 200 miles further toward the Philippines Sunday and landed on the tip of Dutch New Guinea, 60 miles northeast of Sorong, the general announced today.

The Japanese were taken so completely by surprise that a beachhead was established at the little Dutch village of Sansapor and two mile-long islands off shore, Amsterdam and Middleburg, named for cities in the Dutch homeland, were occupied by midmorning.

In their 200 mile hop up the Dutch New Guinea coast, the Americans bypassed Manokwari, isolating a Japanese garrison of 15,000 there.

"This is the last operation of the New Guinea campaign," a headquarters spokesman said. "We control the entire north coast. It isn't necessary to go ahead and take Sorong. We have no need of it."

Base Is Neutralized.

Sorong, one-time major Japanese base, has been largely neutralized by recent bombings. The new landing point is almost 150 miles west of Manokwari. Sansapor village has only a few houses, a school, and a Chinese store.

Altho neither naval nor air bombardment preceded the landing, the usual 7th fleet escort accompanied the invading force. American and Australian cruisers and destroyers covered the operation to the north, while the assault troops raced ashore and went hunting for Japanese snipers.

There was very light opposition and almost no trouble in the landing operation.

600 Miles from Philippines.

For two days before the landing pilots of the far eastern air force had roared up and down the coast line of the Halmahera sea, clearing the enemy from the skies and pounding down his air bases.

This was the 17th major landing since June, 1942, and put the Americans a little over 600 miles from the Philippines. Sansapor's terrain is suitable for air fields from which to strike at Halmahera and Mindanao.

The Japanese garrison left to starve at Manokwari, pre-war capital of Dutch New Guinea, consists of 15,000 troops of the enemy's 35th division commanded by Lt. Gen. Shunkichi Ideka.

"Conquests Imperiled."

MacArthur's bulletin said:

"Our bases are now established from Milne bay [at the southeast tip of New Guinea] along the entire coast of New Guinea. The enemy is no longer able to operate in this area, either by sea or by air, beyond the Halmahera-Philippine line which is the main defense cover for his conquered empire in the Southwest Pacific.

"Should this line go, all his con-

TRIBUNE MAN IN PLANE SEES NEW GUINEA LANDING

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OVER THE SANSAPOR BEACHHEAD, Dutch New Guinea, Aug. 1 [Tuesday].—For the 6th army, veterans of New Guinea battles, today the landings on the extreme tip of New Guinea were just a drill.

From the air the waves of landing craft appeared like toys advanced systematically by a master hand. All yesterday air patrols hovered over the convoy plowing thru the calm New Guinea seas. At dawn the ships formed a neat pattern off Cape Opmaral.

Not a Shot Fired.

Closest were the barges, with infantrymen huddling on them. Beyond were bigger barges with armored equipment. Then came LCIs [landing craft, infantry] and LSTs [landing ship, tanks]. Guarding the convoy were warships.

A single B-25 from our flight skimmed the beach, hunting the defenses. The rest stood by.

As the gunboats retired the landing craft moved in. Men ran onto the beach with weapons ready, but didn't fire a shot. Within minutes the first men were pushing up and down the coast.

Heavy equipment and vast stores were piled onto the beach.

Bombs Start a Fire.

"Won't need you guys," a liaison officer aground radioed our flight. He told us to hunt barges and stores the Japs could move from the south.

"The better job you do, the less fighting down here," he said.

We flew down the coast. Farther down the coast flak rose like hail in reverse, so the leader of the six planes in our flight, Lt. Hubert Summers, Lakewood, Colo., chose another area where we found oil drums, and three bombs started a fancy fire. All the shooting wasn't one-sided.

YANKS CAPTURE HALF OF GUAM; CROSS ISLE; COUNT 6,205 JAP DEAD

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, July 31 (AP).—Yankee troops have seized the entire southern half of Guam in a surprise sweep, and battle lines show their control has been extended thru the principal town of Agana.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, Pacific commander, announced this afternoon that American forces cut the island in half Sunday.

"Patrols sent out to reconnoiter the southern half of the island have encountered only sporadic resistance," the bulletin said.

This was the clue to the amazing sweep which added nearly 100 square miles to reconquered American territory.

Ships Shell Island.

The American line now extends from Agana bay, a mile north of Agana town, diagonally southeast to Pago Point on the east coast. Warships fired from both sides of the island in support of the land advance.

Adm. Nimitz reported 6,205 enemy dead had been counted thru July 30. A total of 775 civilians have been interned. With the Japanese military strength for all of Guam originally estimated to equal Saipan's more than 20,000, it seems certain that upwards of 10,000 enemy troops remain.

Surrounded by Ships.

Supporting the ground forces, warships now virtually surround northern Guam, bombarding the enemy defenses as they are spotted.

The admiral also announced that American attacks against the last enemy defenses on Tinian Island, 130 miles northward, began Sunday after more than two hours' bombing and naval gunfire.

The Japanese had been forced into a small pocket near Lajo point at Tinian's southern tip. The 2d and 4th marines division were making progress, despite the difficult terrain.

INDIVIDUAL BOND GOAL BELIEVED REACHED AS 5TH LOAN DRIVE ENDS

The 5th war loan drive in Chicago and Cook county ended yesterday with indications that for the first time in local war loan drive history sales to individuals reached the goal. Final campaign figures will not be available until Thursday because of the time needed to complete processing of yesterday's purchases, said Philip R. Clarke, city-county drive chairman.

Thruout the day the war loan organization "mopped up" various sections of the drive, completing many last minute sales and assisting bond issuing agencies to get their sales record stubs into the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago for processing.

The total city-county war loan quota of $894,014,000—made up of individual and corporate sales—was exceeded several days ago and now stands at about 25 per cent above the goal. The final days of the drive have been concentrated upon sales to individuals which had not reached the quota.

Frank J. Loesch, Crusader Against Crime, Dies at 92

Frank J. Loesch, Chicago lawyer who became known nationally as a crusader against crime in Chicago in the prohibition era, died last night in a hospital in Cooperstown, N. Y.

Senior member of the firm of Loesch, Scofield, Loesch and Burke, 18 S. La Salle st., Mr. Loesch was 92 years old.

Mr. Loesch retrieved for Chicago its good name after it had been dubbed "the crime capital of the world" in prohibition days. Altho he was known for many years as one of the city's outstanding corporation lawyers, he was virtually unheard of by the public generally when at the age of 76 he started on his battle against the alliance of crime and politics. His activities brought him national recognition in 1929 as a member of the Hoover law enforcement committee headed by George W. Wickersham.

Never Lost Interest in City.

Despite his advanced age Mr. Loesch never lost interest in Chicago's welfare. He returned to Chicago in the fall of 1942 from his country home in Cooperstown to cast his ballot in the senatorial and local elections.

Mr. Loesch started on his road to fame in 1922 when he was elected to the executive committee of the then newly organized Chicago Crime commission. In 1928, when he was made president of the commission, he began his drive to clean up the crime situation inherited from prohibition and Al Capone and his gang.

At the time many men were cowed by the might of the Caponeites; they dared not even lift their voices in protest, Mr. Loesch said later in recounting his experiences. He was put to the test when Julius Rosenwald, then one of the financial powers of the city, and a group of prominent citizens said they would withdraw their support of the commission unless Mr. Loesch would assume the presidency and make a militant fight against the gangsters. He accepted the challenge and did such a good job that he was fondly referred to as "the Spirit of 76," thruout the city.

Lists 28 Public Enemies.

He started the "rumpus," as he called it, by posting a list of 28 public enemies with Capone as No. 1. He stepped on the toes of the police and law enforcing authorities until all the public enemies were eliminated from power.

At the same time he started to shake up the criminal courts which were staggering under a docket of more than 2,000 pending cases. He coined the phrase of "paltering with crime" and publicly charged three judges with so doing.

He was challenged to prove his charges or shut up. He did not shut up. He showed judges had reduced felony charges and dealt out minor sentences; that they had loafed on the job, and were directly responsible for the crowded docket.

Receives Threats by Score.

Threats could not stop the tall, slender, gray haired battler. He received them by the score. He jumped into the fray as a special prosecutor and personally helped to break the so-called alliance of crime and politics, another of the phrases he coined. When he had about finished his job against the gangsters he turned his attention to the politicians and directed the expose of the sanitary district scandals during the "whoopee era."

Even after he had long passed his 80th birthday, Mr. Loesch refused to give up. He continued to take an active interest in crime commission affairs and when he finally decided to retire was elected president emeritus.

Mr. Loesch was not born with a "gold spoon in his mouth," as most people thought. He was a self-made man, who came from humble parents. He was born in Buffalo, N. Y., and came to Chicago in 1870 to work for the Western Union as a bookkeeper. His first job was sifting ashes for a Buffalo druggist at $2 per week.

Worked Nights; Studied Law.

He worked nights and studied law days at the Union School of Law, which was later absorbed by Northwestern university. He was graduated from law school in 1874, and as Chicago grew up from a prairie he grew with it.

Eventually he became one of the city's leading corporation lawyers and among his clients were the Soviets Capture 3 Towns at Gate of Polish Capital.

LONDON, Aug. 1 [Tuesday] (AP).—Russian armies in a new series of victories yesterday began two important battles, one for East Prussia proper and the other for Warsaw, capital of Poland.

The soviet forces formed a siege arc eight to 13 miles east of Warsaw, swept to within 12 miles of the border of pre-war East Prussia, and probably trapped scores of thousands of troops in the north by seizing the six way railway junction of Jelgava in Latvia.

Jelgava is 21 miles south of the gulf of Riga.

Berlin said Praga, east bank suburb of Warsaw was under soviet attack, and the Nazi high command said Kaunas, pre-war Lithuanian capital, had been lost to the Russians. Moscow reported only that Russians were fighting in the streets of Kaunas.

Nazis Flee Across River.

An Associated Press dispatch from Moscow said thousands of Germans were choking the Vistula river bridges in their flight into Warsaw.

Earlier, a German report said the Russians had thrown five bridgeheads across the Vistula but that four were wiped out and the fifth was sealed off.

Moscow announced the capture of more than 500 cities, towns and villages east of Warsaw, including Wolomin, eight miles northwest of Praga. Otwock, 13 miles southeast of Warsaw's outskirts also was captured, as well as Radzymin, 11 miles northeast of Praga.

Three Strongholds Fall.

Three other strongholds fell to Russians under Marshal Rokossovsky: Minsk-Mazowiecki, 21 miles east of Warsaw; Siedlce, 29 miles farther east, and Lukow, 20 miles south of Siedlce. Sixteen generals were cited for taking them. Lukow's fall was reported on July 24, but the Germans apparently had retaken it.

Premier Stalin issued three orders of the day. One disclosed that the 3d White Russian army under Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky was rolling forward on a 143 mile front. It has penetrated 31 miles thru German lines in two days.

Among the important communications centers captured by Cherniakhovsky was Mariampole, 24.8 miles from East Prussia proper.

Close to Pre-War Border.

The Russians were only 11.8 miles from East Prussia with the capture of Kopiec and Jaziewo, west of Grodno.

Farther north Gen. Ivan Bagramian's 1st Baltic army swiftly was swinging the gate shut on the Nazi armies of the Baltic. With the capture of Jelgava, halfway across the narrow waist of Latvia, his men effectively split the German troops, who have been estimated to number 200,000 to 300,000.

Gen. Andrei I. Yerekenko's 2d Baltic army attacking northwest of fallen Daugavpils in Latvia was 50 miles southeast of Riga. Farther north Gen. Ivan Maslennikov's 3d Baltic army rolled to within seven miles of Petseri with the capture of Raakva, eight miles inside southern Estonia.

In southern Poland, Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 1st Ukraine forces drove 13 to 15 miles west and south of Przemysl.

The Russian bulletin said 5,300 Germans were slain during the day and 2,144 towns and villages captured, a record in the summer offensive.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Berlin's broadcast war bulletin said:

"In the Warsaw area an attempt made by a strong enemy force to break thru toward the city was frustrated in heavy fighting. Our troops after repulsing repeated soviet attacks on Siedlce detached themselves toward fresh positions to the north.

"At Kaunas the soviets continued their attacks and despite stiff resistance offered by our troops succeeded in taking the city.

"In Latvia heavy fighting is in progress at Mitau and Birsen."

NAZI ROCKET PLANES FIGHT U. S. BOMBERS

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 31 (AP).—Germany has brought out another new weapon against the allies—a rocket propelled fighter plane capable of terrific speed, it was disclosed officially tonight.

The United States air force announced that heavy allied bombers and their escorts had encountered five of the planes Friday on their way over Germany and one on the return trip.

Little was disclosed about the speed or design of the rocket plane, which has been designated ME-163, and no announcement was made as to its effectiveness.

Flash Past Mustang Sights.

Some idea of the speed, however, is contained in a description by Col. Alvin P. Tacon Jr., Mobile, Ala., leader of a Mustang formation, who said he was unable to get his sights on two of the ME-163s he tried to catch. A Mustang can do better than 400 miles an hour.

Col. Tacon was leading a Mustang formation when he spied five of the ME-163s.

"Two made a dive turn to the left in good close formation," he said, "and started a pass at the bombers from dead astern. We started a head-on overhead pass at them, getting between them and the rear of the bombers.

"When they still were about 3,000 yards from the bombers they saw us and made a slight turn to the left. They did not attack.

Both Speed to Safety.

"Altho I had seen them start their dive and watched them thruout their attack, I had no time to get my sight anywhere near them. Both planes, still in close formation, passed about 1,000 feet under us.

"I started to follow. As soon as they had passed under us one of them continued in a 45 degree dive and the other pulled up into the sun."

The Germans are said to have used rocket propelled fighters in battles over Germany in January. A Berlin correspondent said that only pilots of iron nerve and constitution were able to handle the planes because of great strain resulting from the terrific speed and the change of air pressure.

HOT AND HUMID SPELL KEEPS N. Y. UNCOMFORTABLE

New York, July 31 [Special].—New Yorkers today spent another uncomfortable day as one of the hottest and most arid Julys passed into history. The temperature again was in the 80s while the humidity ranged between 50 and 76 per cent.

Records of the weather bureau show that the month contained only two days on which the temperature failed to reach the 80 mark and on six days the mercury climbed into the 90s. The rainfall for the month was only half of normal and drouth conditions were reported worsening in many sections of New York and New Jersey.

Weather Man Benjamin Parry held out little hope for an early end to the protracted heat spell, he said. The forecast for tomorrow was continued sunny and warm.

Weather conditions here recalled to some minds the torrid conditions that prevailed during the Republican national convention in Chicago in June, when the temperatures were consistently in the 90s. That siege, however, was of comparatively short duration. New Yorkers, on the other hand, have wilted under almost continuous oppressive heat.

Rattlesnake Bite Fatal to Handler at Revival

La Follette, Tenn., July 31 (AP).—Two days after he was bitten by a rattlesnake he handled as part of a religious revival service, Johnnie Hensley, 30, Corbin, Ky., died Sunday. The Rev. O. V. Shoupe, Cumberland, Ky., who is conducting the revival here, said he had been handling snakes for more than seven years and planned to continue the practice.

Doughboys Take Avranches; Nazi Line Unhinged.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 1 [Tuesday].—Capturing the coastal city of Avranches in an 18 mile lunge, heavy forces of American armor this morning were driving out of Normandy and deeper south to throw open once and for all the door into the heart of France.

The tank paced columns of United States infantry have reached the gateway of the Brittany peninsula and its important naval base of Brest and are slashing on only 160 miles west of Paris.

The Americans, who forced the formidable See river at Avranches, unhinged the west flank of the German line and raced toward the Selune river, along which the Germans may be expected to attempt another stand. However, the impetus of the American drive, which gained from 15 to 18 miles yesterday alone, still has not been checked by enemy strong points or reinforcements.

Hack Up Eight Divisions.

German dispatches put the strength of the pounding American right wing at nearly 1,000 tanks, of which 600 were used in the thrust into Avranches.

Swarms of fighter planes and dive bombers blasted a path for the smash which now has virtually destroyed six divisions and badly mauled two others. With 4,500 prisoners captured in the 24 hours ending midnight Sunday, the total bag for the Americans' seven day offensive soared to 10,500.

The latest spurt down the coast left pockets of Germans which were being mopped up by strong forces of doughboys moving in behind the advance spearheads. Many of these islands of resistance lay in a triangle formed by the newly captured Atlantic port of Granville, Brehal, six miles to the northeast, and Avranches, 16 miles southeast of Granville. One large pocket was cleaned out near St. Denis, nine miles southeast of Coutances.

Yanks Lose Two Towns.

South of Gavray, which lies northwest of Granville, dug-in German forces were pushed back to the south after making their first determined stand against the latest Yank offensive.

A few miles to the east, however, heavy fighting continued in an arc running from Percy to Tessy-sur-Vire. Both of these towns, which previously had been captured by the Americans, no longer are in our hands, it was disclosed. No concern was felt at headquarters over this fact, however. Their loss was laid to German resistance made desperate by the American rolling up of their western flank.

On the front west of Tessy, the Americans captured Torigny-sur-Vire, hub of a road net seven miles southeast of St. Lo, after bitter fighting. On this sector the Germans were said to be falling back toward the Sienne river before an American salient at least 2,000 yards wide.

British Gain Six Miles.

In addition to the heavy pressure from the Yanks driving down from Torigny, these German tanks faced another serious threat to their rear as British armor and infantry continued their drive on the Caumont front with an advance of up to six miles. This mechanized force rolled thru six villages despite fierce resistance.

Pushing thru Galet, the British seized Hill 309, one of the highest so far taken by the allies in Normandy, and beat off a strong Nazi counter-attack against it.

Owing to the difficult terrain here, there was no indication that the British had thrown in any important forces of armor, altho tanks undoubtedly were supporting the infantry advance. The British push was being slowed by heavy mine fields and machine gun fire.

Nazis Retreat on 50 Mile Front.

All along the 50 mile front across which the Germans are making a tangled retreat allied medium and light bombers pounded enemy communications. Heavier raiders blasted enemy lines and transport farther inland.

One pilot counted 70 German tanks burning after allied air attacks east and south of Avranches, raising to more than 400 the number destroyed since last Tuesday. In some places, airmen reported, masses of wrecked German vehicles clogged the roads so badly that the American advance was impeded.

Hailing the assistance given the air forces, Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, American 1st army commander, said the teamwork of the air and ground forces is "way beyond what we dreamed was possible." He said planes of the United States 9th air force kept constant cover over the American armored columns, hit enemy strong points, and by radio steadily warned the tanks of what they were coming up against.

Hint Navy Helps Troops.

There were reports from Normandy yesterday indicating that the American navy had participated in the assault on Granville. If this is true, it would mean that the problem of supplying our very strong forces thrusting southward from Avranches may be simplified.

Only one natural barrier now lies between these United States troops and the open Brittany country. It is the Salune river. Unless the enemy can make a strong stand here, the Americans pushing beyond Avranches will be in a position to strike across the Brest peninsula or east toward Paris, leaving Brittany to be cleaned out by the follow-up units.

NAZI WAR BULLETIN.

Yesterday's broadcast German war report said:

"The enemy in Normandy yesterday [Sunday] extended his large scale attack in which he used great quantities of material on the entire front from southwest of Caen to the west coast of the Cotentin peninsula.

"Fights are waged on both sides with ever increasing embitterment. South of Hottot all enemy attacks were smashed. On both sides of Caumont the enemy succeeded in achieving a major dent in our front.

"German counter-attacks are in progress there. Strong attempts made by the Americans to break thru northwest and west of Torigny sur Vire were frustrated. Fighting south of Sourdeval and south of Cerences raged with particular violence.

Admit Break in Lines.

"German armored formations are launching attacks against the enemy who penetrated deeply into our lines. An armored group of the Waffen SS temporarily cut off in the area north of Sourdeval fought its way to our main forces.

"A German bomber formation last night attacked enemy ship concentrations off the mouth of the Orne and the Seine. The enemy lost 11 aircraft."

'SITUATION VERY GRAVE,' GERMAN RADIO ADMITS

LONDON, July 31 (AP).—The German radio in a broadcast directed to Nazi troops said today "It would be a crime to deny the situation has become very grave—very grave." The broadcast by Commentator Hans Liebscher, however, continued in the vein of a pep talk with the statement, "We have no reason to follow the ostrich policy. The enemy will enter the reich only over our dead bodies."

Several other broadcasts emphasized that Nazi leaders were straining to get every last bit of war energy from the German people. Propaganda Minister Goebbels, new commissioner for the total war effort, spent an hour telling the German cabinet about stringent new mobilization measures and was reported as saying, "All work not directly connected with war needs must be stopped."

Nazi bigwigs went to Tannenberg for the funeral of Gen. Guenther Korten, who was fatally wounded in the bomb explosion at Hitler's headquarters July 20. Hermann Goering in a funeral oration said Tannenberg was "a symbol of the strategy by which a far superior enemy can be beaten with a few troops if only their will and faith are strong enough."

RACINE AIRMAN HELPS SPOT FOE FOR YANK GUNS

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

U. S. 1ST ARMY HDQ. IN NORMANDY, July 31.—Among the airmen flying small observation planes to direct American tank and gun fire is Capt. Hugh D. Jones of Racine, Wis. He is observer for Maj. Stewart Gordon, pilot.

"I've been flying for three days," said Jones, "and it's the most marvelous way to see a battle. I had read about Napoleon sitting on a hilltop watching a battle. Well, we did the master one better. We could watch our columns advance down parallel roads with the center out in front like a wedge. We could spot the enemy's tanks and guns and let the boys know at once. And every time the Germans took a shot at us our artillery would come down with a great crash."

Observer Jones subsequently was shot in the shoulder by one of 15 bullets which punched holes in Gordon's puddle jumper.

Developments in the fast moving drive by Americans into France.

NORMANDY PORT FALLS INTACT TO WELCOME YANKS

Only Thing Hit There Was the Enemy.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

U. S. 1ST ARMY HDQ. IN NORMANDY, July 31.—The American forces plunging down France's west coast today found Normandy's southernmost port intact when they swept into and thru the fishing and trading center of Granville.

Swarming into the beautiful town, which is situated on a rock commanding a view of Mount St. Michel bay, they found most of its 10,000 residents out in force, throwing flowers and cheering the "liberators."

The first American patrols which entered Granville by jeep found the Germans had not chosen to defend the rocky point, so there was no need for American bombers or artillery to blast it. However, several small coastal vessels had been set afire in Granville's small harbor.

The port is capable of handling 12 small steamships.

Wreckage Blocks Road.

Tho Granville was untouched, the road into it was cluttered with wrecks of German tanks, and vehicles destroyed by our air forces.

On the way up one hill north of Avranches planes had caught a column of horse drawn wagons. The entire right side of the road was a mass of smashed wagons and dead horses. Some horses which had escaped the slaughter were quickly appropriated by French peasants, who also salvaged usable items from the debris.

The Germans had marked the wagons with the Geneva Red Cross in an effort to escape the sharp eyes of 9th air force pilots. However, instead of wounded this wagon train carried loads of hand grenades, ammunition, and other army paraphernalia.

Many Germans Surrender.

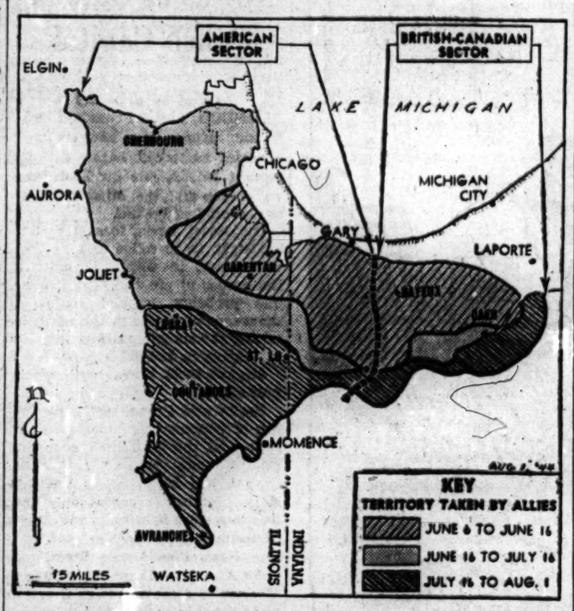
There were some dead Germans, too, caught there by the planes, but most of the enemy had scattered. As columns of Americans passed today the Germans came in from the side roads and fields in droves to surrender. Tough paratroopers as well as dull eyed Mongolian types from Russia walked in with their hands held high.

Often our tankers were too busy with the job of pushing on to pay much attention to the prisoners. They just motioned them to keep walking toward our rear, where one armored column reported an estimated 1,000 had collected today.

Avranches, which lies 48 miles northeast of Pontsoron, where a stone marks the ancient border between Normandy and Brittany, had suffered the fate of many another French village and town. Situated on a hill overlooking the sea and a beautiful monastery, Avranches had in peacetime been a tourist center. And the tourists and markets provided its 7,000 population with a livelihood.

But the Germans were there. So American bombers and some artillery ranged over the town, destroying a large part of it. However, the citizens of Avranches cheered the doughboys, threw flowers at them, and even embraced the unwary.

Back north of Avranches, as the American armor thundered south, came motorized infantry, turning off to fill in the line of advance and make it solid.



How territory already seized in France by the allies compares to Chicagoland, extending from Elgin on the northwest to La Porte, Ind., on the southeast, and to near Watseka on the south.

G. I.s FROM JOLIET AND WISCONSIN BLAST SNIPERS

WITH U. S. FORCES ON ROAD TO AVRANCHES, July 30 [Delayed] —(AP).—Americans sweeping thru Auettreville, just north of Granville, this morning had a brief brush with snipers. After clearing out the enemy they left behind two G. I.s—Sgt. Milo Sahlby of Stoughton, Wis., and Corp. Russell Babcock of Joliet, Ill.—to hold the fort. Sahlby bagged three nipers with a German rifle after his own jammed. This afternoon he and Babcock were bedecked from head to foot with flowers heaped upon them by the happy French people.

518 BRITISH CIVILIANS REACH SPAIN IN TRADE FOR INTERNED NAZIS

IRUN, Spain, July 30 [Delayed]—(AP).—Three trainloads of British civilian internees—518 persons, 20 of them suffering mental ailments—arrived in Spain today after nearly four years of internment at a German prison camp near Vittel, France.

The group completes a consignment of 900 British being exchanged for that many German internees. Some 400 British already are in Lisbon awaiting departure of the diplomatic ship Drottningholm. The internees said they made most of the trip in German military buses, since rail communications were in a bad state. Roads and bridges also have been destroyed by allied bombing and French patriot sabotage, they said.

Most of the internees are British colonials seized in the German occupation of France, Holland, and Belgium.

HITLER DEAD? LONDON ASKS, AND WONDERS

Rumor Mills of Continent Contribute Little.

LONDON, July 31 (AP).—Is Hitler dead? Are Himmler, Goering, and Goebbels manipulating the reins of rule behind his disembodied spirit?

The majority of Britons, high and low, and their American counterparts in this capital do not think so. Prime Minister Churchill spoke for most of them when, addressing a gathering of R. A. F. flyers in Normandy, he said regretfully that in the July 20 bombing, "they missed the old bounder."

Churchill did not explain why he thought the fuehrer still breathed. But other authoritative persons think the course of events bears it out. The usually prolific rumor mills of the continent contribute little to clarification.

Point to July 21 Speech.

Veteran monitors in the British Broadcasting corporation's counter-propaganda division and the ministry of information say Hitler is alive, basing their judgment on the speech broadcast from Berlin early the morning of July 21.

The chief of the ministry of information staff said he did not think the voice could have been faked "because this speech was delivered in a restrained conversational tone which is hard to imitate."

"It is easy to imitate Hitler's ranting, but in this speech there were only patches of ranting," said this authority.

Nazi propaganda went to great lengths to establish by means of broadcasts and pictures—which appeared to most persons here to be authentic—that the fuehrer survived and then worked overtime to prove this was a "miracle."

"To Finish Task."

Goebbels' job aways has been to deify Hitler in German eyes or at least invest him with a guardian angel. Goebbels hammered at this theme in his "full story of July 20" which he broadcast last Thursday, attempting to convince the hard pressed Germans that Providence had saved Hitler "to finish his task" and to preserve their last flickering hope that the fuehrer can bring them thru this darkest hour.

Dispatches from Switzerland have suggested that the man who sat at the fuehrer's desk in the bombing was not the fuehrer but "Collaborator Bergner," who was killed. This report said that Bergner was Hitler's physical double as well as his stenographer.

The view of common folks in London was pretty well expressed by a hotel chambermaid.

"Is 'Itler dead?" she echoed. "No, more's the pity. 'Ere 'e comes now," and she dived under the bed at the sound of a flying bomb.

GERMANS DENY ROMMEL IS DEAD OR BADLY HURT

LONDON, July 31 (AP).—German organs denied today that Field Marshal Rommel had been killed or seriously wounded in France.

The German controled Scandinavian telegraph agency in Stockholm quoted Berlin official circles as saying that Rommel is "in good condition." A German Transocean agency broadcast said a telephone call to Rommel's headquarters today found the marshal shaving and "this report speaks its own language."

Yesterday an American staff officer with the United States 1st army in France said information from French civilians agreed with reports of German prisoners that Rommel had died of wounds received in a strafing on the Caen front. The officer said details given by the French civilians bolstered the report of Rommel's death, but it was not yet considered certain.

QUEEN'S NEPHEW WOUNDED.

LONDON, July 31 (AP).—A nephew of Queen Elizabeth, Capt. Lord Leveson, has been wounded in action. The official casualty list published tonight gave no details. He is a son of the earl and countess of Granville.

10,000 U.S. Planes Sent Reds; Half Ferried by Air Via Alaska

EDMONTON, Alta., July 31 [Canadian Press].—Approximately 10,000 lend-lease United States built planes have been sent to Russia from the United States since the start of the soviet aid policy in October, 1941, it was learned from United States military sources here tonight. About half of this number have been flown via Edmonton, the northwest staging route of the royal Canadian air force, Alaska, and Siberia.

It was learned also that 2,200 planes have gone to the Russian fighting fronts over this route in the first four months of 1944.

The planes, flown from Great Falls, Mont., to Fairbanks, Alaska, by United States pilots are taken over at Fairbanks by Russian pilots and from there are flown over the 540 mile route to Nome on the west coast of central Alaska. From Nome they make the 50 mile over-water hop to Siberia. The remaining part of their journey is shrouded in official secrecy.

To Russian Back Door.

The trip from Great Falls to Edmonton covers approximately 600 miles and from the Alberta capital to Fairbanks is nearly 1,000 air miles. The route is the main aerial path from North America to the far east and is the "back door" to the Russian fighting front.

The air route was available for Russia-bound planes promptly after the Japanese struck at Pearl Harbor.

Today, the northwest staging route permits the passage of the fastest fighters and the heaviest bombers and freighters, with landing fields, radio facilities, and servicing depots comparable to those on a main airline route in the United States.

Last Nov. 24 James J. Patterson, under-secretary of war, told the Truman senate committee in Washington, D. C., of the existence of a northwestern Canadian air ferry route from the United States to Russia, but since Sept. 14, 1942, when the scream of fighters and roar of bombers was heard by Edmontonians, the story has been sealed under official secrecy. Planes emblazoned with the Red Star of Russia have broken thru the clouds over this city en route to battlefields where they have played a prominent part in the Russian domination of the skies in the fight against the Nazis.

Flown by Women.

Russian women pilots have flown many of the lend lease planes from Alaska to the Russian front. None of the women flyers has been in this city altho Russian men pilots appear frequently and are popular guests at sporting events.

During week-ends, when the north traffic is heaviest, the movement of aircraft is like a parade of machines tied together by invisible cords miles long.

The misadventures of the northern passage, as well as the achievements, have been under the rule of secrecy, but officers said proudly their losses have been few.

Emphasizing the increasing importance of the inland air route from Great Falls, Mont., to Fairbanks, Alaska, the Alaskan wing of the United States army air transport command has been raised to the status of a division, effective last Wednesday, it was announced today.

Five "Secret" Air Bases.

WINNIPEG, B. C., July 31 (AP).—Five large United States air bases in the sub-arctic region around Hudson bay and on Baffin land, whose existence has been a military secret, have provided aerial stepping stones for a route across the North Atlantic to Europe, it was disclosed tonight. Canadian officials soon will visit the bases to see how they will fit into post-war aviation plans.

Officials said the bases are at the Pas and Churchill, Man.; Southampton Island in northern Hudson bay; Frobisher bay on the east coast of Baffin land and Port Chimo, on the south shore of Hudson strait.

Some of the fields are extensive, particularly the one at Churchill. Some parts of the fields are on muskeg and under that is perpetual ice. It is understood the Canadian government has agreed with United States authorities that the stations will be utilized after the war if at all possible.

PRAYERS UNITE 180 MOTHERS OF AIR FORCE MEN

A brief but fervent prayer for men in the air force is the common bond which unites a group of Chicago mothers into an organization known as the Mothers of Flying Army Officers.

Of the 180 members, 19 wear gold stars and 15 have sons listed as missing in action. Each has been sustained thru her sorrow by the helpfulness of the other mothers, just as others will be sustained in case future "regret to inform you" messages are received.

Moral Support Is Aim.

"We organized to give each other moral support," the president, Mrs. T. F. Finigan, 736 Taylor st., explained. "It helps to be together, particularly when we need comfort, encouragement, and our interests revived. Mothers seem to understand each other in their hour of need."

Mrs. Agnes Trick, widow, was the first member of the group to lose her son. Today her job is to send personal birthday greetings to the sons of other women.

"I write about 12 letters a month," she said. She gave excerpts from the answers. Some typical comments were: "I hope the club will keep mother so busy she will not have time to worry about me." . . . "We'll all be home again soon," . . . and "Keep my mother's spirits high until I return."

Letters Read Aloud.

Pictures sent by sons from the war fronts all over the world are handed around at the monthly meeting and letters are read aloud. Occasionally a son home on leave is a guest of the club and tells the mothers what their sons are doing.

At each session, one of the mothers repeats the following prayer:

"Keep my boy inspired by a never dying faith in God. Thruout all the days of a hopeful victory, wherever his duty takes him, keep his spirit high and his purpose unwavering. Satisfy the hunger of his soul with the knowledge of my daily prayers. Spur him to bravery when he faces the cruel foe. Talk with him during silent watches of the night and bring him home safe to me."

GRAND JURORS ABANDON WHITE PAVING INQUIRY

Say They Will Consider Only 'Real' Evidence.

Charges much heralded, tho unsupported, which vaguely implied the receipt of huge paving payments by Gilbert Keebler, former administrative state auditor under Gov. Green, blew up yesterday when the Cook county grand jury refused to go on with the investigation unless the state's attorney's office produced actual evidence.

state's attorney's office produced actual evidence.

The jurors, after issuing their ultimatum to Asst. State's Atty. C. Vernon Thompson, who had charge, literally walked out on the inquiry, letting several witnesses familiar with the affairs of the late Michael E. White, favored contractor of former city, county, and state administrations, sitting in the ante-room. It was during an investigation of alleged forgeries involved in White's estate that the paving payment accusations with their political implications were highlighted.

Jurors Balk at Question.

Keebler had appeared briefly before the jury for the second time yesterday. It was reported that he volunteered to tell the jurors anything they might wish to know pertinent to the inquiry. He explained some of his real estate transactions, pointing out that the deals involved much less than amounts which had been bandied about by prosecutors.

It was when Prosecutor Thompson asked Keebler to explain where his office as administrative state auditor had been in Springfield, before he resigned more than a year ago, that the jury was reported to have balked. Jurors were reported to have told Thompson that they didn't think the question pertinent to investigation of either the paving payment charges or the forgeries into which they were looking.

Prosecutors Given Notice.

Shortly thereafter both Thompson and Asst. Atty. Gen. William C. Wines left the jury room. They said the jurors had asked them to retire while the jury went into executive session. Shortly afterward, when the prosecutors were called back, both were told the jury had voted to drop the paving inquiry unless some real evidence were offered.

When the jury recessed for the noon hour Thompson reported to State's Atty. Courtney. Courtney then indicated he was not satisfied and asserted he would go on with the investigation, whether the July grand jury agreed or not. A little later Courtney issued this statement:

"As far as my office is concerned, this subject [paving] has not been thoroly enough investigated to warrant a definite and final statement with reference thereto."

Smith Reported Indicted.

It was reported the grand jurors had voted four true bills against Graeme Smith, former associate of White. Accusations as to Smith precipitated all the paving charges. Charges against Smith are said to include forgery of loan notes and forgery of endorsements on checks issued in connection with the loans.

Atty. Gen. Barrett, following the grand jury's action, indicated he believed Courtney had bungled the paving inquiry. He renewed his original offer to take over the grand jury and go into all paving, including millions in contracts for the Democratic city and county administrations.

The July grand jury will continue in session until Saturday.

PAPEN WARNS TURK PREMIER, BERLIN REPORTS

New York, July 31 (AP).—The Berlin radio said today that Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, called on Turkish Premier Sukru Saracoglu to discuss the reported break-off of Turkish-German relations with the warning that such action under British pressure would "definitely deprive Turkey of its freedom of action."

The British radio said tonight "it is understood that Prime Minter Churchill may discuss the Turkish situation in his war message to the house of commons Wednesday and it is noted that this will coincide with the statement of the Turkish premier before the Turkish parliament Wednesday."

The British radio broadcast also a Turkish news agency dispatch tonight which said "there is a cabinet crisis in Hungary and according to an unconfirmed message Hungarian Premier Doeme Sztojay has resigned."

Speedboats Torpedo 3 Ships in Convoy—Nazis

LONDON, July 31 (AP).—The Berlin radio today said German speedboats attacked a British convoy off Eastbourne last night and torpedoed "at least three ships." British destroyers "attacked vigorously," preventing the Germans from observing the results, the broadcast said. There was no allied confirmation.

Reds Open Siege of Warsaw

REPORTS EXILED POLISH CABINET BOWS TO RUSSIA

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 1 [Tuesday]. — Prospect of the exiled Polish government, shorn of its anti-Russian members, returning to Warsaw as soon as possible after the Polish capital is liberated by the Red army was held out today by the diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph.

He said the eventual withdrawal of more anti-Russian members of the Stanislaw Mikolajczyk government "is believed to be among the conditions required by the Russians and finally accepted by the Poles" before the Polish-Russian conversations in Moscow were agreed upon.

Premier Mikolajczyk, it is said, was accompanied to Moscow by Foreign Minister Tadeusz Romer only after Marshal Stalin in a personal message to Prime Minister Churchill said he was prepared to receive such a mission.

Reports Poles Yield.

Stalin made the concession, the Daily Telegraph writer said, because the "Polish government in view of the Red army's rapid advance into Poland agreed in advance to accept essential Russian demands."

[A dispatch from Moscow said the Polish premier and his foreign minister conferred with W. Averell Harriman, the American ambassador, and Archibald Clark Kerr, the British envoy, upon their arrival.]

Referring to the territorial dispute between the Poles and the Russians, the correspondent said Mikolajczyk is ready to accept the Curzon line as a temporary line of demarcation between Russian and Polish areas of administration. At the same time the Poles stipulate that a final tracing of the Russian-Polish frontier shall be left until after the war.

[The Curzon line extended from Lithuania west of Grodno southward in almost a straight line thru Brest Litovsk and then angled west of Lwow to the Czechoslovak border. The line was proposed by Britain after the soviet-Polish war of 1920. Poland rejected it.]

The article said London's Polish circles have pointed out that Polish troops are serving on every European front except Normandy.

Object to General.

It was therefore suggested that the authority of the Polish high command could be exercised by two or more generals commanding specified areas. This would permit Gen. Kazimierz Sosnkowski, to whom the Russians object, to retain command of Polish troops in the Mediterranean. A general who has worked with the Russians would command Polish troops on the eastern front and the Polish underground forces.

The Mikolajczyk government was said to be willing to make large concessions in land reform. Deputy Premier Jan Kwapinski in a broadcast Sunday night said plans have been made for the state to take over property and estates of more than 120 acres. This land would be assigned for distribution to peasants and agricultural improvement.

"Forest will be national property with the exception of common land and those belonging to local authorities," Kwapinski said.

The state, he said, would also take over key industries and factories from German hands and industrial self-government would be introduced.

"Not a Rival Regime."

The Daily Telegraph writer does not regard the Polish committee of liberation in Moscow as an insuperable obstacle to the formation of a government by Mikolajczyk in Warsaw. He said the Russians recognized the committee not as a rival Polish government but merely as a local authority for civil administration of liberated Polish territory in the rear of the Russian armies.

HELD UP BEFORE HOME.

James Cooper, 6129 Rhodes av., reported to police yesterday that two armed Negroes held him up in front of his home and robbed him of $14.

NEW ATTEMPT TO OUST FINNISH RULE REPORTED

Hint Cabinet Sought for Soviet Deal.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 31 (AP).—A new attempt to force the resignation or ouster of the pro-German Finnish government in favor of one which could make peace with Russia was reported imminent tonight. This report came as German positions in the east deteriorated from the Baltic states thru the Balkans.

Informants said that thruout the week-end, groups opposed to Premier Edwin Linkomies were laying plans to rid the country of the government which signed up Finland for solid military collaboration with Germany.

Information slipping thru the close Finnish censorship to Stockholm said Marshal Mannerheim and President Risto Ryti had held a long conference in Helsinki during the last few days.

Turn to Mannerheim.

This fitted into reports current here that the Finnish people, confronted by a hopeless military situation once the Russians overrun the Baltic states, were turning to the aging military commander in chief for a solution of their problem.

There was a suggestion among persons having close connections inside Finland that Mannerheim may be asked by a peace group in parliament to assume leadership in a movement to force a change in the government. Some believed Mannerheim may consent, because several months ago he advised the government that the military situation was hopeless.

Since Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop of Germany visited Finland late in June, the Nazis have sent only one infantry division and one tank brigade into southern Finland, informants said. Only the tank unit is believed to be in action. The infantry division is reported on the Gulf of Viipuri as a precaution against a Russian landing.

REPORT PROCOPE'S ARRIVAL.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The German radio reported yesterday that Hjalmar Procope, former Finnish minister to the United States, arrived Sunday at Helsinki.

The Finnish envoy was ordered to leave Washington last month by the state department which said his activities had been against the welfare of the United States.

The Berlin broadcast said Procope was greeted at the Helsinki airport by officials of the Finnish foreign ministry and representatives of the Finnish military forces. Sunday night the former Washington envoy conferred with President Risto Ryti, Premier Linkomies, and Foreign Minister Henrik Ramsay.

CANADIAN M. P.s OUST MEMBER FOR DISOBEYING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., July 31.—Dr. H. A. Bruce, former lieutenant governor of the province of Ontario, tonight was suspended from the house of commons for the remainder of the day's sittings. He had refused to obey a ruling of the speaker.

Dr. Bruce, a Progressive-Conservative member, had accused the government of political bribery in submitting a family allowance legislation providing for annual allowances of $200,000,000 to children under 16. Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King demanded a withdrawal of the aspersion. Last week commons unanimously had indorsed the principle of the bill.

When Bruce refused the demand he was asked to leave the chamber. The house suspended him by a vote of 84 to 20.

BRITAIN SETS UP NEW SIGNAL FOR ROBOT ATTACKS

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 31.—The British cabinet has approved uniform danger signals against robot attacks, it was reported tonight. The signals can be seen and heard by day and night in greater London. They will supersede the "banshee wailing" system which has been the target of a number of protests since Germany launched its new winged bomb attacks on England.

Home office experts are said to have put forward several alternative suggestions to end what is described as "chaos of conflicting signals," particularly in central London.

Home Secretary Herbert Morrison is scheduled, to announce in the house of commons tomorrow the government's final choice. The new signals will be put into operation as soon as possible, it is believed. A new warning system for drivers of road vehicles at night also is under consideration.

Expect Warning by Churchill.

Prime Minister Churchill is expected to warn Britain that the Germans may be ready to hurl new terror weapons at the British Isles when he appears before parliament on Wednesday.

Flying bombs brought death and destruction to London and southern England again today.

Following attacks early this morning, rescue squads were digging tonight for victims of a bomb which fell in a thorofare. Trucks and steam cranes worked thru the night in an attempt to reach the trapped people. It is feared the death toll in this particular incident will be "rather heavy."

A bomb which hit another district damaged a nursing home and two large country houses, one of which is 500 years old. One 84 year old woman died from shock shortly afterward. A church also was wrecked.

Fails to Save Victim.

An urgent appeal for help was sent out from a hospital during the night for an iron lung in an attempt to save the life of man who was seriously hurt in a flying bomb incident. The iron lung failed to save his life.

Taking a cue from members of parliament who last week urged heavier penalties for looting, southern England police courts sentenced four civil defense workers to jail for stealing from bombed buildings. A fifth man, also an air raid precautions worker brought up on a similar charge, was ordered held until Aug. 5 for further investigation.

After sentencing one, 58 years old, and another 26, to six months and 10 months at hard labor respectively for stealing a little less than $8 from a gas meter on bombed premises, the judge told them: "You are guilting of looting—an offense which by the law of the land is regarded with extreme severity."

Earrings Stolen.

A member of a repair flying squad was given six months for stealing a pair of earrings worth $24 from a bombed hospital.

A fire loss assessor was trapped by police as he walked out of a bombed building wearing a new suit of clothes and carrying other stolen articles. He got three months.

A laborer was ordered imprisoned for two months by a Thames police court for stealing a belt, a fountain pen, cigaret lighters, and a box of candy from an American airman.

Tirpitz Makes Trial Run After Repairs, BBC Says

LONDON, July 31 (AP).—The BBC broadcast a report tonight from its Stockholm, Sweden, correspondent that the German battleship Tirpitz had been repaired and made a trial run in the Alten Fjord of Norway. The most recent attack on the Tirpitz was made by British carrier-based planes April 3, when considerable damage to the big ship was reported.

Betty Kern and Artie Shaw.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 31 (AP).—Band Leader Artie Shaw and his wife, Betty Kern, daughter of Composer Jerome Kern, have separated and she said today she would sue for divorce. They were married in Yuma, Ariz., in 1942, and have a year old son, Steven. Shaw was divorced by Screen Star Lana Turner in 1940 after a marriage that lasted five months.

RALLY OF 40,000 URGES HELP FOR JEWS IN EUROPE

New York, July 31 [Special].—Forty thousand American Jews assembled in Madison Square park today and adopted a resolution embodying an eight point program for saving as many Jews as possible in Nazi occupied territories. They voiced the fear that by the time the war is over most of the Jews in Europe will have been exterminated.

The crowd heard messages from President Roosevelt and Gov. Dewey expressing their abhorrence at the atrocities against the Jews in Europe, and denunciations of the Nazis' savagery by former Justice Joseph M. Proskauser, Sen. Ralph C. Brewster [R., Me.], Norman M. Littell, an assistant attorney general, and others.

The meeting was arranged by the American Jewish conference and 63 affiliated organizations in coöperation with eight other national Jewish organizations.

Allied Naval Ships Using Cherbourg's Installations

LONDON, July 31 (AP).—The Algiers radio said tonight that naval installations at Cherbourg, third largest French port which the American 1st army captured five weeks ago, are in operation again.

REICH POUNDED BY 1,200 HEAVY YANK BOMBERS

LONDON, July 31 (AP).—More than 3,400 United States warplanes attacked the Munich and Ludwigshafen areas in central Germany, air fields in France, and Romanian oil installations at Bucharest and Ploesti today in joint blows from Britain and Italy.

The main assault was delivered by 1,200 Fortresses and Liberators with an escort of 1,000 fighters swarming across the channel to hit the heart of Germany.

Sixteen American bombers and four fighters out of this force were missing. No enemy interceptors were met, but 18 German aircraft were destroyed on the ground.

[The Swiss radio last night said two American bombers had been forced down at Duebendorf by Swiss anti-aircraft guns. It said 18 crew members were uninjured and were interned.]

Strike Near Russian Front.

Another group of 500 United States heavy bombers carried out the Romanian attacks, hitting objectives within 180 miles of the Russian front.

More hundreds of allied aircraft operated ahead of the advancing Americans and British in France. At least 14 Nazi planes fell prey to their guns.

Tonight, R. A. F. raiders attacked flying bomb sites in northern France, the British announced.

The British-based heavies, singling out Munich, birthplace of Nazism, as their principal objective, showered their explosives on the city visually. The targets were listed only as "military objectives," but the Nazi shrine is the home of numerous chemical works which make the fuel used for robot bombs. It also has other aircraft industry and a network of vital installations.

Set Refinery Afire.

Italy-based Liberators started fires at the Prahova refinery and the Morgasala fuel dump at Bucharest; bombed the Targoviste oil tank farm west of Ploesti and the Creditul Minier refinery nearby.

Mustang escorts knocked down several interceptors over Bucharest.

Estimates released today by the United States 8th air force in England and the 15th in Italy disclosed nearly 27,000 heavy bombers had been thrown against Germany and her satellites in July. They dropped nearly 65,000 tons of bombs.

M'ARTHUR AGAIN INVADES; 600 MI. FROM MINDANAO

Moves 200 Miles Up Guinea Coast.

Halfway to His Goal.

MacArthur's blitzkrieg has carried him halfway to Davao in the southern Philippines during the three months and one week of fighting since the invasion of Dutch New Guinea April 22.

The landing at Sansapor means the general's front line forces have moved more than 600 miles from Hollandia to within 675 miles of Davao.

The Japanese landed at Sansapor for their first foothold on New Guinea in February, 1942. They hammered their way to within 32 miles of Port Moresby, the last allied base, before they were stopped. Now, Port Moresby lies more than 1,200 miles to the south.

Cost Japs 100,000 Men.

In MacArthur's march toward his often-announced goal—the Philippines—the Japanese have lost well over 100,000 men, hundreds of planes and innumerable ships and barges. Equally important, they have lost great "face."

Sansapor is just another jungle base, but it is closer to Tokyo than to Melbourne, Australia, where Gen. MacArthur's headquarters are. These distances are, respectively: 2,590 and 2,705 miles.

The next major Japanese base at Halmahera island, to the northwest, is closer to Sansapor than Noemfoor island, nearly 200 miles eastward, where the Americans made their last strike.

Amsterdam island, also invaded, is a reef-bound coral islet, one mile long and half a mile wide. Near-by Middelburg island is one mile by five-eighths of a mile. It also is of coral formation and is surrounded by a reef, but it has a 486 foot jetty over the reef which served the Chinese coconut plantation maintained on the island.

More than 700 miles down the New Guinea coast another trapped Japanese garrison is having poor luck trying to break thru an American line east of Aitape.

Today's bulletin also disclosed that P-38s in a strike near Amboina Island Saturday set a 3,000 ton Japanese freighter afire and damaged two others, one of 5,000 and the other of 1,000 tons.

WARSHIPS POUND JAPS TRAPPED AT TINIAN'S TIP

BY RICHARD W. JOHNSTON.
Representing the Combined American Press.

Aboard Expeditionary Flagship, Tinian Island, Aug. 1 [Tuesday] (AP).—United States marines swept thru the ruins of Tinian town almost without opposition today and trapped the remaining Japanese defenders on the island's cliff-like southern tip.

The enemy remnants there were subjected to one of the western Pacific's most fearsome aerial and naval strikes, as well as the ravages of a secret new weapon.

Rear Adm. Harry W. Hill took this flagship nearly to the gates of the town's harbor shortly after dawn. From the bridge I watched our stupendous explosive might, the like of which I have seen only twice before in the Pacific—at Kwajalein in the Marshall Islands and on D-Day here.

Ships Pound Forts

Battleships, cruisers and destroyers, forming an arc around the southern cliffs, pounded the enemy's coral head forts with tons of high explosive shells for more than an hour. After a breathless pause, designed to entice the Japanese from their foxholes, a parade of planes began.

Seventh army air force fighter bombers led the aerial assault. Marines attacked under the smoke pall and drove up the hills behind Tinian town. They encountered only isolated sniper and machine gun fire.

But Japanese pocketed in caves and blockhouses got no holiday from terror when the bombardment and bombings ended. A secret weapon was called into play during the day.

It is believed that a substantial force of enemy troops is still alive inside concealed hideouts in tiny escarpments.

The terrain, more than enemy fire, delayed the marines today, but the command is still not ruling out the possibility of a Japanese attempt to rally by the traditional banzai charge.

Town Is a Shambles.

Tinian town, like Garapan on Saipan, was a shambles when the marines finally occupied it. Rear guard Japanese ineffectively mined parts of the town, and battalions which effected the conquest met some suicidal sniper fire which was quickly eliminated.

The harbor is dotted with the wrecks of 30 to 40 Japanese craft, including some sizeable vessels. The beaches, where the Japanese expected us to land, were heavily mined. Demolition charges had been set in the pier.

American casualties on Tinian remained at a minimum. The counted Japanese death toll neared 3,000.

Unless the Japanese make a strong last stand, the Tinian conquest will be the most valuable of the Pacific war in relation to its cost, as well as having provided the proving ground for a weapon which will help spell Nippon's doom.

YANKS ON B-29s 'BAKE IN 150°'; THEN RAID JAPAN

BY FRANK STURDY.

A large part of the war for the crew members of the B-29 Super Fortresses based in China was a battle against almost unbearable heat and other handicaps of the orient which were new to them, but which were overcome in preparations for the recent raids on Japan.

Brig. Gen. Wolfe.

Brig. Gen. Kenneth B. Wolfe, who commanded the 20th wing of the 20th air force during its organization here and directed the testing in China and India prior to the historic June 15 raid on Japan, described in an interview here yesterday some of the difficulties that were encountered in readying the giant bombers for their long range attacks.

Tests Made in Hot Weather.

High temperatures were foreseen, Gen. Wolfe said, and flight tests were run at Wichita, Kas., where a large B-29 factory is located, in the hottest summer weather. Not even the temperatures of the Kansas plains, however, could prepare the men and machines for the thermometer readings of 125 degrees they found in India.

The Super Fortresses have pressure compartments, with the fuselage almost sealed, and in the searing Indian sun, the temperature inside the planes rose to 150 degrees, he said. He explained how the crews, anxious to keep at work and unwilling to quit in the blistering afternoons, were saved from heat exhaustion:

"We made it an order that every man wear his canteen at all times. You know, when you are at work, you probably won't stop even when you need a drink of water if it means walking some distance to get it. We brought the water to the men in trucks, and made them drink it, at the same time taking salt tablets regularly. They baked and sweated. We all did. But we kept at the job.

Even Indians Are Startled.

"The British, and even the Indians were startled. They said we just couldn't do that."

Even at high altitudes, temperatures were higher than anticipated, he said. At 25,000 feet, where 23 degrees below zero could have been expected, the air was 15 degrees warmer. This meant fresh testing and new calculations on the operation of the planes.

The B-29s have delivered everything expected of them, Gen. Wolfe said, and have required no major modifications in the field. The planes carry a greater load, at higher speed, over a greater distance, and at higher altitude than any other bomber in the world.

Gen. Wolfe, 48, has been in the army air forces since World War I, in which he was a flight instructor. He returned from command of the 20th bomber wing on July 10 to take command of the air forces material command with headquarters at Wright field. His home is in Riverside, Cal.

121 DISTILLERS BEGIN MONTH OF LIQUOR MAKING

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP).—Distillers started at midnight tonight replenishing the nation's hard liquor supply, breaking off 22 months of steady alcohol production for war purposes.

Of the country's 129 beverage distillers, 121 have notified the war production board they will convert completely to drinking liquor during the 31 day August "holiday." Eleven commercial alcohol plants will devote 50 per cent of their output, the maximum permitted by WPB, to beverage use.

The planned August output, estimated at some 40 million gallons by industry experts, is expected to yield one normal year's supply of liquor for retail sale and put both gin and whisky back on dealer's shelves.

WOUNDED RESISTING HOLDUP.

Aaron Johnson, 32, of 3158 Indiana av., a Negro, was shot in the hand yesterday when he resisted another Negro's attempt to hold him up under the elevated structure near 43d st. and Calumet av. Johnson was taken to St. Luke's hospital.

SCHENLEY DISTILLERS CORP., NEW YORK

Champion!

In Pennsylvania, where the Allegheny and Kiskiminetas rivers join—once a favorite fording place of the Indians—there is a tract of land originally owned by Mary Schenley of England. Here was built a distillery and a town: Schenley, Pa.!

Schenley, Pennsylvania stakes its claim to the title of CHAMPION WAR TOWN, U. S. A.! Here it stands, tucked away in the rugged country—thirty miles north of Pittsburgh—a tiny community of twenty homes, packing a powerful victory wallop. Here is no mammoth factory producing swarms of devastating bombers or fighting ships. But here is one of the distilling industry's key factors in sustaining the industry's role as the nation's major producer of vital alcohol for war—Jos. S. Finch & Co., a Schenley Distillers' plant.

And whatever this tiny village lacks in size is overshadowed by the scope of its contribution to the war effort. Every one of its remaining able-bodied men is doing a war job for Uncle Sam at home!

On this bustling Pennsylvania home front, whose sturdy population is normally one hundred sixty-five, but which is now swelled by men and women from adjoining towns, the workers are making hundreds of thousands of gallons of alcohol for smokeless powder which go into "cocktails for the axis", and for butadiene for the making of synthetic rubber. All this in a sprawling sixty-acre plant which ceased making whiskey in February 1942 and "went to war." Since that date it has turned out more than eleven million gallons of war alcohol . . . enough to provide the butadiene for making two million seven hundred fifty thousand synthetic tires, and all the smokeless powder needed to fire forty-four million rounds of three-inch anti-aircraft ammunition.

SALUTE TO YOU—CHAMP!

JAPS PENETRATE HENGYANG, FIGHT IN CITY STREETS

Battle Rages Around Chinese Base.

CHUNGKING, China, July 31 (AP).—Japanese troops have smashed into Hengyang after five weeks of fighting, a Chinese bulletin admitted tonight, and were battling in the streets with defenders whose stand in the Canton-Hankow railway junction has become one of the epics of the war.

Severe casualties were inflicted by both sides in the fighting and the Chinese asserted their inner ring position was unshaken.

Heavy fighting also raged north, east, and south of the city, regarded as the most important goal of the Japanese since the fall of Canton and Hankow in 1938. Its capture would open the way for a drive down the railway for the remaining 170 miles to join forces with the invader in Kwangtung province to the south and give the enemy an unbroken 1,000 miles of rail route bisecting China from north to south.

Chinese Take Positions.

Chinese relief forces attempted to blast their way thru the Japanese ring around the city, whose defenders on a number of occasions have been supplied from the air by planes of Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's Chinese-American composite wing.

West of the city the Chinese claimed capture of several important points, and in the northern area a heavy enemy onslaught was thrown against the city. Many casualties on both sides were reported there.

Tengchung Is Bombed.

On the Yunnan front, where the Chinese Salween river offensive is aimed at north Burma, Tengchung, surrounded main Japanese base, was bombed by United States 14th air force Mitchells. A force of about 300 Japanese attempted to break out of the ancient walled city to the north but made no progress. About 2,000 Japanese are reported encircled and facing extermination in the city.

Gain at Myitkyina.

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, July 31 (AP).—Chinese troops have made new gains in the fighting at Myitkyina, last remaining base of the Japanese in North Burma, a bulletin said tonight.

Stabbing from the south, one group advanced 500 yards and took an objective; from the southeast other units took another 250 yards, and in the west the Chinese-American lines were straightened out by small gains.

American Mustang fighters raided Bhamo, 75 miles to the south of Myitkyina.

LEANING TOWER NOT DAMAGED, SAYS OBSERVER

WITH THE 5TH ARMY BEFORE PISA, July 31 (AP).—The leaning tower of Pisa has neither been destroyed nor damaged by artillery fire, an observer at the front said tonight. The tower could be seen thru glasses from the observation post.

A Berlin broadcast said shellfire had destroyed the historic tower, but subsequent German broadcasts did not repeat the charge.

Fifth army officers said last week that the Germans were using it as an artillery observation post. [The German radio denied the accusation].

HUNT SOUVENIRS IN CAVE BUT FIND JAPS INSTEAD

Yank Cooks Go Away from There Fast.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADVANCED SOUTHWEST PACIFIC AIR BASE, July 31.—"Bats Out of Hell," famed Mitchell low level bombing unit, went to work today a little bleary eyed. The reason was a private war that broke out in their own camp yesterday.

Sgt. C. Sotirakopulos.

Chicagoan Sgt. Christ Sotirakopulos, 1651 N. Mobile av., and three fellow cooks for the outfit went souvenir hunting yesterday in caves on a hill overlooking the jungle area where airmen started setting up camp three days ago.

In the mouth of a cave, less than 100 yards from the tents, Sotirakopulos found a machine gun and ammunition which the Japs apparently had brought in the during the previous night, since it wasn't there when Sotirakopulos was in the cave a day earlier.

The Dogs Do Bark.

As the cooks went toward the gun a rifle shot rang out from the cave. The cooks fled, more bullets whizzing overhead.

So the unit commander called for infantry, and they sent over a mortar squad which fired a truckload of shells. Then he said, cheerfully: "If they bother you tonight we will come back tomorrow and send a patrol up there."

We put out some guards and went to bed. About midnight the moon went down. Around 2:30 somebody in the camp fired and the barking of dogs answered.

Shoot Up Barges.

"Didn't know there were so many dogs around," the newcomer said.

"Those are Japs barking like the dogs they are," his tent mate said. "One night they scream and holler and the next night they bark."

That destroyed all thoughts of sleep. Everybody was glad when 4 o'clock came and we could get up and head for the airstrip and get into the air, where at least you couldn't get murdered in your bed.

The target today was barges and dumps on New Guinea's tip. We found the first one within five miles of where the hunt was to start, and all took pot shots at it. Three or four more hidden in coves became routine and we ran into a jackpot later.

GETS $200 FINE FOR POSING AS COP TO COUPLE

Thaddeus Barnowski, 34, of 5333 Eddy st., mechanic in a war plant who was accused of threatening to arrest a couple as they sat in an automobile Sunday morning in Chopin park, was fined $100 and costs each on charges of disorderly conduct and impersonating a police officer by Judge Cecil C. Smith in Shakpespeare Police District court yesterday. Raymond Mzark, 21, of 3419 Irving Park rd., testified that Barnowski flashed a badge and said that Mzark and Miss Lois Winslow, 18, of 5131 Roscoe st., were under arrest. Barnowski was trying to induce Mzark to turn the keys to the car over to him when a park district squad stopped and arrested him. Barnowski told the court he had been drinking.

GIRL ON MOTORCYCLE HURT.

Miss Laura Modelski, 19, of 1456 N. Avers av., was injured yesterday in a fall from her motorcycle at North and Spaulding avs. after the machine struck John Gobrowski, 49, of 3305 Beach av. Gobrowski also was hurt.

U. S. ALIEN TOTAL 3,400,000; DROPS TO 35 YEAR LOW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 31.—The war time urge of aliens to become American citizens has reduced the number of aliens in the United States to approximately 3,400,000, compared with about 5 million in 1940, the department of justice announced today.

The present alien population is the lowest in 35 years, reported Earl G. Harrison, who resigned yesterday as director of the immigration and naturalization service. He explained that in addition to the increase in naturalization proceedings, a relatively high death rate among aliens and sharp decrease in immigration were responsible for the decline in alien population.

Naturalization hit an all time high during the year ending June 30, with 435,483 new citizens, Harrison's report showed.

The average age of aliens in this country is 51.7, compared with 29.5 for the population as a whole, Harrison said in explaining the death rate factor.

Only 30,000 immigrants were admitted during the year ending June 30, Harrison reported. This meant, he said, "that for every alien admitted, 15 were naturalized.

LAKE BLUFF AND LODA SOLDIERS IN PACIFIC CITED

WITH THE AMERICAL DIVISION, Somewhere in Southwest Pacific, July 31 (AP).—Tech. Sgt. Richard D. Holmes of 345 Sylvan rd., Lake Bluff, Ill., has been awarded the bronze star "for meritorious achievement" in military operations at Bougainville, Solomon Islands, on March 20, 1944. He volunteered as a radio operator and accompanied three infantry platoons to occupy Hill 260 under continuous Jap fire. His citation said:

"Altho near collapse from heat exhaustion, Holmes took over the task of maintaining wire communications in addition to his radio duties when the wire technician became a casualty. Upon returning with survivors to the command post, he was overcome by the long ordeal under the burning tropical sun and lost consciousness."

Sgt. Clarence L. Ronna, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ronna of Loda, Ill., was awarded the combat infantryman badge for action on Guadalcanal.

BOMBINGS CAUSE NAZI OIL CRISIS, SAYS FEA CHIEF

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP).—Allied bombings have brought Germany to an oil crisis by reducing production more than 50 per cent in the last four months, Foreign Economic Administrator Crowley reported today.

The Reich's ouput of natural and synthetic petroleum, fully adequate in April, now "falls far short of meeting minimum essential consumption needs, even after drastic curtailment of important uses," said Crowley's statement, based on findings of the FEA's economic warfare analysts.

"Altho Germany has countered with restrictions so drastic that she has retarded her war industries and war agricultural programs, she still must draw heavily upon the limited reserved stocks previously accumulated," the statement said.

GERMAN ARMOR CHECKS ALLIES' FLORENCE PUSH

New Zealanders Edge Up Ridge Above City.

ROME, Italy, July 31 (AP).—German troops, offering desperate resistance, have held 8th army veterans to small gains outside Florence in the last 24 hours, an allied bulletin said today. There were growing indications that the Nazi commanders were making a last ditch stand before the great art center in hopes of convincing Hitler of their loyalty.

A field dispatch said New Zealand troops late today were fighting up a 1,000 foot ridge six miles southwest of Florence and were within a few hundred yards of getting their first sight of the city.

The Germans showed surprising strength over the week-end, throwing concentrations of armor and infantry into fierce counter-attacks against the British, Indian, New Zealand, and South African forces five to seven miles from the city.

Artillery Punishes Nazis.

Severe losses were inflicted upon the enemy, particularly by massed artillery. Hundreds of allied fighters and fighter-bombers ripped almost ceaselessly at enemy positions.

West of Florence troops of an Indian division of the 8th army cleared the area between the Pesa and Elsa rivers south of the Arno except for a few small pockets of enemy resistance.

An allied spokesman said the Germans made a strong tank thrust Saturday night into San Michele, seven miles southwest of Florence, but withdrew to high ground north of the town.

The situation at Pisa, historic city near the west coast, was little changed. Artillery dueled along 30 miles of the Arno river but there was no indication that American guns had opened up on Pisa's buildings.

Impruneta Strongly Defended.

Eighth army units were reported firmly established along the Arno on the Americans' right flank, holding a stretch of the stream extending from Empoli eastward to the vicinity of Montelupo, about 11 miles from Florence's western edge. The enemy was said to be holding Impruneta, six miles south of Florence, in strength. British forces pushing along the upper Arno occupied Castelfranco, 19 miles northwest of Arezzo and 17 miles from Florence.

There was no report of further progress by Polish troops on the Adriatic coast. They last were reported fighting in the streets of Senigallia, 17 miles above Ancona. It was announced officially that the Poles killed more than 2,000 Germans and captured 2,800 in their recent successful drive on Ancona.

[Berlin's broadcast war bulletin said: "The enemy, owing to losses suffered yesterday, discontinued his big attacks on Florence. He confined himself south and southeast of the city to strong local attacks, which collapsed with heavy losses to the attackers."]

K-9 VET KILLED WHEN HE FAILS TO KEEP PEACE

Newark, N. J., July 31 [Special].—Toby, army dog, won't be on hand to welcome his soldier master home from war, for Toby is dead.

The 6 year old German shepherd was a veteran of the army's K-9 corps. Then a month ago he was demobilized at Fort Robinson, Neb., and sent home.

Toby couldn't readjust himself to civilian life. All might have been well if his owner, Lt. Angelo J. Sabia, 26, had been there, but Sabia was overseas with a tank destroyer unit.

"Tho Toby was kept on a heavy chain," said James J. Sabia, the lieutenant's father, "he would try furiously to attack whenever any one approached. At first he tolerated me, but later he tried to attack me, too."

Sabia felt he no longer could take chances. He had the dog put to sleep by the humane society.

1ST BIG FASCIST TRIAL IS NEAR, SAYS SFORZA

ROME, July 31 (AP).—Count Carlo Sforza, Italian minister without portfolio, said today in his role as commissioner for sanctions against fascism that the first big trial of a Fascist criminal will be held in Rome before the end of August.

"If it is not there is something wrong with our law," he said. There are 30 or 40 awaiting trial, he told a press conference.

The allied control commission has made the Italian decree for "sanctions against fascism" applicable to all allied military government territory south of army boundaries. This means that commissions set up in Rome and Naples will cease to function. The Italians themselves will carry on the work there. Sforza said the law at present calls for punishment of Fascist crimes, a purification of the state administration, and confiscation of Fascist profits.

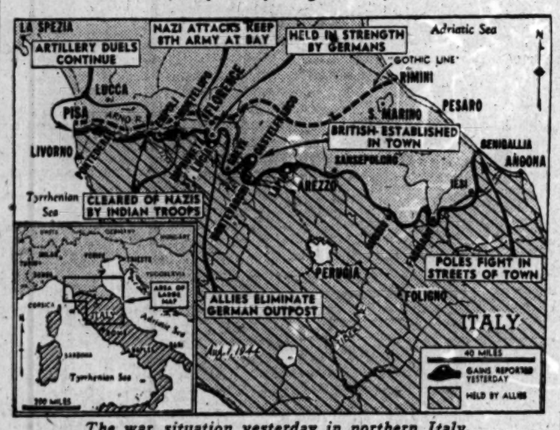
Nazis Strike Back on Italian Front

(Story in adjoining column.)



The war situation yesterday in northern Italy.

HEAR NAZIS MINE ITALIAN CHURCH AND BUTCHER 40

WITH THE 5TH ARMY IN SAN MINIATO, Italy, July 31 (AP).—Doughboys who captured this town just south of the Arno river eight days ago found 40 dead and 200 wounded civilians who, they were told, were victims of booby trapping and shelling after they had been forced inside a church by the Nazis.

Ed Zink, doughboy field correspondent, said doctors and a lawyer told him this story:

The Germans herded the Italians into the church saying they would be safe because American artillery did not fire at churches. The church was booby trapped, and explosions occurred as the Italians were forced inside. The Italians tried to break out. The Germans rolled a tank to the door and fired into the throng, including women and children. A booby trap placed under the altar went off as some of the throng were kneeling to pray.

SCHOOLS RETIRE $12,300,000 BONDS AT BANK TODAY

James B. McCahey, president of the Chicago board of education, this morning will turn over $12,300,000 of board funds for full redemption of more than half of the bonds isued in 1934 to pay 18,000 school teachers and other school employes after they had gone payless for months. The transaction will take place at the First National bank.

At the same time the board will call in an additional $10,000,000 of the 1934 issue, bearing 4½ per cent interest, which is being refinanced with a new issue at 1¼ per cent, sold recently to the Illinois company, a financial combine.

Retirement of the bonds lifts mortgages on several pieces of real estate owned by the board and listed as security when the loan was effected thru the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

FIREMEN FIGHT TO HALT PAINT FACTORY BLAZE

Sixty-five pieces of apparatus were summoned early today to fight a fire in one of the factory buildings of the Sherwin-Williams company, paint, manufacturers, at 116th st. and Kensington av.

Police reported the building which was on fire contained oil tanks and that there was imminent danger the flames would spread to other structures on the half-mile site of the company. No casualties were reported.

A 5-11 alarm and two special calls for assistance were sounded after the fire was discovered.

FIND FLORENCE ART TREASURES HIDDEN WITHIN GUNS' RANGE

WITH THE BRITISH 8TH ARMY SOUTH OF FLORENCE, Italy, July 31 (AP).—A treasure of Italian art has been discovered in houses south of Florence, still within range of German guns.

The paintings were piled in chateaus when custodians of Florence's masterpieces were worried about air raid damage. Arrangements are being made by the AMG [allied military government] to inventory the art and move it to safety.

Some of the masterpieces were discovered when Vaughan Thomas, British radio correspondent, and Maj. Eric Linklater, a novelist, went into a house to view a battle. A custodian revealed that others were in a number of houses.

Among the paintings are Botticelli's "Primavera," Uccello's "The Battle of San German," Cimabue's "Madonna," and works by Andrea del Sarto, Ducio, Giotto, and Fra Angelico.

MAGNETIC WIRE RECORDER PUT TO NEW USES

The magnetic wire recorder, which has had many remarkable military applications in the war, is being put to new uses, officials of the Armour Research foundation disclosed yesterday. The device, which records sound on hair-thin wire, was employed recently on Saipan by Lt. Larry Hays and Tech. Sgt. Keene Hepburn of the marine corps to record interviews with American war correspondents, it was announced. One was with Harold Smith of THE TRIBUNE, whose eyewitness description of the battle for Saipan was broadcast over W-G-N subsequently.

The research foundation disclosed that the recorder will be used in the middle east under the direction of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration.

The recorder will be employed to promote health and hygiene programs at camps now housing some 35,000 Yugoslavs and Greeks who escaped from Nazi-captured homelands.

YANKS FIND NEW SGT. YORK AMID KITCHEN'S POTS

He Hangs Up Apron, Shoots 17 Nazis.

WITH AN AMERICAN BATTALION ON THE ARNO RIVER, Italy, July 31 (AP).—As its choice for the "Sgt. York" of this war, this battalion suggests Sgt. William Montooth, a lean Tennessean. Montooth not only is bad news to the Germans, as the famous sergeant was in 1918, but has known Sgt. York for several years and lives close enough to call him a neighbor.

They live miles apart but Sgt. Montooth explains that he used to meet Sgt. York when he went to chicken fights, since he had to pass the York house to get there.

A farmer, Montooth entered the army in October, 1942, and the army made him company cook and barber, altho he was handy with a gun. He didn't like the assignment, and when his battalion was preparing to assault hill 634 in a bloody chapter of this Italian offensive, he got himself out of the pot and pan department and into the infantry.

He Shoots 17 Germans.

On the map, hill 634 is Monte Vaso, northeast of Castellina. It was there that this battalion had its roughest time as German artillery and a counterattack hurled the Americans back off the peak. But Montooth didn't leave right away.

When the shooting was over, Montooth's score was:

Seventeen Germans shot, at least eight being dead; two machine-gun nests destroyed, a number of American wounded carried out of shellfire, two Germans captured, a group of 18 wounded Americans reformed into a column and shepherded back to safety.

As a result, he was promoted to sergeant.

Birthday Gift: Five Bullets.

His company was among the first to enter the southern section of Pisa on July 23. Next day he celebrated his 30th birthday. A German sniper sent him a gift in the form of five bullets, one of which "missed me by 3 inches," said the sergeant.

"He not only tried to give me a birthday present but a birthmark as well."

Montooth's lieutenant was shot on a Pisa street by snipers and the sergeant went out and brought him back. His uniform still is bloodstained from that trip. In addition, his platoon was so far forward in the town that Montooth brought up rations to them for each meal under the eyes of snipers across the Arno.

Polikarpov, Ace Soviet Plane Designer, Is Dead

MOSCOW, July 31 (AP).—Nikolai N. Polikarpov, 52, designer of small, fast Russian fighter planes and one of the nation's greatest aviation engineers, died yesterday. He was a deputy to the supreme soviet and held the coveted hero of socialist labor medal. His planes played important roles early in the Russo-German war.

Seven Mile Ceiling

A new fighter airplane, the P-63 Kingcobra, was announced yesterday by the army air forces.

The plane will replace the P-39 Airacobra, of which it is an improved type, with a range 50 per cent greater, a ceiling of 35,000 feet, and speed approaching 400 miles an hour.

Major changes in the airplane, the war department announced, include a more efficient, low-drag, laminar flow wing of four feet greater spread than the wing of the P-39. The power plant is the latest Allison V-12 liquid cooled type, with a two stage super-charger. It is rated at 1,500 horsepower. The P-63 is a product of the Bell Aircraft corporation. It is armed with machine guns and a cannon firing thru the propeller hub.

1,500 DELEGATES OF ELKS START 4 DAY SESSIONS

More than 1,500 delegates from Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks lodges in every state, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Canal Zone last night attended the opening ceremonies of the organization's national war conference in the Stevens hotel. War activities of the order will be stressed at the grand lodge sessions during the four day meeting.

Delegates were welcomed to Chicago at the opening ceremonies by Justice Joseph Burke of the Illinois Appellate court on behalf of Mayor Kelly. Addresses were given by Frank J. Lonergan of Portland, Ore., grand exalted ruler of the lodge; A. W. Arnold, president of the Illinois State Elks association, and William F. Clarke, exalted ruler of Chicago lodge 4 and dean of DePaul university's law school.

Election of officers for the coming year will be held today. The program for today also will include tours to the Elks Memorial building at Lakeview av. and Diversey pkwy.

RIVER TRAFFIC SKIRTS WRECK OF TOLL BRIDGE

Chester, Ill., July 31 [Special].—Traffic on the Mississippi river, halted here since Saturday night when the 650 foot span of the Chester toll bridge was blown into the river, apparently by high winds, was resumed today with boats using an alternative channel to skirt the submerged span.

Col. Lawrence G. Feagin, district engineer, said this channel is 150 feet wide and 12 feet deep. He said boats will have to move carefully and mooring places will be designated at points up and down stream for tows awaiting their turn to pass.

The city of Chester, owner and operator of the bridge, is responsible for clearing the river of debris, said A. F. Griffin, chief engineer for the upper Mississippi division of army engineers.

HERO SEEKS GAS SO HE CAN VISIT SLAIN PAL'S KIN

Lt. Alexander Vraciu, the navy's top ranking fighter ace, spent part of yesterday looking around his Uncle John Tincu's plant at 4455 Rice st., which makes certain parts for the Grumman Hellcat fighting planes Vraciu flew so successfully in the Pacific. He wants to see more of the Chicago plants which are keeping him and his buddies in the air with such a wide margain of superiority.

The 25 year old pilot's record of 19 Jap planes shot down and 18 destroyed on the ground brought the war home to Uncle John's employes, who said they feel they have a real link with the firing line.

Tries to Visit Pal's Kin.

The rest of the day Vraciu spent in trying to convince the ration board at 3150 N. Luna av., where his uncle's car is registered, that he is entitled to 40 gallons of gas to visit the family of one of his slain buddies at Anderson, Ind. The buddy—Lt. Mark Bright—was killed in action in the Marianas Islands in the middle of June, and Vraciu has promised to tell the Bright family about it in person. He said he hoped the application will pass the loop ration headquarters where the local board sent it.

Alex is staying with the uncle, John Tincu, at 3355 New England av., because the city fathers in East Chicago, Ind., were caught unprepared for a civic celebration when Alex came home two weeks early. Alex—an officer and a gentleman—is staying away to give them time to perfect plans for his welcome. His home is at 13553 Pennsylvania av., in East Chicago.

Uncle Makes Out Check.

Lt. Vraciu deplored the publicity given his Uncle John's offer to pay him $100 for each plane downed. He said it made him sound mercenary. But when a photographer prevailed on his uncle to make out a check for $1,900 so that a picture might be taken, the flyer admitted it was a pretty good deal all the way around. Actual presentation of the check will take place when Alex is formally welcomed to East Chicago.

Displayed prominently in Uncle John's office is a picture of the lieutenant on the wing of a plane which bears nine Jap flags—each standing for a downed plane. Written across the bottom was the cheery message of a job well done: "O, it'll cost you all right, Uncle John."

Lt. Vraciu denied published reports that he "can't be bothered with women." He conceded that he has no special girl friend, but said that doesn't make him a woman hater.

"Women Are Wonderful."

"To the contrary," the tall good-looking De Pauw university [Ind.] graduate grinned. "I love 'em all and I'm going to date a lot of them while I'm here. Yes, sir. Women are wonderful."

After his 30 day leave is up, Lt. Vraciu thinks he may go on a bond selling tour. His plane has been shipped back, he thinks. And even tho he'd like more fleet duty he's willing to help with whatever Uncle Sam says comes first.

Plan to Rebuild, Enlarge Shattered Naval Depot

San Francisco, Cal., July 31 (AP).—The explosion shattered Port Chicago naval ammunition depot will be rebuilt immediately and enlarged to almost twice its present size, the 12th naval district reported today. The expansion program will involve an addition of 5,430 acres for storage space, costing an estimated $19,932,900. An explosion July 17 killed 322 men.

$1,900 Payoff

NAVY DISCLOSES BIG INCREASE IN USE OF ROCKETS

'Can't Get Too Many,' It Reports.

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP).—A tremendous expansion in the navy's rocket projectile program was indicated today in the announcement that ammunition procurement would be doubled, with rockets apparently accounting for most of the increase.

The navy said in a statement announcing an increase in munitions making that it "needs rockets—rockets to fire from planes and ships—and it is impossible to get too many of them."

It reported that the navy now procures about 100 million dollars worth of ammunition a month and that "when the rocket program reaches its peak it will amount to an additional 100 million dollars per month."

Rockets Widely Used.

The announcement calling for more rockets came in the wake of accounts from battle zones showing that rockets are becoming more and more important in reducing enemy strong points, strafing air fields, clearing invasion beachheads, and dealing with surface and undersurface craft. Rocket firing planes and rocket launchers mounted on surface vessels are being employed in the Pacific.

At least one report has been received of an attack by rocket firing navy planes on a U-boat in the Atlantic. German defenders of the European invasion coasts and the Mediterranean have been under rocket fire.

Huge Ammunition Needs.

Noting that this war requires unprecedented amounts of heavy ammunition, the navy said that production schedules of bombardment ammunition had been increased more than 3,000 per cent since 1942 and still "we are barely keeping our nose above water."

The navy also announced a cutback in the submarine building program, attributing it to the loss of fewer undersea craft than expected and the need for other types of ships or weapons. On the basis of submarines known to be building or in commission, the American undersea fleet apparently is in excess of 200.

CHECK MOUNTAIN FOREST FIRE.

Missoula, Mont., July 31 [AP].—A fire which raged over 3,500 acres of timberland northwest of Missoula was checked early today by 350 men two miles from the heavily wooded Flathead Indian reservation. Twelve miles of fire line was established around the blaze late yesterday after all available man power had been recruited, including German prisoners of war.

DOWNS 4 NAZI AIRPLANES IN 4 MINUTES ON 4TH

First Lt. Calvin D. Allen Jr., 24, of 1294 Scott av., Hubbard Woods, celebrated the Fourth of July by knocking four Nazi planes from the sky in as many minutes, the army reported yesterday.

Lt. C. D. Allen Jr.

Allen, according to the army report, was piloting the lead escort fighter on a 15th air force bombing mission over Bresov, Romania. As the bombers went in on their target, 15 Nazi ME-109's dived in on them.

Allen swung his Mustang fighter plane directly into the rear of the Nazi formation and shot down the trailing enemy plane. Without changing pace, he swept behind another Messerschmidt and sent it down in flames. Still holding in line with the German formation, Allen overtook a third, shot the canopy off, and saw the pilot slumped over his stick as he flashed past. Then Allen dropped down almost to tree top level and came up under a fourth German plane. He shot it down, but the Nazi pilot bailed out and the remaining Germans then fled.

MARTIN PLEDGES DEWEY VICTORY IN PENNSYLVANIA

Candidate, on Tour, Sees State's Leaders.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 31.—Gov. Martin of Pennsylvania today gave Gov. Dewey of New York a brass band reception, a public demonstration, a day of conferences with state leaders in politics, agriculture, labor and industry, and a promise of a Republican victory in Pennsylvania, which was carried by President Roosevelt four years ago.

Tomorrow Gov. Green of Illinois is to receive the Republican Presidential candidate for a similar program at Springfield, when Dewey stops off en route to a conference of 26 Republican governors at St. Louis on Wednesday and Thursday. He will see Missouri's Republican leaders Friday.

Gov. Martin told Dewey that for the first time since 1930 a majority of the new registrations in Allegheny county here are Republican. This steel mill community in 1940 gave Roosevelt a purality of 104,641 votes, more than a third of his statewide plurality of 281,187 votes.

Turnout Indicates Trend.

"The Republicans this year will win 50 of the 67 counties of the state," said the governor. "Willkie carried 42, losing heavily in Philadelphia, as well as Pittsburgh. I'm now surveying Philadelphia.

"The turnout today is a definite indication of the Republican trend. Business men, farm organizers and local labor leaders jumped at the chance to talk with the candidate."

Following the conference with Gov. Martin, Dewey met with 41 labor leaders, most of them officials of American Federation of Labor unions. The CIO and United Mine Workers had a few men present. To this group Dewey was said authoritatively to have given his personal assurance that he approved the party platform plank declaring a union member should serve in the cabinet.

Thomas Mallon, district director of the AFL at Philadelphia, said Dewey's labor views "got a very good reception in our group and we feel he is the candidate for labor to support."

Sees Farm Leaders.

Mallon said Dewey also promised that a labor man will replace Secretary of Labor Perkins.

In addition to the meeting with labor representatives Dewey held meetings with senatorial and congressional incumbents and candidates and with state and county officers of the Republican party; representatives of various farm groups, and businessmen, large and small. A special visitors list included J. Lester Perry, president of Carnegie-Illinois Steel; Roy A. Hunt, president of Aluminum Company of America, and H. S. Wherrett, chairman, Pittsburgh Plate Glass company and 102 others.

At the hotel after his arrival this morning Dewey spoke to the 50 newspapermen traveling with him and to others from Pennsylvania newspapers. He assailed the Roosevelt administration for failure to solve the employment problem before the war and for failure to plan for reconversion and for jobs after the war.

A dinner in the evening was attended by Gov. and Mrs. Dewey; Gov. and Mrs. Martin; candidates for statewide offices of the Republican state executive committee; G. Mason Owlett, national committeeman; Mrs. Worthington Scranton, national committeewoman, and other party leaders. Thereafter the special train departed, scheduled to arrive in Springfield at 10:48 tomorrow morning.

BROWNELL SAYS G.O.P. WILL WIN IN 25 STATES

New York, July 31 (AP).—Herbert Brownell Jr., Republican national chairman, predicted today that Gov. Dewey, Republican Presidential nominee, would carry at least 25 states with 311 electoral votes to win the November election.

Brownell made the prediction at a press conference in analyzing public opinion polls taken in six states—Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, New York, and Ohio—since Dewey's nomination.

Brownell said those states, with 142 electoral votes, showed an average gain by the Republicans of more than 5.5 per cent over 1940.

The other states Brownell claimed are: Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Vermont, Wisconsin, and Wyoming.

A majority of the 531 electoral college votes, or 266, is needed for election.

Marines' Setter Mascot Retired to Kentucky Hills

San Diego, Cal., July 31 (AP).—Corporal Jocko, English setter mascot of the 1st marine division, has been retired to the hills of old Kentucky. Jocko was with the leathernecks on Guadalcanal and Cape Gloucester. He returned with 3,000 veterans recently and was granted a formal discharge. He will go to Taylersville, Ky., to the home of Henry Marshall, father of a marine sergeant.

Five Injured

Frame building at 874 N. Franklin st. after collapse last night.

Pup rescued from basement of collapsed building gets a ride to engine house of fire company 14 with Engineer John McDonald.

Five persons were slightly injured when a two and one-half story frame building at 874 N. Franklin st. collapsed last night. The building was occupied by three families and a plumbing shop, owned by Robert Taylor.

Mrs. Vera Gray, 44; Robert Hill, 49; Mrs. Mae Freeman, 42, and Mrs. Daisy Simmons, 49, were treated at Henrotin hospital. Mrs. Robert Foster, 57, received cuts and bruises and was given first aid by police. All are Negroes.

Two pups, trapped in the basement of the wrecked building, were rescued by firemen.

REP. FISH FACES A STRONG FOE IN PRIMARY TODAY

Newburg Lawyer Has Two Party Backing.

Albany, N. Y., July 31 (AP).—Rep. Fish [R., N. Y.] opposed by Gov. Dewey and Wendell L. Willkie and promising libel action against Playwright Maxwell Anderson, meets stiff opposition tomorrow in the feature race of New York's primary election.

Fish opposes Augustus W. Bennet, Newburgh attorney, for the Republican nomination in New York's 29th congressional district. Bennet is the unopposed candidate of both the Democratic and American-Labor parties. Bennet will be on the ticket of the two parties in the fall election even if he is defeated for the Republican nomination by Fish.

The Fish battle, with the former All-American Harvard football tackle swapping verbal punches with opponents as balloting neared, overshadowed 41 other congressional, state senate and assembly contests.

Ready for Summons.

Tonight he answered a vain attempt of former New York city Magistrate Joseph Goldstein to serve him with a summons charging disorderly conduct by explaining he was "ready any time."

The Goldstein summons, presented at his New York city office while Fish was finishing his campaign at the scene of his legal residence in Newburgh, carried the notation "used offensive, disorderly, threatening, and abusive language."

Goldstein said he brought the action in connection with a newspaper article quoting Fish as saying "the Jews are more or less for the New Deal, unfortunately" and that "I think it would be much better for them if they split their vote between the two major parties."

Simply States Facts.

Fish commented that he simply stated facts as he did Friday, when Dewey announced opposition to his candidacy on the reputed ground he had "raised religious and racial issues."

In reply to Playwright Anderson, who caused republication under his name of an anti-Fish newspaper advertisment which Fish had termed libelous, the representative said he was anxious to file against Anderson, but was "too busy with the primary at present."

Earlier Willkie, unsuccessful 1940 Republican Presidential candidate, had offered to serve as attorney for Anderson in any Fish suit.

GREEN DECIDES FOR JUDICIAL VOTE IN JUNE

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Gov. Green will not call a special election to fill five vacancies in the Superior and Circuit courts of Cook county on Nov. 7 concurrent with the general election, he disclosed yesterday.

"The spirit of the law is to keep the judicial campaign separate from the general political campaign," the governor said. "In view of the closeness of an election solely for judges, next June, the vacancies will be filled then, rather than on Nov. 7."

The special election call would have had to be issued by today, because under election statutes amended to facilitate soldier voting the call for county party conventions to nominate candidates would have to be sent out by Aug. 3.

Three Republicans, Two Democrats.

In the Circuit court, Judge Walter J. La Buy was elevated to the United States District bench in May, shortly after the death of his colleague, Judge George Fred Rush. Previous deaths, all in Superior court, were those of Judge James F. Fardy, William H. McSurely, and Oscar F. Nelson. Three of the five were Republicans elected on Democratic coalition slates.

Calendars for the 1944-'45 court year starting in September are being drawn on the basis of the present number of judges. Until the vacation season opened, there were seven downstate judges employed here on a per diem system of payment.

Some Republican leaders are considering a return to coalition judicial slates next year, altho the Chicago Bar association in recent years has opposed the practice. When both parties sanction coalition, they agree upon the number of judges each shall have on a ticket, which is certain of election except for the threat of independent candidacies.

Leaders Go to Meet Dewey.

A number of G. O. P. leaders left Chicago to attend a meeting in the governor's mansion last night to complete plans for conferences today with Gov. Dewey, Presidential nominee. Among them were Sen. Brooks and Richard J. Lyons, nominee for United States senator.

Gov. Green termed it a "dress rehearsal" to make sure nothing goes awry during the closely packed program. Gov. Dewey is scheduled to meet with large groups representing candidates, women, labor, agriculture, war veterans, and industry. The first group, including present members of congress, is alloted an hour, but the others will have only 30 minutes each to pass along their views to Dewey.

Seeks Settlement

MRS. MARY DURKIN.

Mrs. Mary Durkin, 31, of 1156 E. 62d st., a clothing model, told Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court yesterday that she held no ill will toward her husband, Thomas, 31, a clerk, altho she charged he had been habitually intoxicated and cruel. Mrs. Durkin appeared in court with Atty. Victor Frohlich to seek temporary allimony, but said she might accept a settlement instead of alimony. Judge Sabath continued the hearing to Aug. 3. Mrs. Durkin is suing her husband for divorce. They were married Sept. 8, 1940, and separated July 13, 1944.

GOODLAND HAS A G.O.P. SLOGAN: EXPEL WASTERS

Gov. Goodland of Wisconsin proposed last night that the Republicans use "Turn the Wasters Out" as their campaign slogan. He changed trains in Chicago en route to St. Louis to attend the conference of Republican governors with Gov. Dewey of New York, the Presidential nominee. Goodland, 81 years old, expressed confidence that he would be nominated for governor in the Wisconsin Republican primary two weeks from today, and that Dewey and other Republican candidates would sweep Wisconsin in the November election.

"If the Republican party will turn out the Democratic burocrats and make a solemn promise to the American public that they won't be replaced by Republican burocrats, then we will be on the road to a return to representative government," Goodland said.

"The stake at issue is the perpetuation of our representative form of government and the liberties and free way of life of all our people."

MINE WORKERS DENOUNCE F. D. R. LABOR PLATFORM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 31.—The United Mine Workers Journal, in a blistering editorial attack on the Democratic platform today, charged that if the administration is given a fourth term it is fair to conclude that it will enact a man power draft act, and keep wages and jobs frozen.

The Journal, mouthpiece of John L. Lewis, mine workers president, asserted that a comparison between the Republican and Democratic platform shows the Republicans are pledged to unfreeze wages and jobs, restore the department of labor to union labor and administer the laws on a basis of equality while on all these points the Democrats told labor "No."

"The Democratic party is running on its record and consequently could not do anything other than indorse the wage freezing Little Steel formula and all other legislative devices and mechanisms designed to freeze the American workingman as a political servant of the New Deal party," the paper said.

Recalls His Intentions.

"This being true, it is only a fair conclusion that, if the Roosevelt administration is given a fourth term, it will carry out its oft stated intentions in the third term to enact a man power draft, such as the Austin-Wardsworth bill, which allegedly was prepared by Roosevelt's Wall street lawyer friend, Grenville Clark.

"It will maintain the Smith-Connally-Harness 'anti-strike' slavery bill. It will keep labor frozen to its jobs under McNutt's war man power commission. It will keep wages down under WLB's Little Steel formula and it will keep profits high until the war ends."

The Journal said that even when the "shooting is over" the New Deal will take its own time about proclaiming the war's end, "thus holding effective the temporary war powers given the administration as long as possible." It said the platform stated that the New Deal provided employment, "being careful not to mention the 10 million who had no jobs when the war broke out in 1939."

Harry Hopkins' WPA.

"Nothing is said about those $55 per month pick and shovel jobs under Harry Hopkins' WPA," the Journal added. "The Democratic platform says of all that—'we pledge the continuance and improvement of these programs'—so you know what to expect when the war jobs are thru."

The Journal observed that while the platform boasts that the Roosevelt administration saw the war coming and prepared for it, it does not boast of the sinking of eight warships at Pearl Harbor in the Jap attack and the "destruction of most of our oil tankers in the Atlantic ocean."

"As regards post-war programs, we find the usual run of political promises of nearly everything to everybody," the Journal said. "Even the bituminous coal industry is remembered with a general promise of possible enactment of a bituminous coal act on a maybe basis."

Historic Gavel

The Catholic Order of Foresters, which was founded in Chicago in 1883, will open its 32d annual national convention at 11 a. m. today in the Morrison hotel with delegates from 28 states and Canada representing the organization's 140,000 members. The meeting will end Thursday.

Marking his golden anniversary with the order, Thomas H. Cannon, 80 year old Chicago native, who was elected executive head in 1894, will preside. The Most Rev. Samuel A. Stritch, archbishop of Chicago, will preside at a solemn high mass at 10 a. m. in Holy Name cathedral preceding the opening of the meeting. A memorial mass honoring 136 members killed and 16 missing in action in World War II, will be held at 9 a. m. in St. Peter's church.

A victory banquet will be held tomorrow evening in the Morrison hotel honoring Capt. Albert J. Hoffman, Dubuque, Ia., chaplain, who lost a leg in Sicily.

Among other convention guests will be Thomas R. Heaney, whose father, Michael, was one of the order's founders.

Sheriff Michael Mulcahy will deliver the address of welcome at the opening session of the convention.

HILLMAN DARES MRS. LUCE TO RUN AND SHE TAKES IT

Greenwich, Conn., July 31 [Special].—Rep. Clare Boothe Luce [R., Conn.] said tonight she will seek reëlection to congress because she cannot ignore the challenge of her opponents that she is afraid of being "purged" by Sidney Hillman's CIO political action committee.

J. Kenneth Bradley.

Mrs. Luce issued a statement disclosing that "for personal reasons" she had considered not seeking renomination to her congressional seat. She did not explain these personal reasons, altho there has been speculation that she might withdraw from the race unless J. Kenneth Bradley, her political mentor, is retained as Republican state chairman.

Bradley Feuds with Baldwin.

Bradley, who is also Republican national committeeman, has been involved in a politica feud with Gov. Raymond J. Baldwin, his former law partner, and recently tendered the state committee his resignation as chairman, effective Aug. 8, "at the insistence of the governor."

"I know and the people of this district know that my voting record on questions affecting organized labor has been consistently in labor's behalf," Mrs. Luce said. "I refuse to let my opponents claim that Sidney Hillman of New York City controls the rank and file of labor in Bridgeport. I certainly shall run and win."

Gov. Baldwin, who will leave tomorrow for St. Louis to attend the conference of Republican governors with Gov. Dewey of New York, said earlier in the day he is hopeful Mrs. Luce will run and was confident that "if she does she will be elected."

Expect Showdown Fight.

Political observers said it now appears certain supporters of the governor and Bradley will fight it out to a showdown in the party organization next week. The Republican state convention will be held in Hartford Aug. 8 and the congressional convention, at which Mrs. Luce's renomination is regarded as assured, is in Bridgeport Aug. 9.

Mrs. Luce's reference to threats against her by Sidney Hillman's political action committee was regarded as referring to action of the CIO in Fairfield county last week in endorsing Margaret E. Connors, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for congress in the 4th district.

F. D. R. BREWING A NEW WAR, SAYS NORMAN THOMAS

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, assailed President Roosevelt, Gov. Dewey, Winston Churchill, Josef Stalin, and Sidney Hillman, head of the CIO political action committee, in an address to 32 friends and sympathizers last night in the Midland hotel, 172 W. Adams st.

He described Hillman as a "Machiavellian power politician," but asserted that he is controlled by the Kellys and the Hagues. Roosevelt's post-war schemes, he said, will lead inevitably to a new war. He doesn't like Dewey because he views him as no more progressive than Roosevelt.

"It is an outrage," he said, "that our boys should be fighting overseas to guarantee the French, Dutch, and British empires and to perpetuate a man like Stalin in Russia."

BOBTAIL BALLOT APPEAL HEARING SET FOR AUG. 10

Judge Evan A. Evans of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday set Aug. 10 for hearing on an appeal of a suit to compel Gov. Green to certify the so-called bobtailed federal ballot for overseas men and women. Judge Evans said he would seek to have two other judges present for the hearing after Atty. Urban A. Lavery, who filed the suit, pointed out that the certification would have to be made before Sept. 1 to be effective. The appeal is being taken from the decision of Federal Judge William J. Campbell, who dismissed the suit July 25 on the ground that the court lacked jurisdiction.

PAYING THE FIDDLER FOR STALIN'S TUNE.

Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, the premier of the Polish government in exile in London, is on a Canossan pilgrimage to Moscow to learn Stalin's intentions toward Poland and also toward himself and his colleagues.

The Russians have not been secretive in the matter. They have set up their own Polish committee of national liberation, which they denominate the provisional government of Poland, and they have made known their formula for the settlement of the Polish border question.

It is hinted that if the Poles will make no further trouble about the Russian seizure of the eastern provinces, which they held from 1918 to 1939, they may receive in compensation eastern Prussia, Danzig, and perhaps a westward extension of their frontier into pre-war Germany. This conceivably might satisfy the Poles, but if experience with European partitions and territorial rearrangements is any guide, it also will arouse a spirit of irredentism in Germany that will be an almost certain guarantee of another European war. The only Germany that would not plot for the return of the lands given Poland in compensation would be a nation reduced to a political and economic vacuum, a condition as difficult to maintain in politics as it is in physics.

The London press takes a most serious view of the situation, and asserts that the problem is as serious a one for America as for Britain. The Polish government in exile was of British sponsorship and it almost might be said of British creation, but Mr. Roosevelt, in pursuance of his interventionist policy, recognized it from the beginning. The American people, who received with astonished indignation the assurance a few years ago that their frontier was on the Rhine, are now being told that it is somewhere east of the Pripet marshes. However, neither we nor the British are going to wind up this war in order to fight a new one with Russia over Poland, and this the English press concedes.

It is alleged that the Polish committee in Moscow is "altogether unrepresentative" of the Polish people and that its sole claim is based on the support of the victorious Red army. History teaches that that is a fairly sound political base, at least temporarily, but the British feel that the principles of the united nations are being violated and the character of the peace will be compromised unless British and American persuasion prevails on Stalin not to make full use of his force.

The Polish situation is Mr. Roosevelt's baby. The cavalier treatment of the Polish government in exile, which he recognized, obviously makes a mockery of his Atlantic Charter and four freedoms. The Poles appear to be in line for the rulers, the kind of government, and the territorial limits that Stalin chooses to give them, and there is nothing Mr. Roosevelt can do except protest.

The Polish settlement was obviously a matter eminently suited for discussion at Teheran. Either that conference failed to produce the meeting of minds in complete accord that Roosevelt has assured us took place there, or Stalin made his plans for Poland clear and Roosevelt and Churchill have lacked the courage to confess their foreknowledge of what is happening.

In either event, Mr. Roosevelt is giving the world a demonstration that it is possible to pay the fiddler without calling the tune. The Russian successes in Poland would have been impossible without the vast aid that we have given Russia, both in direct lend-lease and in the equally valuable support of our air war and campaigns in Italy and France. By the time we began to put lend-lease aid into Russia in effective quantities Hitler was banging on the gates of Stalingrad and he had got there against the best opposition the Russians were able to offer from their own resources.

In Italy, where Russia did not contribute a single man or a single weapon to the victory, Stalin recognized the Badoglio government without consultation with the United States or Britain. He similarly recognized the De Gaullists in North Africa, and De Gaulle, who would be nothing without British and American support, now affects to dictate what our policies in France shall be.

As an ally Mr. Roosevelt has proved himself the greatest Good Time Charley in history. He gives our national substance without asking any return, and, naturally, he gets no more than he asks for. That is the diplomatic recommendation of the man who assures us that [illegible] is indispensable at the peace table.

THE MYTH OF NAZI PROPAGANDA.

Capt. William R. Denslow, former WGN writer, now with a tank battalion, writing to Larry Wolters of THE TRIBUNE told of the ingenuity of the American soldiers in keeping radios in service right up to the battle line. They get programs from the Allied Forces network, from the British Broadcasting company, and from the Germans. They prefer the German to the British.

"The BBC stuff is straight newscast and conservative," Capt. Denslow explained. "In England the result was that the G. I. man tuned in on the German radio stations which knew just what the American soldier wanted and gave it to him—the very latest songs, dance and light classical music—sprinkled liberally with propaganda, the latter making a good substitute for humor."

German propaganda as a menace gets a false rating in many places. British and American authorities can afford to give it freedom of the air and invite listeners to enjoy it. Herr Goebbels, the mastermind, never made a speech which did not start a laugh or cause a sensation of nausea. If the people of this country had heard nothing of nazism except what Hitler and his associates have said of it the regime and its works would be detested. In persuasiveness German propaganda is nil. It makes ferocity a substitute for suavity. If the purpose is to make enemies the success can be granted.

Even when the German propagandists have sense enough to decorate their programs to American taste in music, which would not require a profound understanding, they make their approach ridiculous by what they intend should be serious. They punish surreptitious listening to foreign broadcasts which in itself proves that they lack confidence in even domestic indoctrination.

It would, indeed, be a strange thing if men of unrestrained brutality had the ability to make their doctrines appear attractive or seductive. The only appeal they can make is to men of like mentality and disposition. There is censorship and suppression in allied countries but no suppression of the German radio. If it were a dangerous thing there might be an attempt to keep its message from the soldiers. They are free to listen to it because it defeats itself and affords amusement. A substitute for Jack Benny, Fred Allen, or Bob Hope is a German public speaker.

WHEN GOVERNMENT RUNS IT.

Two former officials of New Deal war agencies have been indicted, along with a group of filling station operators in Cleveland, on charges of fraudulent diversion of hundreds of thousands of gallons of gasoline. The federal district attorney in Cleveland asks further investigation, asserting that there have been many more frauds.

The fourth term manipulators openly advertise that they consider the OPA part of their political machine. A nonpolitical employe was ousted and civil service lists tossed up for grabs in order to install an Iowa patronage dispenser as regional director in Chicago. In Wisconsin a district official rejected the nominations for chairman of a local OPA board because all of the nominees, from a predominantly Republican community, happened to be Republicans. He said he wanted a Democrat.

OPA corruption, in Ohio and elsewhere, thus is New Deal corruption, and the OPA may be considered to be as corrupt as any other New Deal agency. It is run by the same kind of people. But the Ohio incident illustrates a graver danger even than New Deal corruption, which by now is an old story to the people of this country. It shows what is inescapable when government gets its hand on every business transaction of every citizen in the country, and attempts to regulate them all.

It is generally recognized that the system of free enterprise, of free markets governed by the laws of supply and demand, is successful and preferable because it supplies the wants of a people most economically. What is not so generally recognized is that the delicate adjustments of the free market and the profit system are the best automatic safeguard ever devised against the internal corruption which, wherever it exists, raises costs unnecessarily.

It is conceded that these protections are not effective in every instance, any more than the protections afforded by police, courts, and penitentiaries are effective in preventing all murders. Purchasing agents are sometimes bribed, influence is sometimes substituted for competition, corporate officers sometimes betray their stockholders. But these instances are relatively rare. They are rare because private business does not have to make use of such cumbersome devices as grand juries and civil service trials to rid itself of faithless employes, because the vast majority of people are honest and trustworthy, but most of all because experience has taught that in the long run honesty is the most profitable policy.

When government steps in to regulate every transaction of business these protections are largely wiped out. The complexity of industry and business forbids regulation by statute. Administrative power is delegated down thru the ranks of the bureocracy. Its members are constantly making rules and exceptions to rules. In so doing they are free of the restraints which make for honesty in a free competitive system.

They are frequently unfamiliar with the businesses they are regulating, and in every instance they have no personal interest in the welfare of those businesses. Their orders are bound to be based in many instances on ignorance or caprice, and too frequently are motivated by corruption. Corruption is inevitable when power is separated from responsibility. The only restraining influence is patriotism and in a burocracy intent upon perpetuating in office itself and its creators, patriotism, tragically, is not a controling force.

Editorial of the Day

A CHANGED HORSE.

[Bureau County (Ill.) Republican.]

Now that the Democrats themselves have changed half their ticket in the middle of the stream, we presume it will be permissible for the American voters as a whole to change the other half in November without being accused of "breaking up a winning combination."

Altho we usually like to root for the underdog we do not feel particularly sorry for Mr. Wallace because he got tossed back to his Iowa corn fields. He should have known all along what kind of folks he has been hobnobbing with these past years.

[illegible]n't help thinking that the Democrats were [illegible]for booing off the ticket a man who is even [illegible] symbol of Franklin Roosevelt's ideals than [illegible]velt is himself, but after thinking it over a few days, we're glad the New Dealers have set a precedent for making necessary changes — war or no war.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

THE WHITE HOUSE MUSE.

Thinking maybe a Latin phrase or two, lightly tossed in, set in italics and with the spelling carefully checked, might make these top-o'-the-Line paragraphs at least look something like the classic Collins prose, we dug up an old high school text and made quite a discovery. President Roosevelt writes poetry just like that of the late Publius Vergilius Maro [70-19 B. C.].

* * *

Arma virumque cano,
Troiae qui primus ab oris . . .

That's Vergil. And here, lifted from his celebrated Epistle to The Hannegan, are plaintive lines from the commander in chief:

All that's within me cries out
To go back to my home on the Hudson.

* * *

The deathless Latin and the deathless Harvardese are so beautifully suited to each other, identical in rhythm, that a sensitive ear might eagerly accept them as parts of the same lyric. Indeed, the temptation to take the c.i.c.'s words and expand them into a campaign song [celebrating His Great Sacrifice] would be overwhelming save for the discouraging paucity of acceptable rhymes for "Hudson."

* * *

Can it be that Mr. Roosevelt, tardily aware of having spent his earlier years on the wrong river, now seeks to correct the error by establishing his lares and penates forever on the Potomac?

TODAY IS MINE.

With cares and fears old Time has well enriched me;
But some are gone, while others still are haunting;
And if tomorrow brings some deeper trial,
That shall not grieve me.

For life is here, and who would flee its bondage?
The shuttles fly, the patterns still are woven.
Today, today! I view a morn resplendent,
And, joyous, speed me.

Thomas Curtis Clark.

Mystery of the Goldfish Bowl.

Folks who say a fish can't think have never heard of Marigold, a goldfish who committed suicide. No ichthyologist has been able to explain why she would rather die than live in a large bowl with two companions.

Six months ago Marigold was a happy young fish who came to live in a fine glass tank big enough for a carp. It stood in a sunny window which looked out on the garden, and Marigold had reason to be proud of her position as the most beauteous one of three. She flashed in and out among the shells and seaweed, but her expression was always one of mournful resignation.

Then came a morning when a spirit of insurrection took hold of Marigold. She swam with the conscienceless fury of a torpedo, banging her nose against the glass walls of her prison. Suddenly she discovered a fifth direction, and with a leap like a panther was out of the water. She landed with a soggy flop on the window sill. A firm hand returned her quickly to her element, and for hours she sulked at the bottom, under the shells. Next day she sailed forth again and landed in a flowerpot, only to be returned to the aqua.

After that Marigold sulked and torpedoed for a week, under watchful eyes. Finally she had her chance. There was no one home for a whole day. With one mighty leap she cleared enough space to land on the keys of a typewriter on a desk by the window. By evening Marigold was a very dead fish.

This story brings up a multitude of questions. What atavistic impulse drove her to suicide? Did the bowl contain some ineluctable frustration? Did infidelity in her ancestry make her part flying fish or salmon? Was she trying to write a final note on the typewriter? Was it amentia, dementia, psychosis, neurosis, or did she swallow a jumping bean?

Poor, dear Marigold! She died with the secret.

Frieda K. Zimmerman.

INDIGESTION AND DREAMS.

THERE is a definite alliance between what we eat and how we sleep. A hearty dinner at seven, followed by an exciting evening, and topped off with lobster, crepe suzettes, and a small cold bottle, may account for a considerable amount of restlessness. If slumber is deep enough, the individual may not be aware of many of the movements in which he engages.

Not long ago one of our physiologists made a series of observations on this problem. He was struck by the fact that a number of his subjects would develop twitching of the right foot, which would continue for an hour or longer. All were young people in excellent health. Every one would not exhibit this sign but those who indulged in fresh pineapple or watermelon manifested the symptoms.

The test meal was taken at 10 p. m. and all were tucked into bed an hour later. The jerking maneuvers began shortly thereafter and usually terminated about 2 a. m. They ceased only after the edibles had passed into the bowel.

Apparently there is an association between contractions of the gastric pouch and this phenomenon, which is related chiefly to the right foot. The chances are that the vigorous impulses centered in the "breadbasket". They were needed by that organ in order to get rid of its load. In fact, they were strong enough to affect the motor nerves elsewhere in the body. Thoroly cooked pineapple [canned] did not produce the slightest disturbance. This leads us to believe that the tough fiber of the fresh fruit remained undigested, requiring an unusual effort to propel onward an article which it was impossible to dissolve.

The lesson from this study is clear. We are justified in assuming that certain foods will be responsible not only for muscular response but marked irritation of the subconscious mind. In other words, the contents of the stomach, prior to retiring, will have a powerful influence on whether dreams are encountered or not. Depending upon the type of nutriment, the outlet [pylorus] will be obliged to relax and contract periodically. If this rhythmic reaction is sufficiently potent, the victim will dream. Complete mental rest occurs only after the gastric pouch has been emptied.

In the experiment in question, if the members of the group were aroused four hours after the onset of sleep, it was determined that this period was filled with visions. After recording their experiences, they again lost consciousness. Thereafter, no one recalled further fancies.

The antics of the stomach can prove about as annoying as pain. It seems obvious also that the intestine is not as sensitive. On the other hand, pressure within the bowel, due to accumulations of gas, will be sure to defeat repose.

If we would make the most of this interval of relaxation, late evening repasts should consist only of easily assimilated snacks, which will proceed without too much delay or fuss to enter the duodenum.

LEG DISORDER.

H. J. writes: The calves of my legs seem to be getting muscle bound. They feel tight and are greenish in color. Please advise.

REPLY.

A slight tendency to capillary fragility may be present, caused by the fact that your blood may lack platelets. Stimulate the circulation to the parts with contrast baths [hot and cold]. Send a stamped, self addressed envelope for suggestions on improving circulation to the legs.

BLEEDING.

P. J. writes: I have been told that it is helpful for a person with high blood pressure to have nose bleeds. Is this true?

REPLY.

No harm, if the vessels are well filled and the blood elements are at par. Not to be encouraged, however. There are better ways to control tension within the arteries—rest, light diet, good elimination, etc.

BABY'S BATH.

A. S. writes: I have heard that a newborn baby should not be washed until the navel has healed. If this true?

REPLY.

No. Follow the instructions of your obstetrician or nurse.

TOXIC STATE.

F. P. writes: Can uremia come from anything besides diseased kidneys?

REPLY.

No. On the other hand, poor function on the part of the renal organs may be due to insufficient circulation.

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

Item from the Western Front.

It's 30 miles from Bumsk to Wumsk,
The road is thick with mud,
A toiling army drags along
Thru peril, sweat and blood.
They've taken Bumsk at frightful cost,
Their sun begins to shine,
For some call Bumsk [or is it Wumsk?]
The pivot of the line.
So joyfully they forge ahead
To this strategic ground
At Wumsk—[or is it possibly
The other way around?]

Colloquy.

An American troop train and a train loaded with German prisoners of war stopped on adjacent tracks at a fueling station near Chicago recently. A Nazi who spoke English waved at an American soldier and shouted chummily, "Where are you going?" The reply was not encouraging. "We're going to get your father and brother," the American cried, "and bring them back to keep you company."

Offer Snapped Up.

For years we have been waiting for the proper ending to one of those cordial statements which few people ever mean, such as "Now if I can help you in any way, please call on me." Well, last week the National Federation of Press Women met in annual conclave at Northwestern university, and Robert James, acting mayor of Evanston, gave them the figurative keys to the city. If there was anything he could do for the ladies, he assured them, he would. With that he departed, and no one thought another thing of it until one of the ladies found a parking ticket on her car. She rushed to the telephone and called Mr. James. Had he been serious in his offer? Rather weakly he said, yes, yes, of course. Well, then, would he mind seeing that her traffic violation was taken care of? He did.

Furlough Defined.

There is one air corps private who is certain of a hotel room in Chicago when he comes to town some time around the end of August. The reason is the letter he wrote to the Bismarck hotel as long ago as June 21.

"According to the G. I. Webster," it began abruptly, "the term 'furlough' might be defined as a week of good women, bad liquor, and borrowed money.

"But to me a furlough means much more. It's the laughter of Chicago, the serenity of Michigan boulevard on a Sunday morning, the men in straw hats and shirt sleeves talking about the Cubs, mint-fresh young girls long limbed and tan and carefree in summer frocks, the tears and sighs that the cold stone Union station must observe, the luxury of doing the town, the camaraderie of a handclasp from midwestern friends, and — well, seven swift, sure, sparkling days in Chicago.

"I don't know much about the hotel business, sir. I just know you can pick up a phone and have breakfast in bed. I just know you can have clean sheets and quick service. I know that it's enchantment, but how you do it, I don't know. Maybe you don't know much about the army's business. Like furloughs, maybe. There's something about having a khaki-happy tailor that denies you the civilian right to write a letter saying: 'I'll be in Chicago at 8 a. m., Aug. 25. Any room?' You see, the army doesn't let you know days and hours of furloughs in advance. You hear a rumor here or a rumor there, and somebody says you're due for a furlough Aug. 20, or maybe Aug. 25.

"I know you're busy. I know you're turning fellows away. I know you can't accept every reservation, least of all one that can't be sure of the date. But, well, sir—I hope you might see your way clear toward saving a room for me around Aug. 25 or so. I don't know exactly why you should. Except—

"Except that a thousand-thousand miles away I sat on a strange, foreign land and talked about this furlough. And dreamed what it would be like. About seeing the girl friend and taking in the shows and looking in shop windows and walking down Randolph street when it's all lit up, and stopping at your hotel. These dreams mean a lot to a guy, sir, more than you would ever, ever dream. Will you think it over?"

THE CIO SLUSH FUND.

St. Louis, Mo., July 24.—I often listen to the discussions of the University Round Table. Yesterday's discussion as to the merits of the CIO political action committee left untouched, it seemed to me, the one question that is most often discussed among those of us who are less interested in the theories of this group and more concerned over its practices. No one discussed what may happen to the individual when an organization can demand financial contributions to a political party under threat of depriving a worker of his job.

A lawyer friend of mine told me that he was asked recently to give legal advice to a young woman who had come to him to ask whether she would have to contribute to a fund avowedly raised for the purpose of continuing in office the present Democratic administration. Her conviction was that the irresponsible spending of the New Deal was inimical to her country. She admitted her judgment might be wrong, but it was her own conviction, nevertheless. As a member of the CIO she was told by her union that she must contribute to this fund.

My friend was forced to tell her that since the plant where she worked was a closed shop, and she could not maintain her membership in good standing unless she contribute to the election of a party she opposed, he had to advise her to make her contribution and then vote as she pleased in the election. Or if her convictions were strong enough she could give up her job!

What is the difference between this action on the part of a union and the "unfair labor practice" of some employers in coercing workers? That is supposed to be illegal.

What is the difference between this practice and the practice of exacting tribute from government employes for political organizations? All honest men have decried that.

Is there any explanation that the CIO can offer in support of this policy and at the same time defend the civil liberties we are supposed to enjoy?

In most organizations people are free to resign if the policy of the organization does not conform to their ideas of right action. Such freedom of action is denied when the organization controls one's ability to earn a living. Is this demand, "Pay off or lose your job," consistent with American principles? Are such tactics to be made legal so that in the future we may all be subjected to such pressure tactics against our individual thinking?

To say we can vote as we please is dodging the issue. The principle of being forced by economic coercion to contribute to a cause in which we do not believe takes a good deal of explaining, it seems to me.

I was surprised that none of the learned gentlemen of the Round Table saw this as an issue in their discussion of the CIO and its political action committee.

A QUESTIONING HOUSEWIFE.

SEND THEM HOME.

Chicago, July 12.—As long as they are not going to draft fellows over 30, I think it would be a good idea to send home the fellows over 30 who are at camps. They could do so much more here at home. This would be only fair, especially to those married for 10 years or more. E. K.

THEY WOULD!

Bloomington, Wis., July 27.—Another New Deal trick—jerk the butter away from us just at the beginning of the corn on the cob season. FRANK RIESE.

ST. EDWARD OF MEMPHIS.

Memphis, Tenn., July 23.—In your editorial either last Friday or Saturday, you referred to the Kellys, Hagues, Flynns, and Crumps.

Mr. Crump did not attend the convention and it may surprise you to know that he suggested that the Tennessee delegation continue to vote for Gov. Prentice Cooper of our state for Vice President. Therefore, you can readily see that the Kellys, Hagues, and Flynns, had no influence with the Tennessee delegation in their effort to nominate Sen. Truman.

There is less graft and more efficiency in Memphis and Shelby county than any place in America. Any casual observer will tell you that. Mr. Crump has participated in the game for 42 years—has been elected 23 times himself and has assisted in 78 other general elections—a total of 101 elections, without a defeat.

Mr. Crump has a unique record—not only successful in politics, but successful in business and every line of endeavor. He and his family have stood at the top in this community for years, in a social, civic, business, and political way. While very naturally, he has some political enemies, at the same time you can't get a man or woman to say that he has ever grafted to the extent of one penny, and he will not countenance it in others.

Memphis and Shelby county have fine, upstanding, honest officials. If you were to take the time to inquire about Mr. Crump, you would quickly place him differently than what is usually termed as a "boss." He works with and for the people.

CONTRACTOR'S LIEN.

Chicago, July 20.—We hired a contractor to dig and connect our sewer, and when the job apparently was finished we paid him. Later we found that refuse was seeping into our back yard and we called him back to complete the job. He presented another bill, which we refused to pay. Now he has placed a lien against our home. We signed no contract and have a receipt showing we paid for a complete job originally. What authority does he have to place such a lien and what procedure can we take? H. S.

Any person who by contract with the owner, or with one whom the owner has knowingly permitted to contract for improvements, furnish labor or material used in such improvements, is a contractor and is given a lien by Sec. 1, Chap. 82, Ill. Rev. statutes.

Sec. 7 says "no contractor shall enforce such lien [against third parties] . . . unless within four months after completion . . . he shall either bring suit . . . or shall file . . . a claim for lien. . . . Such claim for lien may be filed at any time . . . and as to the owner . . . within two years after completion." The safe course is to observe the four months' requirement and ignore the inconsistent "at any time" wording.

If the owner wishes to dispute the lien, his remedy is to serve demand that suit be commenced. If the lien claimant does not comply within 30 days or release within 10 days after additional demand, he forfeits $25. Secs. 34 and 35.

Dear public...

The other day 800 WAVES came aboard at 1700 (5 o'clock to you) and in no time they were shooting the breeze in our Walnut Room celebrating their second birthday party. Scuttle butt (the grapevine) reports the chow was wonderful and the music from Great Lakes super. They told us our party was definitely 4.0 which is Navy lingo for tops.

FRANK J. LOESCH, CRIME CRUSADER, 92, DIES IN EAST

Leader of Fight in 1928 on Public Enemies.

Pennsylvania railroad and the Chicago Union Station company. He was content with this field until Chicago's fair name was endangered by gibes the world over that the city was infested with crime. He came to the rescue.

In addition to his other interests, Mr. Loesch was active in Protestant religious circles in Chicago, and was senior elder of the Fourth Presbyterian church.

He was first vice president of the Chicago Historical society, trustee of the University of Dubuque, honorary director of the Christian Industrial league, a director of the Protestant Charities of Chicago, and for several years served as general chairman of the Church League of America.

Married While in School.

Mr. Loesch outlived all other members of his family. His closest competitor for longevity was his grandfather on the maternal side, who served under Napoleon, later settled on a farm near Buffalo, and lived to be 87 years old. His own father was a contractor who died at the age of 72.

While still in law school Mr. Loesch married Lydia T. Richards of Chicago. Their children are Winifred L. [wife of Frederick Z. Marx], Richards L., and Joseph B. Loesch, both of Montrose, Colo. Another daughter, Angeline L., who was the wife of Dr. Robert E. Graves, died in 1940. Their mother died in 1924 and in 1925 Mr. Loesch married May Browning Bauscher of Cooperstown, who survives him. For many years the Loesches made their home at the Drake hotel.

Despite failing health, Mr. Loesch maintained a lively interest in national and international affairs in the last years of his life and on his 91st birthday in 1943 spoke out sharply against any measures that tend to curb the liberty of the people.

GIRL, 6, CARRYING ICE CREAM CONE, KILLED BY TRUCK

Carrying an ice cream cone that she had purchased a moment before, Josephine Lee, 6, of 236 W. Cermak rd., was killed yesterday when she was struck by a truck driven by Edward Tighe of 4846 Wells st. The accident occurred as the child was crossing the street at 2317 Wentworth av. She was a summer pupil at the Chinese Christian Mission school, 2301 Wentworth av.

Miss Winifred Dietzen, 33, of Danville, Ill., was killed and William Cunningham, 29, also of Danville, was seriously injured yesterday morning when their automobile collided with the Southwest Express of the Rock Island railroad at the 115th st. crossing near Vincennes av. Miss Dietzen was an auditor and Cunningham a claim adjuster in the Danville offices of the Hall Freight Lines. They were on their way to the company offices at 2278 Union av. here. Cunningham was driving. The train, en route to Texas, was delayed 25 minutes.

Forty-six automobile accident deaths were reported in Chicago and Cook county last month compared with 24 in July, 1943, Coroner A. L. Brodie said last night. There were 41 automobile fatalities in the city and county in June this year. In the first seven months of this year there were 304 automobile accident deaths compared with 253 in the comparable period last year, Brodie said.

ARGENTINA WILL FULFILL PACTS, SAYS PRESIDENT

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 31 (AP).—Gen. Edelmiro Farrell, president of Argentina, who is touring Corrientes province, said today the government "has fulfilled and will fulfill all pacts and obligations it has undertaken."

"Nothing will cause us to deviate from this conduct," Farrell said.

"We aspire to real sovereignty and fraternal comradeship with all the countries of the world, which has not affected or does not affect our honor or chafe our stainless tradition."

Woman Fatally Injured in Fall from Trolley Car

Miss Myrtle I. Richardson, 52, of 4816 N. Hermitage av., a housekeeper, was fatally injured yesterday in a fall from the rear platform of a surface line car at Lawrence av. and Broadway. F. H. Tyler of 1746 Wallen av. was the motorman.

'MISSY' LE HAND, F. D. R.'S FORMER SECRETARY, DIES

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP).—Miss Marguerite Alice [Missy] Le Hand, who was President Roosevelt's personal secretary for 22 years, died today in Chelsea, Mass., of cerebral embolism.

Her death was announced by the White House, where it was said she had been stricken unexpectedly. She retired as the President's secretary Dec. 18, 1942, because of illness, but had improved somewhat since then. She was 46.

As Mr. Roosevelt's "right hand," Miss Le Hand had what was described as one of the most important secretarial jobs in the world. She knew national and international secrets of great import—and she kept them.

'Round the Clock Worker.

Until she left the White House hers often was a 'round the clock task, especially during the war. All telephone calls went first to her at night, and if she decided the message or person calling warranted it, the President was awakened.

From the President down Miss Le Hand was known affectionately as "Missy." She got the nickname when the Roosevelts' daughter, Anna, now Mrs. John Boettiger, tried as a child to pronounce the name of her father's new secretary.

"Missy" became Mr. Roosevelt's personal secretary in 1920, during his unsuccessful campaign for Vice President, and remained with him until her retirement.

Lived in White House.

She lived in the White House most of the time and worked in an office next to that of the President.

"Memories of more than a score of years of devoted service enhance the sense of personal loss which Miss Le Hand's passing brings," the President said in a statement after being informed of her death. "Faithful and painstaking, with charm of manner, inspired by tact and kindness of heart, she was utterly selfless in her devotion to duty."

COMMERCE LAW LEAGUE NAMES NEW OFFICERS

Charles L. Cunningham, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was elected president of the Commercial Law League of America at the closing session of the 49th annual meeting of the executive committee last night in the Drake hotel.

MRS. MacMAHON, CHICAGO CHURCH LEADER, IS DEAD

Mrs. John MacMahon, wife of the chairman of the board of Reid, Murdoch & Co., wholesale grocers, and a leader for many years in Chicago church and women's organizations, died yesterday in her home at 1367 N. State st.

Mrs. MacMahon, the former Tena Farren, was born in Chicago 80 years ago, the daughter of John Farren, superintendent of the Rock Island railroad shops. She was a life director of the Chicago chapter, American Red Cross, and held an honorary degree of doctor of laws from Loyola university.

She was vice president of the board of managers of the Illinois Training School for Nurses from 1916 to 1928; diocesan director of the National Council of Catholic Women, 1923 to 1927; president of the Catholic Women's league of Chicago, 1909 to 1911; member of the Chicago Board of Education, 1911 to 1918, and a member of the Women's City club of Chicago.

She also is survived by her son, J. Ferron MacMahon. Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow in Holy Name cathedral.

TWO TOWNSHIPS ASK TAX RELIEF FOR PUBLIC AID

Representatives of Bremen and Bloom townships appeared before the Illinois public aid commission yesterday seeking relief from headaches growing out of Cook county's new 100 per cent property valuation assessment.

State law requires townships to levy at least 3 mills for relief purposes to be eligible for state aid. Bremen township, altho it raised $15,000 for relief this year, the same as last, levied less than the required 3 mills because of the higher valuation.

Bloom township, while it levied the 3 mills, thus theoretically increasing its relief fund from $60,900 to $125,000, was able to sell only $31,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants, because legal opinions held that was all the taxes it could expect to collect. But the attorney general has ruled that a township must consider 75 per cent of its levy collectible and until that much is spent it cannot receive state aid. In the case of Bloom township this would be about $93,000.

The commissioners expressed sympathy for Bremen township, but said they could do nothing to aid. They offered to help Bloom township sell some more of its tax warrants.

DEATH NOTICES

—In Memoriam—

BURLAND—May Lee Burland. In memory of our dear mother, who passed away seven years ago today.

Not just today—but every day,
In silence we remember,
George, Oliver, Maud, and Mabel.

COTY—E. Louise Coty [Emma L. Tompkins]. In tender memory of my beloved sister who passed from this life Aug. 1, 1938. ALICE B. WILLSON.

CRARY—Clarence John Crary. In cherished memory of our dear husband and father who passed away one year ago today. Memorial mass Tuesday, 7:30 a. m., St. Thomas of Canterbury church.

LOVING WIFE AND SONS.

KRUSE—John C. Kruse. A tribute of love to the memory of our dear husband, father, and grandfather, who left us so suddenly two years ago, Aug. 1, 1942.

A husband and father so fine and true,
A man whose work only God knew,
Dear Dad you passed your test,
So God called you to heavenly rest.

LOVING FAMILY.

MEINHARDT—Ellen L. Meinhardt. In loving memory of my beloved wife on this, our 38th wedding anniversary.

Your gentle face and patient smile
With sadness I recall,
You had a kindly word for every one;
You died beloved by all.
Your voice is mute and still your heart,
That loved me well and true,
Yes, bitter was the hour to part
From one so good as you.
As always, your loving husband,
DR. MAXIMILAN MEINHARDT.

Boost Chicago as War Time Vacation Area

BY JUDITH CASS.

PLUGGING Chicago as the most nearly perfect summer resort in the country, the office of defense transportation, which is pushing a campaign for stay-at-home vacations, praises the city's park systems, beaches, lake cruises, band concerts, sports facilities, museums, libraries, and entertainments. "There is nothing you can do elsewhere that you can't do here," the ODT contends, while reminding prospective vacationers that traveling space is needed for service men and the wounded.

Many Chicagoans are "discovering" their city, now that crowded trains, lack of porters, long waits at depots, and other traveling discomforts are discouraging trips to distant places. An itinerary for a seven days' vacation in Chicago was made up by the Chicago Recreation committee and is contained in its booklet, "Vacationing in Chicago." A typical day includes a visit to the commission markets in Randolph st., the Garfield park conservatory, Douglas park [for boating], the Art institute, dinner in the loop, and an evening at Ravinia or Grant park, for music, or at Riverview.

Here and There.

Short trips to nearby resorts are not entirely frowned upon by transportation officials, tho they seek to cut all travel as much as possible, especially now that the traditional summer vacation season is about to approach its August peak. Large colonies of Chicagoans are in residence in Michigan's and Wisconsin's pine country, and at Desbarats, Ont.

In Desbarats for the month of August are Miss Mary Birch Broeksmit and her sister, Laura, who are occupying Mr. and Mrs. G. Carson Ellis' cottage. Mary will instruct young David Ellis in various sports until school opens. Her brother, Lt. [j. g.] John S. Broeksmit Jr., was in this country briefly last week, and their mother went east to see him, returning to Lake Forest over the week-end.

The Alexander D. Bells and their children, Chartis and Stewart are occupying the Desbarats cabin of his parents, the Allen C. Bells, and have with them five Lake Forest youngsters, Dick Mabbatt, John Hoffman, Tim Morse, Adlai Stevenson, and Robert Dunham. Young Mrs. Bell's mother, Mrs. Stewart Johnson, will visit them later. Mr. Bell's brother, Gordon, now is a captain in the army, stationed in Washington, D. C.

At Lake Wipigaki, near Lac du Flambeau, Wis., are the Holman D. Pettibones, their daughter, Miss Barbara Pettibone; the Roderick McKenzies and their daughters, Sally and Helen Ann; the William T. Bacons and Mrs. Bacon's mother, Mrs. Frank W. Smith; Mrs. Samuel Greeley and her daughter, Bitsy, and Mrs. Elliott Donnelley. Mr. Donnelley commutes to the resort on week-ends, and Mr. Greeley goes north occasionally. Mr. McKenzie's father, William D. McKenzie, and his daughter, Mrs. Alfred M. Price, and her child, will join the younger McKenzies shortly. Ensign Price is serving in the Pacific.

At the Huron Mountain club in Michigan are the Stephen S. Gregorys and their children, and Mrs. James H. Douglas Jr., and her two older sons, Jimmy and Robert. The Allan M. Clements are in Northport Point, Mich.

Lt. [j.g.] Frank E. Mueller Jr. is spending a short leave with his wife and baby near Minocqua, Wis. The Muellers lived in Gulfport, Miss., until he was transferred recently to New Orleans.

On the Calendar.

Thru the Looking Glass

The other day a friend remarked that her hands felt and looked rougher and coarser now than they ever did during the winter months. "But then," she said, "I was using my hand cream regularly." Immediately after she made the statement she laughed and said she supposed that proved she ought to use the preparation all year round.

We didn't argue with her. This department has urged women to use a hand cream or lotion no matter what the month of the year, and she was simply proving our point.

Too many of us feel that warm weather is the time to forego the use of these products, forgetting that the hands, while not subject to the rigors of weather, are irritated by heavy work, harsh soap, and water even when the temperature soars. This is particularly so in these days when so many women are doing their own laundry and housework and often a bit of gardening on the side. While the hands may not be chapped, they look dry and feel like sandpaper to the touch unless they're treated with soothing creams and lotions.

The extra-rich preparations that are so good for winter use can be put away during the summer months, but they should be replaced by a lighter cream or lotion that will do an effective job of smoothing and softening the skin. And the substitute should be used just as faithfully as its cold weather sister.

There is more than a little sense in a program of continued hand care. The hands that are well cared for during the summer months present fewer problems when cold weather sets in, and there is the added satisfaction of having pretty hands at all times. But more important, continued and consistent care insures hands that will stay lovely thru the years rather than growing old before their time. LOUISE DOOLEY.

Several Factors May Cause Child's Discontent

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

A full company of 150 WACs may be recruited from applications taken by army personnel stationed at the recruiting exhibit at State and Madison sts., which closed at 10 o'clock last night. More than 300 potential enlistees also were interviewed.

Military personnel associated with this and other WAC recruiting campaigns said the drive resulted in more enlistments, more applications, and more inquiries than in any previous effort covering the same period of time.

Coöperating in the exhibit, which opened July 7, were the army, Douglas Aircraft company, Inc., Park Ridge, and Mandel Brothers' store. The army staffed the center, the aircraft firm provided the nose of a C-54 transport plane, and the store management provided the space in two converging windows at the Madison st. corner. More than 200,000 persons visited the display.

The ranks of women employes at the Bendix Aviation corporation, Illinois division, 505 N. Sacramento blvd., have been increased this summer by several Chicago area school teachers who, foregoing their three month vacations, decided to work in war materials instead. All are special inspectors.

Feeling that it is her duty to give her leisure to helping win the war, Nina Grace Smith, a teacher of English at the Oak Park and River Forest Township High school, signed up early in the summer. The same sentiment brought Mary Hawkins, mathematics teacher in the school, to the Bendix employment office.

Audrey Yonke came all the way from her position as English teacher in Warsaw, Wis., to work at Bendix. Her home is in Oak Park.

Three other Oak Parkers, Geraldine Beh, a school librarian for intermediate grades; Lois Quinn, fourth grade teacher in Rockford, and Elizabeth Phimister, music and library techniques instructor in Oak Park elementary schools, complete the list of Bendix's teachers in war work.

Proceeds from a benefit dinner-dance and entertainment given by women who are first shift relief operators and office employes at Bendix have gone to purchase a baby grand piano for the patients' recreation room at Vaughan General hospital, Hines. The camp and hospital committee of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross acted as liaison in arrangements for purchase of the instrument.

Some of the funds for the piano were obtained thru an unusual project. Employes stepping on the industrial scales to be weighed drop coins into a box marked "for wounded service men."

The Navy Sisters' and Wives' club, of which Mrs. Mary Bird is president, will have a beach party at the Indiana dunes next Sunday. Members will assemble at the pavilion near Tremont at 11 a. m. and then go to Tremont beach for swimming and a basket lunch. Miss Margaret Sachs will be chairman of the day.

The Navy Mothers' club, with Mrs. C. Ashley Deneen as president, is busy packing at 335 N. Michigan av. for removal of the organization's headquarters to a new address, tentatively chosen to be in the neighborhood of the La Salle Street station.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Cocker Spaniel Off to War as Flying Fortress Mascot

Ike, a black cocker spaniel puppy just nine weeks old, is off to war. Formerly the property of Mrs. R. O. Wismer of Elmhurst, Ike has a new master. He is Lt. Daniel Watson of Baltimore, Md., son of the P. S. Watsons of Congress Park. Lt. Watson pilots a B-17, and Ike is to be mascot to the 10 man crew.

Parents Should Seek to Trace Trouble Source

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Among all the kinds of behavior that baffles parents, I believe general discontentedness in their child is one of the most puzzling.

Frequently it is the child who seems to have everything—toys and playthings as well as care and attention—who is a discontented child. These children seem to oe discontented in spite of having all that should make them happy and contented.

But, as a matter of fact, if we look into the reason for their discontent, we shall find that they are not supplied with all the ingredients that lead to contentment. One small girl I know was discontented because she was actually satiated, surfeited with too many toys and too many playthings—in fact, too much of everything and everybody. Another child I know was discontented because she was surrounded by grownups who devoted most of their time to entertaining and amusing her. She developed into a passive child—always on the receiving end—when, being a child, she should have been the active one—doing things herself, creating play and amusement, trying, experimenting, failing, succeeding, and in general losing herself in the big business of a child's life.

Another child I know was discontented—this one happening to be a fairly young child who could just walk and talk—because, altho beautifully kept and living in a charming, immaculate home, she was really neglected spiritually. The mother was the perfect housekeeper and everything went like clockwork. But she was without real interest in her curious, inquiring, learning, cozy, companionable little girl who already was a person to be reckoned with, to be listened to, to be thought worthy of a mother's time and attention.

These three discontented children, I think, illustrate quite well most of the important reasons for that state of mind occurring in childhood, where fun and activity and contentedness and active happiness should be the order of the day. These three instances offer quite obvious cures.

But there are other reasons why children grow discontented. Certainly if you see such a state of affairs becoming chronic in your home, whether the children are little ones or whether they are well up into their teens, it is important for you to dig around and figure out why.

Health always is a good starting point. The whole layout of a child's day is another point of departure: exercise, fresh air, rest, play, companionship. The element of variety is another thing to consider in a child's life. Celebration of holidays, birthdays, or special occasions created just for fun are another element because they give color to a child's life. And certainly school is a factor to be considered.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

And Tomorrow.

In a Metropolitan life insurance report mention is made of the successful enrollment of new workers thru the friendly suggestion of employes of a company. Rustless Iron and Steel corporation reports more than 90 per cent of its applicants come at the request of older employes. More than half of all new Douglas employes come thru personal solicitation of relatives and friends already on the job.

Illinois Bell Telephone company distributes a booklet to employes in which Dorothy, a telephone operator, gives the lowdown to Marge, a friend. "The main thing is to find work you'll like and do well," advises Dorothy. "No matter what the job is — it's not the job for you unless you like it. So, if I were you, Marge, I'd look around and try to find out what jobs are open in town. Then, decide where that smile of yours will be most appreciated and where you will be happiest, and then go after that one. I mean — job.

"I've found that it certainly pays to look at a job from as many angles as possible. Money? Sure! But that's just one of the angles. Another one's the surroundings and the kind of people you'll be working with — and for. And how they're likely to treat you and whether you'll have chances for promotion, and vacations with pay. And, of course, you want to work for a company that'll be here today and tomorrow, too."

More and more white collar girls are thinking about "here today and tomorrow." The company which recognizes this stands a better chance of finding good employes.

An office full of charm,
Is it strange the boss' wife
Views it with alarm?

For the Dog Days.

Now for the dog days — name two words which have opposite meanings but which are used synonymously.

One such pair is BEST and WORST. One may BEST his opponent or WORST him with precisely the same result.

Can any of the white collar girls dig up another pair? I know there are others but they don't come to me just now.

Research Rewarded.

After much research and wonder about the subject, I finally have discovered when those typewriter drawings are made. They are made by girls like the one occupying the apartment above mine who starts typing at 11:30 in the night and labors until 1:30 in the morning.

I am a working mother whose children gave me a Swami board. I asked it: "Will the girls in our department get a raise?" Swami answered "Yes." Shall I tell the boss? MAMA RUTH.

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Not much has changed about "Personal Appearance" in its Studebaker reincarnation, except that 10 years ago it was new and last night it was warmed over. It is still a tart play about an itinerant movie star who answers to the same description, and about the only difference in Gladys George's performance is that where she used to be a golden blonde with a bob she now is a platinum ditto with curls to the fore and waist length tresses aft. She remains a susceptible, not to say inflammable damsel of Malapropian vocabulary, a deadly lisp that means "twouble," and a train kicking technique that makes it go double. It isn't her fault that scenes that used to be bombshells have gone slightly dud. The warmed over dish, however identical, rarely has the kick of the original.

But if you never saw "Personal Appearance" in its shiny days, you may not mind. And if you did see it, a few references to such latter day stars as Veronica Lake, Orson Welles, and Errol Flynn are supposed to yank it out of the Mary Pickford, Wallace Beery vintage from which Carole Arden originally stemmed. It doesn't matter much. For the play is concerned with Hollywood only by implication. It is firmly grounded in Pennsylvania where Miss Arden and entourage are stranded by a broken down Isotto Fraschini, and where she decided to add a young filling station attendant to her collection. His girl objects and so does her maiden aunt, one of those hearty spinsters the drama dotes on, and so does Miss Arden's press agent, an individual hired by her husband, Benjamin Z. Fineberg, president [with an accent] of Superfine Pictures, Inc., to stave off just such foreseen complications. The only one in favor of Bud's trip to Hollywood is the girl's mama, who has delusions of ancestral grandeur, and convenient headaches.

So it all ticks off on familiar schedule, at its best a vitriolic satire on the movie queen set, otherwise a domestic comedy undistinguished in writing or staging, and played in the usual groove. Eula Guy is back in her old role as the salty spinster, a part she savors almost to the point of smacking lips, and Florence Robinson is again the movie struck neighbor. Frederic Tozere is new as the press agent, the best part next to Miss George's, and he plays it deftly, despite that type casting resemblance to a gangster. And Charles G. Martin is excellent as the literal Bud who never quite knows what all the shooting is for, tho while it lasts there is plenty.

Meanwhile, in your odd Studebaker moments, I think you will want to read Miss George's truly remarkable biography. It seems that when she was 3 she suffered an attack of malaria and spent several years in a hospital. Yet this remarkable child was able to attend various boarding schools until she was 8, after which she was tutored by private teachers and her father, the latter an Oxford graduate. Her pet economy is false eyelashes.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 31.—Since Bing Crosby's gone to the South Pacific [without me, I regret to say], I'd like to tell you he took along some fine entertainers, all unknown to us but not to the soldiers. He wanted it that way. Jeanie Durell has spent a year and a half entertaining our men overseas. Bing asked her to go along. Others are Joe de Rita, Darlene Garner, an acrobatic dancer and singer, and for musical background, Baxter and Harris, who play accordion and guitar. I predict on their return their names will be better known than those of many stars who've gone over. The old groaner has a way of putting the spotlight on his people instead of himself. . . . Janet Blair's giving talented girls from her home town, Altoona, Pa., a break. One youngster will be selected each year by Janet's childhood teacher, Ruth Barnes, and Janet will pay all expenses to Hollywood and sponsor her career. Hurrah for the home town—or should we say Janet?

Just Among Us Girls.

Alice Faye's friendly with Twentieth Century, but still won't talk about future pictures. . . . Brenda Marshall says that any one who has gas coupons can drive her husband's station wagon from Dallas, Tex., to Hollywood. He left it there when the army moved him to Yale. . . . Merle Oberon, before finishing "Dark Waters," was threatened with appendicitis. She's now resting at Malibu, hoping to avoid an operation. . . . Two in one: Sonja Henie throwing a farewell party for Capt. Dan Topping before he pushes overseas. Ann Warner set for an unveiling, of Ann, by Salvador Dali while celebrating Jack's birthday. . . . Linda Darnell, who came to life in "Summer Storm," has the inside track in the revival of "Mayerling" which Seymour Nebenzal, who did the original in Paris with Charles Boyer and Danielle Darrieux, will direct. . . . Rosalind Russell's brother, Lt. James Russell, is here visiting. He's been flying in Italy. Her husband, Maj. Fred Brisson, may be sent overseas. . . . No dogs are allowed on the set of "A Tree grows in Brooklyn." They're taking no chances on that tree.

Praying and Hoping.

Pvt. Bob Porterfield, of Barter theater, Abingdon, Va., has just been left all the worldly goods [household belongings, jewels, costumes, and scrapbooks] of the late Kate Mayhew. She played little Eva during the Civil War. Kate made three trips to play at Barter theater. Her last trip, when she was 88, was to try out a new play which she did in blackface. When she arrived, she said to Bob. "I drove all the way from New York and only had to stop once." . . . Incidentally, Bob has a wonderful idea, which I won't reveal here, to help service men who've been connected with the theater to find themselves after the war. He wants the project privately financed, but is finding some pretty tough sailing in our town. The reason, I believe, is this: Picture people are extroverts. They're able to express their emotions in their daily acting and living. Nonprofessionals have never had a chance for self-expression. I remember a story about Edith Rockefeller McCormick, as a child she never had been permitted to attend a concert, opera, or play. She decided that when she reached her majority and got her fortune, she'd help others to enjoy what had been denied her. That was one reason she spent many millions backing the Chicago Opera company.

They'll Be Missed.

Sammy Cahn and Jules Styne can't linger here to do the music for "Duffy's Tavern." They're off to New York for David Wolper's musical "Glad to See You," starring Lupe Velez and Jane Withers. Sammy and Jules took time out to write "The Saga of Harry Cohn," not entirely flattering, which took over an hour to sing at a surprise party in his home. Frank Sinatra, Phil Silvers, Al Jolson, Jose Iturbi, Rags Ragland, and Judy Garland took two nights off to rehearse it. That talent alone would have set him back $50,000. What a crime it wasn't recorded! . . . The hit song of "Two Girls and a Sailor" is played by Xavier Cugat and orchestra. It's "Take It Easy," written by Albert De Bru, pen name of Cugat. . . . Kitty Carlisle plays "Carmen" in the picture to be released by United Artists.

Going Up the Hard Way.

Tom Kelly's color photos of Martha MacVicars got her a re-take on her first test at RKO, where she's under contract. . . . Alexis Smith and Craig Stevens have a house, but so far only a stove, bed, and ice box. What more do newlyweds need? . . . The Arthur Lakes expect a little Dagwood in September. . . . Brock Pemberton saw Richard Crane in "Wing and a Prayer," and now he wants to borrow Crane for "Year of Destiny." . . . Did you hear about our male star who gave a pint of blood to the Red Cross, passed out, had to have a blood transfusion, and took back two pints?

Movie Flavors Nonsense with Bit of Surprise

"JOHNNY DOESN'T LIVE HERE ANY MORE."

A Monogram picture, directed by Jan May, featuring Simone Simone, James Ellison, William Terry, and the late Alan Dinehart, and presented at the Oriental.

By May Tinée.

Good Morning!

Blame it on the gremlins! Anything you don't like about this picture. That's what the author did.

If you're in that "anything goes" mood, this wacky farce may fit right in with it. There's no sense to the nonsense, but it packs a couple of surprise situations—one of which brought the house down, as we used to say in the dear old days. . . . The players are all able folks—and purty well directed.

The heroine, Kathie [Simone Simon], is en route to Washington and a war job when she upsets a salt shaker and is confronted by Chief Bad Gremlin Rumpelstiltskin [descended, no doubt, from the fairy tale R.], who promises her seven weeks of bad luck. . . .

Arriving, Kathie finds that the friend with whom she had planned to live has just been married. . . . After confronting a horde of "No Vacancy" signs Kathie runs into a young man departing for marine induction. He rents her his flat—forgetting to give forth with the information that a lot of his boy friends have keys to same.

There were "Seven Keys to Baldpate," but the house where Johnny doesn't live any more has 11. Which fact keeps Kathie in hot water and the gremlin in stitches, and you can just about gather—in a general way—what cooks from here on. . . .

It is so ridic' that the darned thing fooled me. I thought all would prove to be a dream. . . .

See you soon.

Stage Notes

New York sends word, not yet confirmed here, that Ruth Gordon will open at the Harris Sept. 10 or 11 in "Over Twenty-one," with Millard Mitchell playing the role of the Hollywood producer created by Philip Loeb. This would oust the town's long run champion, "Kiss and Tell." . . . Harold Kennedy has been rewriting "A Goose for the Gander," and the new version is now being played at the Blackstone, . . . Our company of "Uncle Harry," with Luther Adler and Beth Merrill, will reopen in Washington about the middle of August. . . . Richard Rober, Jud in the Erlanger's "Oklahoma!," was one of several play doctors for "Ramshackle Inn" and draws royalty checks from the Selwyn farce.

Wedding News.

Christ church in Winnetka will be the scene of the marriage at 5 p. m. today of Miss Barbara Whitehouse and Ensign John Robert Eshbach of the naval reserve, son of Dr. and Mrs. Orvid W. Eshbach of Kenilworth. Dr. Eshbach is dean of the Northwestern university technological institute. The ceremony will be followed by a reception in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Whitehouse of Evanston.

The bride will be attended by her sisters, Mrs. Stanley Klores and Miss Adelaide and Miss Agatha Whitehouse, and Ensign Eshbach's sister, Frances. Ensign Eshbach and his bride will leave immediately for Seattle, Wash.

Announcement is made of the marriage July 30 of Miss Carol Ellis, daughter of Mrs. Clarence A. Ellis of Chicago and of Mr. Ellis of Wilwaukee, Wis., to Don R. Porter of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Porter of Highland Park. The wedding took place in the Highland Park Presbyterian church. The bride will return shortly to her post in Ogden, Utah, where she has been serving as an aircraft instrument technician. Mr. Porter, who has been stationed in Newport, R. I., is reporting for duty on the west coast. He was attending the University of Wisconsin when he enlisted in the naval reserve.

Mrs. Willis Allan Hitch of Lincoln Park West announces the marriage July 29 of her daughter, Marion, to George Custer Branston of the army signal corps. The ceremony took place at 4 p. m. in Howes Memorial chapel in Evanston, with a reception following in the Georgian hotel. Mr. Branston and his bride will live in Joplin, Mo. Both were graduated from Northwestern university.

Dainty Designs

BY NANCY CABOT.

Embroidery motifs for pillowcases are in popular demand at this season when we can find time for a bit of pickup work. These four sets of designs offer various types of needlework ranging from cross-stitch to outline and satin stitch. Bird and floral motifs are accepted choices for pillowcases when one wishes a change from crocheted edgings and insertions.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the four sets of pillowcase motifs, No. 555, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th av., New York City.

Mrs. Ed. W., Chicago.—To bleach and remove a light scorch stain I use hydrogen peroxide and speed up its action by adding a few drops of ammonia just before I use it. I sponge the stain with this mixture or apply it with a medicine dropper or glass rod, then rinse well.

Kitty H., Peoria, Ill.—I had been keeping house for some years before I learned that it is a lot easier to drive a nail into plaster if you first soak the nail in hot water.

Mrs. Harry B., Gary, Ind.—I've four war workers in my family now, and sometimes a fifth, so I have what I call a victory bulletin board in my kitchen. The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	3 diamonds
4 spades	Double [final bid]

West opened the diamond ten. East put up the ace and, thinking the lead might well have been a singleton, returned a diamond. Declarer's king held, however, and two top trumps were quickly cashed, leaving West with the high trump. Declarer then cashed the ace and king of hearts, ruffed dummy's last heart, and threw West in with the high trump.

West, fuming over his partner's failure to return a club at the second trick, now despairingly laid down the club ace and followed up with the club four, feeling that the only hope was to find East with the king. He had no such luck, however, and the contract was now "on ice."

West's choice of "escapes" from the trap he thought he was in was not very shrewd. East had shown nothing in spades or hearts, and his diamond suit had lacked the high cards from the king down to the nine. Thus, it was almost a cinch that he had seven diamonds for his bid at the three level, and this became even more certain in the light of his diamond return. [With fewer than seven diamonds, East could not have been so hopeful that West would ruff the second round.] Well, if declarer had held six spades, two hearts, and two diamonds, he also must have held three clubs, so there was no need for West to lay down the ace of that suit. The obviously correct, and safe, play was a low club!

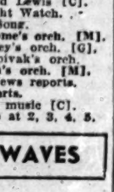
The Inquiring Camera Girl
BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. A. Pozen, 5413 Ellis av.]

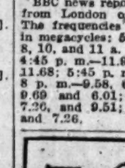
THE QUESTION.
What favorite dish of yours can you never find in a restaurant?

WHERE ASKED.
Northwestern station.

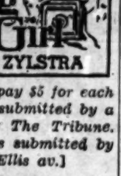
THE ANSWER.



Vincent Bonaccorsi, reservation clerk, 325 N. Mason av.—It should be a simple dish to make but I've never found genuine vegetable soup in a restaurant. They usually throw in a few vegetables and fill up with rice and an oversupply of liquid. I like soup that has every imaginable kind of vegetable in it.



Walter Alutis, check clerk, 3318 Lowe av.—Mother fixes a delicious dish that I would like to be able to order in a restaurant. She cooks beets, and cools them in ice. Then she chops up the beets, dices a hard boiled egg or two and a cucumber, adds sour cream, salt and vinegar and seasoning. It's my hot-weather favorite.



Mary Louise Hansen, student, 516 Merrill av., Park Ridge.—I wish that restaurants would give you a choice of raw or cooked carrots. I'm just wild about raw carrots but when they are cooked they have a different taste. It takes all the sparkle and flavor out of them. They serve radishes raw so why not more carrots raw?

Dorothy Ferrari, stenographer, 2216 N. Nagle av.—There's an Italian hot tamale pie that we have at home. I've looked for it on menus, but haven't seen anything similar. My mother found the recipe in a book a few years ago and she remembered it. I've never seen the recipe so I don't know how it's made.

Jean Westwood, stenographer, 3907 Kostner av.—At home we often have what we call sour-braten. It's rump roast soaked in vinegar overnight with bay leaves and cloves. Then mother adds potatoes and carrots and cooks them in the same container. I've only been able to find it in one restaurant.

A box of Florida seedless limes arrived at my office last week, a reminder that this is the season for limeades, lime sherbets, lime pies, and all the other delightful edibles which limes can flavor.

Serve wedges of lime with honeydew or cantaloupe for appetizer or dessert. Make fruit salad dressings with lime juice instead of lemon juice for a change. Use your favorite recipes for lemon sherbet and lemon pie and substitute lime juice, with perhaps a few drops of vegetable coloring to tint the food a pale, cool green.

Lime juice is good with fish, in consomme, hot or cold, on avocado, seafood cocktails, and its wonderful in hot or iced tea.

Lime Sherbet.
[One quart.]

1½ teaspoons plain gelatin
2 cups milk
½ cup sugar
½ cup corn sirup
6 tablespoons lime juice
⅛ teaspoon salt

Soften gelatin in ¼ cup of the cold milk and place over hot water until dissolved. Add to remainder of milk. Mix sugar, corn sirup, lime juice, and salt, and add slowly to milk mixture, stirring constantly. Pour into refrigerator tray and freeze at coldest temperature, stirring occasionally.

Limeade.
[Serves six.]

½ cup sugar
3 cups water
1½ cups lime juice

Heat sugar with ½ cup water to dissolve. Add to rest of cold water and lime juice. Pour into six tall glasses, add ice cubes and half a slice of lime for each glass as a garnish. A cherry may be dropped into each glass. Sparkling water may be used in place of water.

Try a lime sauce on the next cottage pudding you make. The sauce is good on peach cobbler, gingerbread, spice cake, or steamed pudding, too.

Lime Sauce.
[Serves six.]

1 tablespoon cornstarch
6 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon grated rind of lime
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup hot water
¼ cup lime juice
1 tablespoon butter

Mix sugar, cornstarch, lime rind, salt. Add hot water gradually. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened and clear. Add lime juice and butter. A sprinkling of nutmeg may be added, too, if you like. Serve warm on pudding or cake.

Grape and Lime Rickey.

Half fill glasses with grape juice, add the juice of 1 lime to each glass, sweeten with sugar sirup, and add ice cubes and carbonated water to fill glasses.

Summer Fruit Cup.

Combine diced peaches, sliced banana, diced pear or apple with a few melon balls, and scatter blackberries over the combination when arranged in fruit cups. Sprinkle lightly with sugar and lime juice and garnish each cup with a mint leaf.

TURN IN WASTE FATS FOR POINTS AND PENNIES!

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Toffee Refrigerator Dessert.
[Serves six to eight.]

¾ cup margarine or butter
1 cup confectioners' sugar
1 square unsweetened chocolate, melted
3 eggs, separated
¼ teaspoon vanilla
¼ pound vanilla wafers, crushed
½ cup nutmeats, finely chopped

Cream margarine and sugar together thoroly. Beat in slightly beaten egg yolks and melted chocolate. Cool slightly and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and vanilla. Sprinkle half the vanilla wafers evenly over bottom of shallow pan [about 8 by 8 inches] or large freezing tray. Spread evenly with chocolate mixture and top with remaining wafers and nutmeats. Place in freezing compartment or refrigerator to chill for 24 hours. Mixture will become firm but not frozen. Cut in squares and serve plain or top each serving with small scoop of ice cream.

EDUCATOR FINDS 'SUBTLE MENACE' IN TAX CLAUSE

Totalitarianism Rule for College Feared.

[This is the third of a series of articles on the effect the limited deduction provisions of the new simplified income tax law will have on donations for the support of churches, charities, independent colleges, universities, and welfare institutions.]

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A federally dominated "cradle to the grave" educational system that will transform the United States into a "subtle totalitarianism" was forseen yesterday by a noted educator as an inevitable long range result of the 10 per cent averaged expense deduction principle of the simplified tax bill signed May 30 by President Roosevelt. He urged adoption of an amendment correcting the principle.

This educator, President Ronald J. Cowling of Carleton college, Northfield, Minn., first president of the American Council on Education, explained at the Palmer House that the immediate effects of the 10 per cent clause would be harder on churches than on educational and charitable institutions. Authorities have estimated a loss to churches and educational, and charitable institutions of 300 million dollars in gifts in 1945.

Average Set for Deductions.

The clause averages at 10 per cent these deductible expenses for persons with incomes up to $5,000: interest, taxes, bad debts, alimony, and gifts to church and welfare institutions. A taxpayer does not have to contribute anything to get the deduction. Treasury officials have described the 10 per cent clause as "the keystone of the entire simplified tax bill."

Dr. Cowling assailed the clause as being "a thing so morally wrong that it should not even have to be discussed in a democracy; it lumps alimony and bad debts with offerings to religious work and gifts to the needy; gifts are not expense; they are gifts! Giving should not be lumped with anything; not averaged with something competing with it."

Hidden Implications Unrealized.

"Neither the public nor government officials have yet had opportunity to understand and appreciate the hidden implications of far reaching adverse influence that this bill will have upon privately supported educational, religious, character building, and welfare institutions upon whose effectiveness the future of our nation depends," Dr. Cowling said.

He traced changes in the financial programs of independent colleges and universities that have turned administrators' attention from sources of large gifts, now being dried up rapidly by income and estate taxes, to small annual contributors.

"Now we have the averaged exemption principle introduced, which gives no recognition to the social obligation in democracy for giving. The person is taught that he does not have to give; there is no advantage in it because the state will take care of things, anyway. Chief Justice John Marshall was right many years ago when he said, 'The power to tax is the power to destroy.'

"Success of the income tax has stimulated fantastic dreams of what might thereby be accomplished for the physical well being of a people. If such programs are forced thru by political propaganda, our whole social and political philosophy will be changed. Our American way of life will be ended and freedom will be scorned."

With the gradual drying up of funds for the maintenance of independent educational institutions thru operation of the principle of averaged expense, Dr. Cowling asserted that such colleges will face the ultimate option of closing or of seeking federal grants in aid.

Federal Aid Means Federal Control.

"Federal subsidy, whether for secondary education or higher education, means federal control," Dr. Cowling asserted. "Aside from winning the war, no item of public policy is more important than keeping the control of education out of the hands of the federal government. It is fatuous for the 1944 Democratic platform to ask federal aid for public schools without admitting that federal control is contemplated.

"The Republican platform declared against federal aid for public schools. Thus, the most important political struggle, aside from winning the war, has been joined by the two parties.

"If churches are weakened further in their financial position, and both higher and secondary education becomes federally controled, what agency, then, will shape the country's way of thinking? Government then will be the official educator from cradle to grave—a subtle totalitarianism!."

We have to protect our salesman this way when we get in a new shipment of nylon stockings.

Day by Day on the FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

July 31, 1944.

POST-WAR farming promises to be a fairly easy job, judging from the new mechanical aids the farmer has been promised by manufacturers. Workers at the Wheaton farm have their hearts set on getting one of the new one-man hay balers.

They have watched one work on a neighboring farm and have read eagerly all available information on the new machines, which sound the death knell of the dirtiest job on the farm. The new type baler not only makes haying a pleasant and clean job, but also saves the labor of two men.

Man Power Slashed.

Ordinarily it takes three men to run a baling machine. One drives the tractor and two ride the machine, punching and tying wires around the bales as they are formed. The new baler uses only one man, who drives the tractor far ahead of the irritating dust rising from the dried hay.

One type of the new machines picks up two windrows at a time. The hay is carried into rollers where, under tension, it is rolled into a cylindrical shape. Most baling machines turn out an oblong or block shape bale. The rolled bale is tied automatically with twine and dropped.

Baling Cost Reduced.

Use of twine instead of wire to tie the bales reduces the cost considerably. The rolled bale can be fed either by separating it into layers or simply by unrolling it before the animals much like a carpet.

Some of the big farm implement companies are turning out a few of the one-man hay balers, but material and labor are too scarce for full time production. Only after the war will this new machine be readily available to all farmers. The men at the farm assert it undoubtedly will become a standard item of equipment on most farms, because it answers many of the farmer's haying problems and saves considerable time and labor.

Summer Grazing Problem.

The long dry spell that finally ended last week brought home strongly the need for good midsummer pasture that will stand up under drouth and provide grazing when most of the bluegrass pastures have burned up or been grazed too heavily. Each summer in July and August, farms suffer from lack of good grass.

A field of Sudan grass or a pasture with a mixture of alfalfa and brome grass would solve the summer grazing problem. Both types of pasture hold up well in dry, hot weather and their growth remains palatable and succulent when other grasses are dried up.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

THIS first week of August provides an excellent time for replanting vacant garden rows with spinach, radishes, leaf lettuce, and head lettuce.

Bloomsdale spinach matures in 48 days, and if planted now will be ready for table use in late September and early October. Most varieties of radishes mature in 23 to 30 days, therefore can be planted any time this month to mature before killing frosts strike. Gardeners who want a crop of radishes for winter storage should delay their planting for another two to three weeks so that the roots will mature before Oct. 1. At that time, the entire crop can be harvested, placed in boxes or baskets filled with sand, and put in a cool basement room.

Information on August plantings of leaf lettuce and head lettuce will be given in this space tomorrow.

CONGRESS MEETS FACING GIGANTIC POST-WAR TASK

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 31.—Facing a tremendous problem—the drafting of post-war legislation restoring the United States to peace time levels—congress reconvenes tomorrow after a five week vacation.

Sen. Barkley.

Senate Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.] today announced legislators would be held on the job until it was completed despite bitter political campaigns in the offing for many of them.

Whether or not the war is nearing an end, Barkley said, the task is so great that it must be tackled immediately. He and Sen. Reynolds [D., N. C.], chairman of the military affairs committee, sent a telegram to all committee members emphasizing the need for early action on "vital and indispensable legislation dealing with reconversion, demobilization, and surplus property disposition."

Urgent Action Asked.

"This is the most important problem now facing congress and must be dealt with without delay," the telegram warned. A committee meeting was scheduled for Thursday.

Barkley said the senate could not act until the military affairs committee reports a bill. Not too much pressure for steady attendance will be put upon noncommittee members until a measure is reported, it was indicated, but there will not be another formal recess until passage thru both houses of a post-war bill has been accomplished.

Tax Plans Studied.

At the other end of the capital Chairman Doughton [D., N. C.] of the house ways and means committee announced that "considerable progress" had been made on a study of post-war taxation by staffs of the joint committee on internal revenue taxation, the treasury and the bureau of internal revenue.

As soon as the staffs have completed their preliminary work, which may take several weeks, work on a tax bill will be started, Doughton promised. There is general agreement among both parties that a reduction of taxes must be brought about after the war.

The magnitude of the task facing congress was outlined in a statement by Sen. Kilgore [D., W. Va.], and Rep. Celler, which offered arguments in behalf of their version of post-war legislation.

30 Million Jobs Needed.

"When the war ends, jobs will disappear for 20 million workers now engaged in war production," they noted. "To these within a few months will be added 10 million service men who will return to civilian life.

"The United States government will hold 15 billion dollars worth of war plants and equipment and 60 billions worth of supplies. Factories will be choked with half finished products on which cease work orders have been issued.

It is considered likely that the two houses will meet only twice a week for several weeks while committees work on post-war bills.

3 on Truck Injured When Street Car Jumps Switch

Three men were injured slightly last night when a Harrison street surface lines car, derailed on a switch at Racine av., struck the victims' truck. Carl Porcelli, 29, of 4148 Van Buren st., the truck driver; John Maday, 45, of 1647 Superior st., and Anthony Repinski, 54, of 2443 Augusta blvd., were treated at County hospital.

Ernest Rau, 43, an accountant, was found dead of a heart attack yesterday in bed in his room in the Rex hotel, 3120 N. Ashland av. He was unmarried.

"No use trying to figure what Gen. Montgomery would do! He doesn't have to stay in sight of the kitchen window so his mother can keep an eye on him!"

WATER STRIKE IN HAMMOND OFF FOR WEEK

A threatened walk out of 53 employes of the water works and sanitary district in Hammond, Ind., was averted yesterday when Mayor G. Bertram Smith prevailed upon the union to postpone any action for a week. S. C. Stevens, business agent of the International Operating Engineers, local 8464 [AFL], of which the men are members, previously had notified the mayor the men would quit their jobs last night unless given an immediate promise of $20 a month pay boosts.

Mayor Smith, who contended the men are operators and not operating engineers, said that "from 1943 to 1944 these employes have had minimum increases of 20 per cent in their pay." He added that the question of further increases would have to go before the city council and the finance committee for approval in the city's 1945 budget.

An investigation of the workers' demands will be conducted this week, Mayor Smith said. He pointed out that the 1945 budget was presented to the council July 24, will be advertised Aug. 10, and that no changes can be made after that.

The contemplated walkout, previously set for midnight last night, would have cut off Hammond's water supply and necessitated discharge of its untreated sewage into Lake Michigan.

FRANKLIN KREML IS PROMOTED ON ITALIAN FRONT

Franklin M. Kreml, former director of Northwestern university's traffic institute and now transportation officer with the 5th army in Italy, recently was promoted from major to lieutenant colonel, it was learned here yesterday. Lt. Col. Kreml served with the transportation division in the Tunisian campaign, and later organized the transportation section of the 5th army. He was commissioned July 3, 1942.

STOLL KIDNAPER LOSES IN PLEA TO ESCAPE CHAIR

Cincinnati, O., July 31 (AP).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today affirmed the conviction and death sentence imposed on Thomas H. Robinson Jr. of Nashville, Tenn., under the Lindbergh act in connection with the abduction Oct. 10, 1934, of Alice Speed Stoll of Louisville, Ky.

Robinson had appealed from the verdict of a federal court jury in Louisville Dec. 11 after a trial which started Oct. 29. Judge Shackelford Miller Jr. sentenced him to die in the electric chair March 10, but the sentence was stayed pending the appeal.

Robinson was sentenced to serve a life term when he pleaded guilty soon after Mrs. Stoll was returned home Oct. 16, 1934. He was sent to Alcatraz prison and was released on a writ last year and tried on a new indictment.

SPINACH CANS NO. 2 BOOSTED 1 CENT AT ONCE

Thru a new ceiling schedule announced yesterday by the office of price administration in Washington, D. C., the price of spinach will rise approximately 1 cent for a No. 2 can. Ceilings on the 1943 pack of asparagus and cherries will remain approximately the same. The prices take effect immediately.

Commencing today, the ceiling price on a cup of coffee cannot exceed 5 cents, except in those places that charged more in the week of Oct. 4-10, 1942.

OFFICIAL QUITS BOYS' SCHOOL AS QUIZ BLAMES HIM

State Group Hits at Lack of Discipline.

The recent series of escapes from the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles was caused by a failure to integrate the educational rehabilitation of the inmates with sufficient discipline for troublemakers, a state welfare department committee charged yesterday after a two week investigation.

The committee laid the responsibility for this on Melvin Philbrick, the assistant superintendent. As a result, he resigned. He will be replaced by Charles Reed, formerly acting director of the Illinois Soldiers and Sailors Children's school near Normal, Ill.

Find Lack of Good Food.

The committee charged that Philbrick lacked "administrative ability" and was "too philosophically inclined to be a practical disciplinarian." He also was accused of failing to provide good food for the inmates. Blame was placed on him for a "lack of general cleanliness among the inmates."

Philbrick, who has been at the institution since 1942, asserted the committee failed to find answers to the most pressing problems confronting the school. He said he would leave today for the west coast to take a position there.

In the report to Rodney H. Brandon, director of the welfare department, the committee charged that the cottage supervisors, who have jurisdiction over the inmates when they are not at work or at school, are "slipshod in their methods and needed a superior to whom they are directly responsible."

Cottage Supervisor Named.

Brandon announced that, in an effort to remedy this, he had appointed C. E. Phelps, superintendent of the Sheridan branch of the training school, as supervisor of cottage life and discipline. Phelps will control the 125 cottages at both schools.

Richard Eddy, the supervisor, has ordered that discipline thruout the school, and particularly at the Pierce disciplinary cottage, be tightened.

The investigation at the school was ordered after 29 boys escaped three weeks ago within 24 hours.

Between spells of duty at our southern outposts, the American soldier knows how to relax. Have a "Coke", says a thirsty Yank, and it's like a friendly invitation to fun or a chin-fest: . . the same as when you serve Coca-Cola in your home. CUBS WIN 7TH STRAIGHT; A'S BEAT SOX, 3-2

CORWIN CLATT TO PLAY AGAIN FOR ALL-STARS

Texas, Nebraska Furnish 2 More.

Call for Musicians

MUSICIANS who wish to join the College All-Star band, which will appear in Dyche stadium the night of the All-Star game, Aug. 30, are asked to communicate with Ray Dvorak, director of bands at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Corwin Clatt, the burly Notre Dame full back who averaged five yards each time he carried the ball in his sophomore year, and who played last season for Camp Grant's Warriors, is ready to crack the Chicago Bears' line for the All-Stars in the game in Dyche stadium Aug. 30. Clatt also was a member of the 1943 college squad which defeated the Washington Redskins, 27 to 7.

Corwin Clatt.

Clatt's acceptance of an invitation to participate in the 11th All-Star game sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., was received yesterday, along with those from Roy McKay, University of Texas full back, and Ted Kenfield, quarter back on last year's University of Nebraska eleven.

Clatt Bowls 'Em Over.

Clatt weighs 205 pounds, the same as when he ripped thru Notre Dame's opponents in 1942. His powerful smash off tackle, when he bowled over the secondary defenders with the same technique that once made Bronko Nagurski famed, was a dependable weapon for the Irish attack. The threat of Clatt's tremendous power frequently set up situations for forward passes by Angelo Bertelli.

Clatt starred in many of Notre Dame's games that year, just as he bulwarked Camp Grant's attack last season, but he regards the Notre Dame-Iowa Pre-Flight contest as the best of the campaign. Great Lakes' Bluejackets also remember Corny. On the first play from scrimmage in the second half of the 1942 Great Lakes-Notre Dame game in Soldiers' field, Clatt ran 82 yards to score. Creighton Miller followed almost immediately with a 68 yard touchdown sprint for a 13 to 13 tie with the Sailors.

Stationed at Hospital.

Clatt is an army private in a medical detachment and is stationed at Kennedy General hospital, Memphis, Tenn. He attended East Peoria, Ill., High school before matriculating at Notre Dame. He majored in commerce and business administration and intends to return to the university to complete his work for a degree after the war. Clatt is 20 years old.

McKay, who played full back on the Texas teams in 1940, 1941, and

CAPT. GRAHAM SMITH, former business manager of the Detroit Lions, rustled up the old pants and Capt. Ted Lyons, the White Sox pitching star, supplied the faded shirt in which Capt. George Franck, the New York Giants' half back, posed for pictures immediately after being fished out of the Pacific when his marine dive bomber was shot down over Wotje. . . . Phil Cavarretta, Don Johnson, Roy Hughes, and Stan Hack each has been in professional baseball more than 10 years. . . . Elmer Schaake, recently appointed head coach at Denver university, starred at half back for the Portsmouth club of the National Football league in 1933. . . . Col. Bob Neyland, now in Burma, advises friends he plans to return as football coach at the University of Tennessee after the war. . . . Staff Sgt. Matt Mihalovich, reported killed in action in France last month, was a Milwaukee Golden Gloves champion. . . . First Milwaukee Golden Glover killed in this war was Sandford Forbes of West Allis, who was posthumously cited for being the first American killed in Africa. . . . This was more than a year ago. . . . Branch Rickey says the Dodgers have the heaviest overhead in the league, to say nothing of the biggest headache. . . . If you're one who believes sports are seasonal, it probably will surprise you to learn Seattle bowlers now are deciding city championships. . . . Cleveland fans have donated $15,000 to a fund which provides free medical care and equipment for its sandlot baseball players.

Steve Owen, coach of the New York football Giants, is looking for the fellow who went back far enough to discover that he once served as a high school principal. . . . Returning to Phillips university, his alma mater, after a season with the Giants, Steve called on his old friend, Dean McCash, president of the university. . . . Their conversation was interrupted by a phone call from a harassed board member in a small Oklahoma town who pleaded with the president to send out some one with muscles to restore order. . . . The last principal had been stabbed by one of the older boys. . . . Steve, meeting the specifications, took the job for one semester, straightened out the school, and taught history and math.

The Treasure Chest.

There is a chest where treasures lie,
Where dreams are built and hops can die,
It's very small, but means so much,
And with an almost reverent touch
I open it and gaze within,
In hope of finding something thin.
There are times when all seems lost to me,
'Tis when I don't that something see,
The night is sad, the day is long,
And it seems that everything goes wrong.
I rush from work, one thought in mind,
If only this treasure, today I find.
The joy's supreme when find I do—
Within a letter—addressed by you.
And if by now you haven't guessed,
The mail box is my treasure chest.

Winning Success.

Winning success!—well, just what does it mean?
Does success only come to the ones who are keen?
Can we gain it by toiling and piling up gold,
It is only for those who are daring and bold?
Just what are the things that a person should heed,
If he should be numbered with those who succeed?

Success doesn't come just by winning acclaim,
It's not always reached just by soaring to fame.
Success may be ours if we just play our part,
In field or in fact'ry, in busiest mart.
By putting our best into every day's labor—
By being a helpful and outstanding neighbor.

Success may be ours when the daily toil ends,
If we have succeeded in making new friends.
If we have just stopped long enough on our road,
To comfort the folks who are bearing a load.
Just taking time out in the strain and the stress,
To share others' burdens—I think that's success.

HELEN OLSON SETS C.W.D.G.A. PACE WITH 82

Leads Qualifiers in La Grange Meet.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Helen Olson, comely 17 year old blonde from Ridgemoor, who has been batting a golf ball around these parts since the ripe old age of 12, yesterday came into her own by leading the qualifying scorers in the 13th annual tournament of the Chicago Women's District Golf association at the La Grange Country club. Playing 17th in the field, Helen arrived with an 82, six over women's par at the West side club. This dropped Mrs. Lawrence H. Selz of Northmoor, who had been the early pacemaker with an 84, back into second place.

The 16 low scorers, on a handicap basis, will open match play in the championship flight this morning. Play will continue daily thru Friday's 36 hole title match. Actually, yesterday's shooting was a round for position in the match play brackets. The low 16 were determined by their real handicaps, a system devised by the C. W. D. G. A. with a view to making competition more equitable.

Miss Olson Faces Mary Laird.

Players with handicaps up to and including nine strokes thus became eligible for championship play. The low scorer among the 10 handicap swingers also was included in the main event. She was Mary Louise Laird of Indian Hill, who had a 92 while paired with Miss Olson. Incidentally, they will meet each other in this morning's first match.

As a result of the handicap rating, Jane Brown of the home club, who shot an 85 to tie Mrs. Harold Sims of Evanston for third place in yesterday's scoring, goes into the first flight of match play because she is an 11 handicap player.

Only Five Break 90.

Scoring was unusually high, only five players breaking 90. These included Miss Olson; Mrs. Selz, the former Jane Weiller, who won the C. W. D. G. A. and Women's Western Open titles of 1932; Miss Brown, Mrs. Sims, former Minnesota champion who now registers from Evanston, and Mrs. Jac Ochiltree of St. Charles, 1939 Indiana state title holder, who finished with an 87.

The card for Miss Olson:

Par—Out	455	355	543—39
Miss Olson—Out	665	266	542—42
Par—In	554	434	435—37—76
Miss Olson—In	665	335	435—40—82

Mrs. Selz played wel lthruout her round, only a cranky putter preventing her from finishing in the 70s. She ran down a 40 footer for a bird at the 8th, and then sank one from 10 feet for a deuce at No. 9. Mrs. Sims collected a deuce at the 9th also, courtesy of a 35 footer.

Pairings for today's first round of match play in the championship flight, with qualifying scores in brackets, follow:

UPPER HALF.

Helen Olson, Ridgemoor [82] vs. Mary Louise Laird, Indian Hill [92].
Jane Nelson, Hinsdale [89] vs. Mrs. O. C. Bell, La Grange [95].
Mrs. Harold Sims, Evanston [85] vs. Lillian Townsend, Evanston [94].
Virginia Nilles, Rolling Green [91] vs. Mrs. F. W. Zimmerman, Edgewater [97].

LOWER HALF.

DOBRO LEADS IN AMATEUR GOLF TOURNEY ON 68

Johnny Dobro of Burnham Woods led a field of 300 players in the qualifying round of the 40th City Amateur Golf tournament at Jackson park yesterday. He had a 68, two strokes under par.

Dobro carded a one under par 33 on the front nine. He had birdies on the fourth and ninth holes. On the back nine Dobro had a 35, one under, with a birdie on the 12th hole.

Following closely behind Dobro was Jack Atten, 17, from Edgewater Golf club, home of the veteran Chick Evans. Atten had a 35 on the first nine and came back with a 34 for a 69. Evans did not appear on the course yesterday because former champions are exempt from qualifying, and he will play his first round match this morning.

The surprise score of the day was registered by one of the old-time members of the home club, Roy Peterson with a 35—35—70. Petterson was runner-up for the crown in 1917 and 1920.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 31.—The rejuvenated Cubs went about their business again this afternoon without regard for the feelings of the rapidly swooning Phillies. The tourists from Chicago thumped the ball in modest fashion, but even such limited work, linked as it was with bits of local clowning, proved sufficient to boost them to their seventh straight victory, 5 to 1. At the same time it extended the Phils' string of successive setbacks to nine games.

The Cubs remained half a game behind the fourth-place Giants, who tonight whipped the Reds.

Being pressed for pitchers because of the busy schedule, Manager Charley Grimm dipped into the bull pen and fished out Hy Vandenberg as a starter. By way of showing his appreciation the ex-Brewer pitched a three hitter, the lone run against him being a homer by Elvin Clark Adams in the first inning. Thereafter only one Philly passed first base.

An Unhappy Day for Lee.

Bill Lee was the victim of what, to him, must have looked like a conspiracy among his former pals and his present associates. The gentleman from Louisiana was present only for six innings, but in that stretch the visiting delegates did all of their important work on the bases. They took after Bill with one hit in the first and it meant a run. They scored another one, slightly tainted, in the second, and one more in the fifth on a strictly charitable basis. But a two run sixth was strictly on the level, thanks to a second timely swipe by Phil Cavarretta.

The Cubs' first inning run was partly thru the courtesy of Lee. He walked Roy Hughes with one out and in response to a hit and run sign, Cavarretta lined a single into right, Hughes taking third whence he scored on Bill Nicholson's fly.

Goodman Gets Trick Double.

Ival Goodman opened the second with a fly to short left and it looked like an easy out until Bill Heltzel and Jim Wasdell began debating about making the catch. They never did come to a decision, Goodman meanwhile arriving at second. Don Johnson's single drove him home.

Johnson led off in the fifth with a ground shot to Heltzel, who was kind enough to make a throw that pulled Tony Lupien off first base. Dewey Williams sacrificed and after Vandenberg had been thrown out, Stan Hack, Johnson scoring.

Hughes started the comforting sixth with a single thru short and Cavarretta again came thru on a hit and run. This time it was a double to right, Hughes scoring. Nicholson flied out, but Dom Dallessandro singled and Cavarretta sprinted home with the last run.

Funeral Services Held for Perry McGillivray

Funeral services were held yesterday for Perry McGillivray, 50, member of the American Olympic swimming team in 1912. He died in Maywood last Thursday. McGillivray held the 1913 national free style titles at 50, 220, and 500 yards.

Red Sox Score in 9th to Beat Indians, 1 to 0

Cleveland, O., July 31 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox made only two hits tonight but won, 1 to 0, from the Indians by scoring an unearned run in the ninth inning. Cleveland also made only two hits.

First Baseman Mickey Rocco allowed George Metkovich's grounder to go thru him for a two base error in the ninth and Pete Fox followed with a single to score Metkovich with the winning run.

Chicago Loses Legion Game to Waukegan

Quincy, Ill., July 31 (AP).—The Waukegan team of the Homer Dahrenger post won the Illinois American Legion Junior Baseball tournament with a 12 to 5 victory over the Russell Squares of Chicago, representing the S. R. Enholm post, in the third and final game of the title play-off here today.

Chicago won the opening game and Waukegan took the second contest yesterday.

Bill Washburn went the route for Waukegan, yielding only four hits. Pat Miller pitched all the way for the Chicagoans and was touched for 15 hits.

Casey Lewandowski, Russell Square catcher, suffered a cut over his knee sliding into third base in the fourth inning, but continued to play after first aid treatment.

Waukegan now enters regional competition against state champions of Missouri, Iowa, and Kentucky in Springfield, Ill., Aug. 13-16.

SKOKIE COUNTRY CLUB SUES TO GET BACK RIVER

A petition for an order to compel the Cook county forest preserve board to remove the Skokie river dam, just north of Dundee rd., to permit the stream to flow again in its natural channel thru the Skokie Country club grounds was filed in Superior court yesterday on behalf of the club.

The club also asked a judgment from the forest preserve board for money the club has spent to buy sprinkling water since the dam was constructed in 1937. Water bills have been $500 to $3,000 a year for water purchased from Glencoe, the suit stated.

HUNT WINS BY K. O. IN 7TH IN MARIGOLD BOUT

Jimmy Hunt, former city Golden Gloves welterweight champion, knocked out Bill Parsons of Danville, Ill., in the seventh round of a scheduled eight round bout in the Marigold outdoor arena last night. Parsons went down from ordinary punches twice, once each in the sixth and seventh rounds, before being floored for the count.

Jose Mendoza, fast punching Mexico City lightweight, gained a popular victory over Gene Spencer of South Chicago in an eight round secondary feature.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Irving Hall's 10th inning triple, followed by Hal Epps' single, produced the lone earned run in last night's baseball match between the Philadelphia Athletics and the White Sox, and that marker polished off the Sox, 3 to 2, and enabled the A's to hop out of the American league cellar.

The jolt was the third which Connie Mack's boys have accorded Jimmy Dykes' in-and-outers in the present series and it was the eighth time this season our lads have been winged by the Philadelphians in 13 engagements.

Difference in Triples.

Maybe Wally Moses was to blame for Hall's getting the game wrecking triple. Wally made a three bagger himself, with two out in the home ninth, and it may have given Irv ideas. In any event, he smacked one himself. The difference was that Irv got home, and Wally did not.

Each team made three errors and the first two on each side were essential to the 2 to 2 tie that prevailed when Russ Christopher and Orval Grove reached the end of the regular portion of a rather nice duel, a duel in which each right hander yielded seven hits.

The Sox errors were in no way traceable to the patchwork infield made necessary when Skeeter Webb, the team's only shortstop this season, became ill. This made it necessary to shift Second Baseman Le Roy Schalk to short, where he played a neat game, as did his substitute at second base, Tony Cuccinello. It was said last night that if Webb gets sicker and sicker, the team will send for Cass Michaels, the former Cass Kwietniewski, rookie now operating effectively with Little Rock.

Sox Sell Tom Turner.

The team did not suffer at short and it didn't suffer behind the plate, tho Tom Turner was sold to the St. Louis Browns on waivers yesterday. The Sox need only two catchers—one to play and one to warm up Gordon Maltzberger.

The game proceeded placidly without a run until the fifth inning. In the fifth the A's scored two runs with the aid of two Sox errors and the Sox scored once with the aid of one perfectly placed Philadelphia bobble.

Bill McGhee opened the visitors' fifth with a single to center. After Hal Trosky had fumbled George Kell's sacrifice bunt, McGhee was safe at second and Kell at first. Ed Busch bunted to Grove, who apparently had McGhee sunk at third. Orval, however, threw wide past Ralph Hodgin, McGhee scoring, Kell reaching third and Busch second. The runners held their bases while Schalk was throwing out Christopher, then Hall flied to Moses, Kell scoring. Epps also flied to Moses.

Grove Scores on Error.

Grove opened the home half of the fifth with the fifth Sox hit, a single to center, reached third on infield outs, and scored when Busch fumbled Carnett's gentle grounder.

The fourth unearned run of the game enabled the Sox to tie the score at 2 to 2 in the seventh. With two out, Schalk was safe on Kell's fumble. There was nothing tainted about Ed Carnett's triple to the scoreboard in right center which sent Schalk home with the tying marker. Hodgin grounded to Busch for the third out.

CARDINALS LOSE TO DODGERS AND HAL GREGG, 6 TO 1

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 31 (AP).—Hal Gregg, beaten by the Cardinals two days ago, made a strong comeback tonight as Brooklyn defeated the league leaders, 6 to 1. Gregg yielded seven hits and the lone St. Louis run came when Johnny Hopp hit a homer in the fourth. The Dodgers hammered Mort Cooper for all their runs in the first three innings.

Occupation Is Top Weighted in $15,000 Race

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

John Marsch's Occupation, Futurity champion of 1942 and winner of four straight races this season until overloaded and beaten in the $15,000 Myrtlewood handicap two weeks ago, again has drawn top weight for the $15,000 added Great Western handicap tomorrow.

In the Great Western, the final big feature of the Arlington meeting, which closes Thursday at Washington Park, the Marsch colt has been assigned 124 pounds, four less than he carried in the Myrtlewood when he finished fourth to Three Dots, Happy Issue, and War Knight.

See Close Finish.

Three Dots that day lowered the track record for six furlongs to 1:10 while carrying 116 pounds, and tomorrow will shoulder 120 pounds. The equalization of weights promises a photo finish between the J. H. Rouse record breaker and the Marsch star in the seven furlong event. There have been two declarations from the original 17 nominations for the Great Western, Brolite farm's Challenge Me, and Roman Sox, neither of which detracts much by their absence.

A ladies' day crowd estimated at 17,500, including a contingent of Elks whose convention is being held in Chicago, was at the Homewood track yesterday, and the mutuel handle was $931,134.

Air Risk Wins First.

Mrs. J. L. Oglesby's Air Risk, the favorite, won the first race and paid $7.20. W. W. Crenshaw's Joe Burger took the second at $9. Daily double tickets were worth $31.40.

C. C. Tanner's Best Effort, ridden by Charley Corbett, took the $2,500 fifth race for 2 year olds, scoring by three lengths over Crenshaw's Alfa. Ben Endovina's Zumzing was third.

The sixth race, for a purse of $2,000 and named in honor of the visiting Elks, went to Mrs. Al Sabath's American Flyer, ridden by Nick Jemas. Letellier and Jones' Mina J., was second and Mrs. H. J. Damm's Zacapet took the show. The winner paid $6.

Bolo's Choice, carrying 116 pounds, tops the list of seven milers slated to run in the $2,500 Edisto handicap today.

Washington Opens Friday.

The Washington Park Jockey club opens it's part of the coördinated program Friday and continued record breaking attendances and wagering are indicated.

Two year old thorobreds start a series of 10 stakes to be presented as features on midweek days and Saturdays, but the first nationally important event will be the Princess Pat stakes Saturday, which will have approximately $40,000 in the pot for an outstanding field of fillies.

Corwin Clatt to Play Again for All-Stars

1942, also returns to the college squad for another crack at the professionals. Roy weighs 200 pounds and is 6 feet tall. He's 24 years old.

McKay's home is in Junction, Tex., where his father is sheriff of the county. Roy majored in physical education at Texas and received the degree of bachelor of science. After a brief time as director of a boys' camp, McKay now is a rancher near Bandera, Tex., a county seat town adjacent to San Antonio. He was enrolled in the navy V-5 program during his last year at the state university, but received a medical discharge.

Ted Kenfield, whose home is in San Andreas, Cal., directed the Nebraska football team last year at quarter back. He is studying law. His father is principal of the San Andreas High school and formerly lived in Columbus, Neb., where Ted received his secondary education before entering the University of Nebraska. Kenfield is 18 years of age and weighs 160 pounds. He is classified 4-F in the draft and expects to return to Nebraska this fall to continue his college work.

SEEDED PLAYERS WIN IN NATIONAL JUNIOR TENNIS

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 31 [Special].—Favorites breezed thru the first round of the National junior tennis tournament today with Alan Watson, Short Hills, N. J., the only seeded player forced into three sets. He triumphed over Charles Schaaf, Highland Park, Ill., entry.

In addition to Watson, the only other seeded star who was extended was Chicago's Robert David, who defeated Leonard Steiner, after a stubborn second set, 6-4, 9-7.

Only three boys' first round matches were played in a field of 35 players, and late this afternoon play started in the second round of the boys' division with Buddy Behrens, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., southern and western boys' champion, winning an easy victory over Edward Beaver, Elkhart, Ind., 6-1, 6-0.

Angler Lands 53 Pounder in Lake Superior

BY BOB BECKER.

One of the largest specimens of lake trout ever taken from Lake Superior by trolling was caught a few days ago by Kenyon Boyer of Marquette, Mich. It weighed 53 pounds and was 48 inches long. E. C. Watson also of Marquette and Earl Kough, 12954 S. Maple av., Blue Island, Ill., were in the boat when this fish was hooked.

The three men were trolling north of Marquette in Watson's 17 foot boat to which an outboard motor was attached. Watson was handling a trolling line and also running the motor when the big fish struck. Realizing it was a heavy specimen, Watson handed his rod and line to Boyer and the battle for the prize winner began. The struggle continued for 40 minutes. A gaff was used in landing the 53 pounder which was officially weighed in Marquette.

Last year a 45 pound lake trout took first prize in a national fishing contest. Looking over the fishing records for several years we find that lake trout weighing between 40 and 50 pounds usually have won first prizes in fishing contests. This 53 pounder is the largest we have heard about in recent years, and should easily take the honors for the year. The world's record taken with hook in line was a 63 pounder caught in Manitoba in 1930 by Miss L. L. Hayes.

One of the largest muskies hooked this summer was a 35 pounder snagged by Buddy Wagemann, 11 year old son of County Clerk and Mrs. C. V. Wagemann, 316 W. Jefferson st., Wheaton, Ill. Buddy made his catch while fishing at Nestor Falls, Ont., with Tom Keeshepakeget, an Indian guide. It was 47 inches long, just 4 inches shorter than Buddy.

BIG REFUNDING PLAN TOLD BY ARMOUR & CO.

3 Utility Financing Programs Set.

Tentative plans by Armour & Co. for refunding 76 million dollars of outstanding bonds were announced yesterday by George A. Eastwood, president. He said the refunding would effect further improvements in the company's financial structure thru reduction of interest charges and extension of maturities.

"Banking interests with whom the tentative plans have been discussed have expressed a belief that present conditions of the money market indicate that such objectives could be accomplished at this time," Eastwood said.

Debt Position Outlined.

The issues involved in the proposed refunding are the first mortgage 4 per cent bonds and the series D 3¼ per cent bonds.

No interim reports are made by the company, but the report for the fiscal year ended Oct. 30, 1943, listed as of Oct. 30 two series of outstanding first mortgage 20 year 4 per cent sinking fund bonds. Series B bonds, due Aug. 1, 1956, amounted to $43,592,000, including $652,000 due within a year and listed as current liabilities. Series C bonds, due Jan. 1, 1957, amounted to $18,676,000, including $251,000 carried as current liabilities. The series D 3¼ per cent sinking fund bonds of 1964 amounted to 15 million dollars, and replaced five year 3 per cent instalment notes.

Funded debt also included 35 millions of 7 per cent cumulative income debentures due April 1, 1978, less $1,800,500 carried as current liabilities.

Utility's Plan Approved.

Central Electric and Telephone company announced stockholder approval of a corporate rearrangement and financing plan which includes the following provisions:

1. Organization of a new company, Central Telephone company, to acquire in exchange for its bonds, preferred and common stock, all telephone properties of Central Electric. This would include the common stock of Middle Western Telephone company. The latter, in turn, owns all common stock of La Crosse Telephone corporation and of Middle States Telephone Company of Illinois. Central Telephone also would acquire at cost all the securities of Virginia Telephone and Electric company, subsidiary of Central Electric.

2. A change of name of Central Electric and Telephone company to Central Electric and Gas company.

Private Sale Arranged.

3. Sale at 105¾ by Central Electric, which has been arranged privately with institutional bondholders, of the $3,100,000 of 30 year 3½ per cent bonds of Central Telephone which Central Electric will acquire in the transaction. Central Electric also will sell privately 2 millions of its 30 year 3½ per cent bonds at 105¾.

Funds thus realized, with $863,500 in cash, will provide money required to redeem the present $5,350,000 of 3¾ per cent bonds of Central Electric and provide funds for retirement of the Middle Western Telephone debt of $365,000.

Indiana, Michigan Plan.

Indiana and Michigan Electric company, a subsidiary of American Gas and Electric company, filed a financing program with the securities and exchange commission contemplating retirement of 7 per cent and 6 per cent preferred stocks. It proposed sale under competitive bidding of 120,000 shares of new $100 par cumulative preferred, and 129,024 shares of no par common stock for 3 millions to American Gas. It requested that the common stock sale be exempted from competitive bidding.

An application has been filed with the SEC by New York Power and Light corporation to issue 240,000 shares of $100 par cumulative preferred stock with a dividend rate of not more than 5 per cent to replace outstanding 7 per cent and $6 preferred stocks.

Stockholders of Warner company approved a plan to issue 4 million dollars of 15 year 4 per cent mortgage bonds to Penn Mutual Life Insurance company and retire a 6 per cent bond issue of $3,534,000 plus a short term lien of $345,000.

Atlantic Refining Votes 25 Cent Special Dividend

Atlantic Refining company yesterday declared a special dividend of 25 cents with the usual quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share. One extra dividend of 20 cents was paid last year.

Stock Market Strengthens; Closes Mixed

New York, July 31 (AP).—Altho many sections of the stock market recovered today, many leaders continued in minus territory and the market closed uneven.

Early gains of fractions to a point or more were well distributed. Air transports led the advance on good volume. Dealings then tapered to a mere dribble and top marks were reduced or canceled in numerous cases at the close. The session again was one of the slowest since mid-May.

Modest Bidding Opens.

Modest bidding developed at the opening on the belief that even if the European conflict ends suddenly, reconversion may not be as troublesome as some have predicted. The idea that the recent market correction had partially discounted such difficulties also aided.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was unchanged at 54.7 and for July was off 0.8. The market was the narrowest in nearly three months. Only 803 issues appeared, of which 297 were up and 285 down. Transfers of 578,890 shares compared with 562,690 Friday which were the smallest since May 16.

At peaks for 1944 or longer were Braniff Airways, United Air Lines and American Airlines. Up a point or so were Eastern Air Lines, Pan American Airways, and Westinghouse Electric.

BONDS SLOW AND MIXED.

New York, July 31 (AP).—Trading dwindled to the lowest volume of 1944 in the bond market today and altho a few rails and investment type industrials and utilities managed small advances, more were steady or lower.

Four of the five main groups in the Associated Press averages showed no change, but the industrials gained 0.1. Sales of $4,965,200, compared with $5,942,600 Friday, were the smallest for a full session since October.

CHICAGO LIST STEADY.

Prices on the Chicago Stock exchange were steady yesterday on sales of 21,000 shares. Of the 109 issues traded, 41 advanced and an equal number declined. Twenty-seven were unchanged. Volume leaders included Midland Utilities 7 per cent prior lien, up ¼; Electric Household, up ½; Commonwealth Edison, up ⅛, and Armour & Co. and Chicago corporation, both unchanged.

OPA'S NEW CONTROLS TO END BLACK MARTS IN GRAINS—MAYBE

Black market operations in oats and barley will be ended if the OPA can find ways of enforcing new regulations governing truck movement of the two grains, brokers commented yesterday.

Included in price control orders now in effect is a section devoted to telling the truck operator how he shall buy, his ceiling price, and transportation charges. The section concludes:

"For enforcement purposes, it is necessary that both the shipments and the records of the trucker-merchant covering such shipments be inspected while in transit. Failure of a trucker-merchant to stop in response to instructions in a sign conspicuously posted at roadside or upon signal by an OPA enforcement official shall be a violation of this supplement."

Another provision calls for the federal grade to be included in the memorandum given to the buyer. Brokers said it is almost impossible for a trucker or farmer to grade barley correctly.

People and Events

Resignation of Fred B. Lautzenhiser of Chicago as engineering consultant to its automotive division was announced yesterday by the WPB, which said he would return to International Harvester company.

C. Bedell Monro, president of Pennsylvania-Central Airlines, has been appointed chairman of the air lines division of the National Industrial Information committee.

The executive council of National Security Traders' association, Inc., announced affiliation of the Atlanta Bond club, Atlanta, Ga., 24th group to enter the national organization.

More than 1,000 Chicago district employes of the Burlington railroad and their families will attend the eighth annual picnic of the Burlington Boosters' association Sunday in Phillips park, Aurora.

William H. Price Jr. has been appointed midwestern regional director of Mitchell-Bradford Chemical company, with headquarters in Chicago.

F. M. Beaudoin has been appointed industrial relations manager of petroleum iron works division of United States Steel Products company, a subsidiary of United States Steel corporation. He had been employment manager of United States Steel Supply company, Chicago, also a subsidiary.

W. E. Balcom has been appointed assistant eastern sales manager of the Pepsodent division of Lever Brothers' company.

McNUTT SEEKS 50,000 WORKERS FOR ARMS JOBS

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP).—War Man Power Commissioner McNutt today announced the names and location of heavy ammunition plants for which he said an additional 50,000 workers must be found before the end of the year to keep invasion guns blasting against the enemy.

The plants turn out ammunition for rocket guns and artillery ranging from 105 mm. howitzers to 8 inch guns. Few of the jobs require special skills and women can do most tasks as well as men, he said.

McNutt listed the Kingsbury ordnance plant, La Porte, Ind., as needing 4,000 workers. Others in the Chicago area were Elwood ordnance, Wilmington, Ill.; Kankakee ordnance works, Joliet, and Ammunition Container, Harvey.

LAKE SHIP FIRM ELECTS BOARD; ENDS DEADLOCK

Detroit, Mich., July 31 (AP).—Stockholders of the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation company, Great Lakes shipping company, elected a board of directors at a special meeting today, ending a battle of proxies that led to the federal courts after last April's regular meeting, which was adjourned without an election.

A Cleveland stockholders' group succeeded in electing two of its four nominees, while the "management" group returned six of its eight candidates. George J. Kolowich of Detroit, a major shareholder, was re-elected independently.

Boost Ceiling on Indiana Truck Hauled Soft Coal

Washingon, D. C., July 31 (AP).—Effective Aug. 5, the OPA today raised price ceilings about 3 cents a ton on bituminous coal produced in Indiana and shipped from mines or preparation plants by truck. It ordered specific dollar and cents ceilings for rail shipped washed coal in Indiana. Previously service charges could be added to sales prices but, also effective Aug. 5, these charges will be embodied in the new ceilings, similar to the procedure for raw coal.

Move to Block Bankruptcy of Surface Lines

Answers and a memorandum of legal authorities urging dismissal of all bankruptcy petitions pending against the companies comprising the Chicago Surface lines on the ground that the petitions were not filed in good faith were filed yesterday in federal District court by two Chicago banks and three bondholders' committees.

The answers were filed by the Harris Trust and Savings bank as trustee under the first mortgage of the Chicago Railways company; the First National Bank of Chicago, as trustee under the first mortgage of the Chicago City Railway company, and the first mortgage bondholders' committee of the Chicago Railways company, the Chicago City Railway company, and the Calumet and South Chicago Railway company.

Blame Difference in Policy.

The banks and committees set forth that the difficulties in which the Chicago traction system finds itself are due in large measure to the disagreement of policy between the state of Illinois, as represented by the Illinois commerce commission, and the city of Chicago. Referring to the bankruptcy petitions, the answers asserted that "it appeared impossible the court could believe the traction problem could be solved by the appointment of an independent trustee to devise a new reorganization plan, or by the intervention of the securities and exchange commission [a federal agency]."

Bankruptcy would substitute a different procedure without affecting the problem, the answers held, and would add to the time and expense of reorganization.

Says Court Knows Problem.

The SEC was termed "purely advisory" and of little value in the Chicago traction problem since the court already has intimate knowledge of Chicago's traction situation.

The answers urged, instead of bankruptcy proceedings, presenting the city's unified traction plan and cash offer to security holders. There is "grave doubt" as to the good faith of the creditors petitioning for bankruptcy, since they have only a nominal interest in the property compared with those who oppose bankruptcy, the answers asserted.

The answers are scheduled to be heard by Federal Judge Igoe on Aug. 14, when arguments begin on petitions seeking a cancellation of the present equity proceedings and starting action to throw the surface lines into bankruptcy.

PENN.-CENTRAL AIRLINES SEEKS 3 WORLD ROUTES

Three world air routes, including one from Chicago, were propposed yesterday by Pennsylvania-Central Airlines in applications filed with the civil aeronautics board in Washington, D. C. One route is across the North Atlantic to Scandinavian points and Moscow; another across the South Atlantic to points in Africa, and a third to Asia by way of Alaska.

The third route would be from Chicago by way of St. Paul and Minneapolis to Alaska; from that point to an intermediate point in Siberia to Vladivostok, Mukden, Shanghai, Hong Kong, Hanoi, Calcutta; a leg from Mukden to Peiping and Chungking, and an alternate routing from Alaska to Unalaska, Kiska, Paramushiru, Tokyo, Shanghai, and Hong Kong.

Chicago to Washington Air Service Increased

United Air Lines today will start operating a third daily round trip passenger and cargo flight between Chicago and Washington, D. C., M. W. Stevenson, district traffic manager, announced yesterday. The new flight will leave Chicago at 3 p. m. and arrive in Washington at 7:49 p. m. The return flight leaves Washington at 9:45 p. m. and arrives in Chicago shortly after midnight.

NEARLY 24,000 OUT ON STRIKE; 4,900 RETURN

9,200 Off Jobs in Detroit Walkouts.

Diesel Output Affected

Sunnyvale, Cal., July 31 (AP).—A dwindling supply of bearings from the strike slowed Federal Mogul plant in San Francisco has halted assembling of ship propulsion units and reduction gears at Sunnyvale's Joshua Hendy Iron Works, "because we are entirely dependent on Federal Mogul for bearings," the company said today. Idleness nears for 2,000 men. Atlas Diesel company and Union Diesel company in Oakland also said supplies of bearings, exclusively from Federal Mogul, were becoming low.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Altho approximately 4,900 strikers returned to work yesterday when disputes in two large war plants were settled, the number of idle workers in the country neared 24,000.

At Buffalo, N. Y., 2,500 employes of the Houdaille-Hershey corporation's Houde Engineering division plant, producer of airplane parts, voted to return to work immediately. The walkout began Saturday in protest against wage deductions.

Shell Plant Strike Ends.

A strike of 2,400 United Steelworkers [CIO] members at the Ashland, Ky., shell plant of the Clayton Manufacturing company, which had halted operations since Saturday, also ended. The walkout started after a workman was discharged.

At Detroit 7,000 employes in five plants of the Chevrolet gear and axle division of General Motors corporation remained idle, virtually closing the factories, which produce parts for Pratt & Whitney airplane engines. Spokesmen for local 235, United Automobile Workers [CIO] said workers complained they could not meet new production rates. Last night the strikers were ordered by the war labor board to return to work today.

Another labor dispute in the Detroit area affected three Montgomery Ward & Co. retail stores and involved approximately 2,200 employes. Jeff Craig, international representative of the United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employes [CIO] said the dispute was about overtime for Sunday work.

300 Strikers Halt 4,000.

At Granite City, Ill., a dispute at the General Steel Castings company's Commonwealth plant kept 4,300 workers idle, after a strike by 300 chippers who claimed they had been abused by a foreman.

Two plants of John A. Roebling's Sons & Co., at Roebling and Trenton, N. J., reported 4,700 workers out in protest over workers' "take home" pay.

At Pottstown, Pa., 1,500 workers remained away from their jobs at the Spicer Manufacturing company tank part plant in what local 644 of the United Automobile Workers [CIO] termed an unauthorized strike. They were protesting delay in the negotiation of a contract.

Protest Over 48 Hours.

At San Francisco only 10 per cent of the normal force of the Federal Mogul company was at work as 100 ball bearing workers struck in obedience to an AFL Machinists union order to remain off the job in protest against what was termed the company's refusal to follow contract requirements that work be limited to 48 hours a week.

Still unadjusted were these disputes: Marion, Ind., Anaconda Wire and Cable company, 1,100 workers involved; Jersey City, N. J., American Can company, 950; Cleveland, O., John Harsch Foundry, 700; Muncie, Ind., Ball Brothers company, 500; Appleton, Wis., Fox River Paper corporation, 435; Chicago, four furniture companies, 247; Galesburg, Ill., Knoxville Mining company, 80.

New Restrictions May Face Paper Users, Warns WPB

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP).—Unless paper production for military use is increased the government may further curtail supplies for publishers and commercial printers and "impose complete priority control" over paper, the war production board reported today.

WPB has called upon three major segments of the paper industry—ground wood, writing, and book paper producers—for "voluntary cooperation" in boosting production to keep pace with rising war needs, said Rex W. Hovey, paper division director.

"Inevitable, Unless——"

Furthermore, WPB added, unless increased supplies of raw materials are forthcoming, including pulpwood and waste paper, a reduction in the paper allotments to civilians is "inevitable."

"It will be necessary further to limit the uses of printing and writing papers by changing the present printing and publishing limitation orders if conditions do not improve materially," asserted Harold Boeschenstein, head of WPB's forest products bureau.

The orders mentioned are those under which newsprint and other print paper is allotted to newspapers, book and magazine publishers, and commercial printers. The possible cuts would take effect in October. Allotments already have been made thru September.

Can't Meet All Demands.

Industry spokesmen in recent meetings have declared it impossible for them to meet both military and civilian demands, WPB said. The mill spokesmen have urged unanimously that the allotments for publishers and printers be reduced further to bring consumption into line with supply.

About 10 per cent of the paper mills have failed voluntarily to accept their share of army and navy purchase orders, said WPB, and unless they do so, said Hovey, paper will be placed under full priority control, like the critical metals, or will be subjected to mandatory production directives from the army.

CIVILIANS TO OBTAIN 10 PCT. LESS MEAT IN REMAINDER OF '44

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP).—Reflecting reduced supplies and a lower level of live stock production, civilian meat supplies during the fall and early winter may be 8 or 10 per cent less than in the first half of this year.

The department of agriculture report on the food situation today said, however, that food supplies as a whole would be relatively plentiful.

Reduced supplies of meats and dairy products would be offset, the report said, by larger supplies of fresh fruits and vegetables and cereal products. Total 1944 meat production was put at 25 billion pounds, largest on record.

The department said the civilian food supply was being maintained at present levels despite large war requirements because of the "tremendous increase" in total food production since the beginning of the war. The 1943 volume was expected to be 38 per cent above the 1935-'39 average and almost 5 per cent larger than last year. Most of this increase over 1943 will be in food grains [principally wheat], fruits, truck crops, and meats.

JULY OUTPUT NEAR TOP.

Approximately 1 billion 353 million pounds of beef, veal, pork, and lamb were produced in July in federally inspected packing plants, the second largest July production on record, the American Meat institute said yesterday. July, 1943, set an all-time record for the month, 6 per cent above this year.

NEWTON AVERS ALLEGHANY HAD C. & O. CONTROL

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP).—Carl Newton, president of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, today reviewed business relations with the Alleghany corporation in an effort to show that Alleghany's control of C. & O. coincided with the law.

He testified at an interstate commerce commission hearing that there was no basis for contentions that Alleghany, Robert R. Young, its chairman, and Allan P. Kirby acquired control of C. & O. in 1942, but did not hold it from 1938 to 1942.

ICC is investigating to learn if Alleghany violated a law effective in 1940 prohibiting such corporations from acquiring control of more than one carrier without ICC approval. Acquisition of C. & O., counsel for ICC contends, gave Alleghany control also of the New York, Chicago, and St. Louis railroad [Nickel Plate] and Pere Marquette railroad.

Newton declared Alleghany took control of C. & O. in 1929 and therefore was not in conflict with the 1940 act.

FARM MACHINE OUTPUT UP, BUT SHORT OF GOAL

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP).—Output of farm machinery in June totaled $65,677,000, the war production board reported today. This was the largest monthly total of 1944, but the program remained 11.3 per cent behind schedule as industry's fiscal year closed.

Production schedules were revised some time ago to provide a "grace period" thru July to complete the year's schedule, said WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson, so a final production report for the 1944 harvest year will not be possible until this month's figures are tabulated.

In addition, manufacturers have until Sept. 30 to wind up production of about eight types of machinery, including some farthest behind schedule. These include small combines, corn pickers, ensilage harvesters, peanut pickers, corn shellers, hay balers, feed grinders, and portable elevators. Harvesting machinery was farthest behind schedule, 28.5 per cent.

3 METROPOLITAN AREAS OF LABOR CLASSED 'ACUTE'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 31.—The war man power commission announced tonight that Philadelphia, Pa.; Newark, N. J., and the Madison-Merrimac, Wis., area have been moved into group 1 in its labor market classification, effective Aug. 1. Group 1 areas are those in which acute labor shortages exist, or are expected, which will endanger essential production.

Sturgeon Bay, Wis., was moved from group 1 to group 2, which denotes areas in which labor shortages exist that may endanger essential production or that are approaching a balanced demand-supply situation. Freeport, Ill., was moved from group 3 to group 2. The revision of the ratings of Freeport and the Madison-Merrimac area were the only changes made in region 6, which comprises Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana.

FIELD EARNS 44c A SHARE DURING SECOND QUARTER

Marshall Field & Co., had profit in the second quarter of 1944 of $1,071,757, equal to 44 cents per share, compared with revised profit of $1,263,633, or 53 cents a share, a year earlier, Hughston M. McBain, president, reported yesterday. Profit in the half year was $2,095,091, equal to 85 cents a share, against revised profit of $2,508,953, or $1.06 a share.

McBain said the federal tax provision for the first six months was 74 per cent of the company's profits before taxes, compared with 69.5 per cent in 1943. Sales and rental income in the second quarter were $34,944,904, an increase of 6.8 per cent above a year ago.

U.S. RUBBER'S EXPANSION WILL BOOST OUTPUT

Six Month Profit Is Down: Davis.

United States Rubber company's 25 million dollar expansion of its tire manufacturing facilities is nearly completed, Francis B. Davis Jr., board chairman, reported yesterday. The output will go to meet military and essential civilian needs, he said.

Francis B. Davis Jr.

"The enlarged Fisk plant in Chicopee Falls, Mass, has just been placed in operation and the reconversion and expansion of the Eau Claire, Wis., plant will be finished soon," Davis said. "The changing over of the Eau Claire plant from the manufacture of small arms to the building of tires at the request of the government is one of the first major reconversions of the war."

Fisk Output Doubled.

The Fisk plant will process approximately 15 million pounds of tire materials a month, which is nearly double its previous capacity, he said.

Davis reported net income of $5,852,827 in the first six months of 1944, equal to $1.85 per share, compared with $6,912,466, or $2.44 a share, in the corresponding 1943 period.

Sales, exclusive of business done for the government on a cost plus fixed fee basis, amounted to $219,373,621, he said.

Studebaker corporation reported consolidated profit in the half year of $1,732,773, equal to 74 cents per share, compared with $1,672,099, or 75 cents a share, a year earlier. In the quarter ended June 30, profits rose to $914,225, equal to 39 cents per share, from $732,585, or 33 cents a share, a year ago.

Studebaker Sales Mount.

Sales in the six months, including charges under government cost plus contracts, totaled $215,185,764, contrasted with $160,637,279 in the corresponding 1943 period. Sales in the quarter aggregated $106,683,472, compared with $87,129,256 a year earlier and with $108,502,292 in the quarter ended March 31, 1944.

Commonwealth Edison company reported consolidated profit in the first six months of 1944 of $11,334,239, equal to 89 cents a share, compared with $11,085,968, or 87 cents a share, a year ago. Total sales of electricity in the six months increased 9.6 per cent to 5,255,291,662 kilowatt hours. Electric revenues increased 6.5 per cent, while sales of gas in therms declined 0.5 per cent to 161,508,384. Total gas revenues increased 1.5 per cent.

Crosley corporation in the half year had net income of $2,556,288, equal to $4.68 per share, compared with $2,654,135, or $4.86 a year ago. Sales totaled $49,088,606, against $42,013,188. Possible renegotiation refunds are "now undeterminable," the report said.

M., E. W. T., at the office of said Commission, 18th and Locust Streets, Philadelphia 3, Pennsylvania, on the Application-Declaration filed by the undersigned with said Commission pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 whereby approval is requested of the proposal of the undersigned to purchase for the sum of $5,365,000 the 712,411 shares of common stock of Jersey Central Power & Light Company pledged with The New York Trust Company, as Trustee under Trust Indenture dated February 1, 1928, securing $20,800,000 principal amount of National Public Service Corporation Secured Gold Debentures, 5% Series due 1978, which stock comprises all of the collateral pledged under the Indenture securing such Debentures. The undersigned proposes to purchase said stock by bid at public auction sale scheduled to be held at the auction block of Adrian H. Muller & Son, Auctioneers, at 75 Montgomery Street, Jersey City, New Jersey, at 10:30 o'clock A. M., E. W. T. on August 17, 1944, or as soon thereafter as may be practical. In the event that the undersigned purchases said stock for $5,365,000 as aforesaid, it is estimated that there will be available for distribution to holders of such Debentures approximately $260 for each $1,000 principal amount thereof.

Never Underestimate the Power of a Woman!

In World War I . . . 11,575 women served with the Navy and the Marines. In January, 1944, nearly 140,000 women were already enrolled in our armed services.

LADIES' HOME JOURNAL

Slow Leak . . .

Slow . . . but sure . . . when there's an embezzler tampering with your firm's account books. And when his activities finally are discovered, it's too late. The stolen money is all spent.

The annual loss of money through dishonesty of trusted employees is greater than the loss by fire. But why should you pay part of it? Protect your assets with a Continental fidelity bond.

Low-cost employees' dishonesty insurance is but one of the complete range of services offered you by this strong Chicago institution. Your own agent or broker can give you full details.

OPA INCREASES RETAIL CEILING FOR POTATOES

Retail potato price ceilings in Chicago will go up a cent a pound within a few days, the office of price administration said yesterday, as the result of an increase of 90 cents a bushel, effective today, given growers in 16 northeastern states to compensate for drouth damage. Growers will receive $3.30 to $3.65 a 100 pounds.

Drouth in the southeast has caused a shortage of potatoes in the Chicago market, dealers said. Potatoes have been selling at ceiling prices for the last week, and demand has exceeded supply. However, the pinch is not expected to become serious during the summer slump in demand.

Dry Spells Cut Crop.

Field reports of the war food administration indicated prolonged dry spells are cutting the crop substantially along the east coast from New Jersey to South Carolina, and that rain would now be too late to obtain much improvement.

Ohio, western New York, and Long Island yields were said to be off 40 to 50 per cent, and damage has spread into Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, and Kansas, altho recent midwestern rains have been of some help.

Stocks of old crop potatoes, which were in oversupply early this year, have been exhausted since June, the WFA said.

Canadian Shipments Received.

For the first time in recent years, Canadian potatoes are coming into the Chicago market because they can compete with other shipments. Canadian No. 1 cobblers arriving from Ontario yesterday were quoted at $3.75 a hundred pounds. In comparison, Idaho potatoes, selling at the ceiling, were $3.86 a hundred pounds, delivered Chicago basis, and Nebraskas, $3.80.

Shippers of Idaho and eastern Oregon potatoes reported disappointing crops. A freeze in May cut yields to 50 to 100 bags an acre against normal yields of 125 to 200 bags.

GRAINS DECLINE ON ALLIED GAINS, BREAK IN COTTON

Professional selling and hedging pressure gave the grain markets an easy undertone yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Favorable war news from Europe and a break in cotton following an early upturn influenced sentiment. Wheat was off about ½ cent at one time, but rallied on commission house buying and closed ¼ cent lower. Oats lost ¼ to ¾ cent. July leading, while cash oats declined 1 to 2 cents. Rye was ⅝ to ¾ cent lower and barley lost ⅜ to ⅝ cent.

With the exception of corn, the price of leading grains was well below OPA ceilings. September wheat was 15 cents, oats 11 cents, and barley 11½ cents under the permissible maximum. In Minneapolis September wheat sold at 1½ cents under the price at which the Commodity Credit corporation will purchase the cash grain in elevators.

HOGS ADVANCE WHEN ARRIVALS CONTINUE LOW

Hog prices advanced at the Chicago stock yards yesterday when buyers paid ceiling prices for about 75 per cent of offerings as volume thruout the country dipped sharply below packer requirements.

Arrivals in Chicago of 16,000, including direct shipments to packers, were smallest for a Monday since last October. Only six Monday totals have been that light in two years. All hogs except those that brought ceiling prices late last week advanced 25 to 50 cents a hundred pounds in value on brisk buying. Sows rose mostly 50 cents.

All cattle worth $16.00 or less met dull trading on a weaker price basis, but demand for better grades continued strong. The $17.75 top equaled the 1944 high. Most steers and yearlings sold at $14.00 to $17.25.

Strong to 25 cents higher prices lifted lambs to the highest price of the month in lively trade. The $15.10 top was a high since June 27. Old Texas ewes sold for slaughter at $5.50.

85 Rockford War Homes Get Approval of NHA

Construction of 85 additional war housing units in Rockford, Ill., was approved yesterday by the national housing agency. William K. Divers, Chicago regional NHA representative, said priorities were approved for private construction of the dwellings.

UNITED GAS ADJUSTMENT.

Please review the principal effects of United Gas corporation's pending recapitalization plan. V. T.

Answer: The capital readjustment plan proposed by United Gas has been recommended to the SEC by the latter's public utility division. If it is consummated, the company will have outstanding only two classes of securities—100 million dollars of first mortgage and collateral trust bonds, to be sold publicly, and 10,653,302 common shares of $10 par.

Electric Bond and Share company would surrender its entire investment in the United Gas system for 44 millions cash. The money would be routed by way of Electric Power and Light corporation, which would receive it from United Gas in payment for 440,000 shares of the outstanding 884,680 shares of United's $7 second preferred stock. Electric P. and L. owns the entire issue, on which there is a dividend arrearage of more than 78 million dollars.

A capital contribution would be made to United Gas by Electric P. and L. of the securities which the latter would get from Electric Bond, together with the Electric P. and L. holdings of United option warrants. These securities would then be canceled, and a similar fate appears to be in store for the 1,113,922 publicly held warrants.

The publicly owned $7 first preferred stock of United Gas would be redeemed at $110 a share, plus, accumulated dividends.

Various steps in the reorganization would result in Electric P. and L. receiving 10,108,101 shares, or 94.88 per cent, of the new $10 par common. Public holdings of the present $1 par common would, in effect be exchangeable for the $10 common in the ratio of six shares for one.

July Farm Prices Recede to 113 Per Cent of Parity

Washington, D. C., July 31 (AP).—Farmers received a general price average of 113 per cent of parity for farm products in mid-July, a drop of 1 per cent from a month earlier, the agriculture department said today. Downturns in grains, truck crops, and meat animals more than offset upturns in cotton, fruit, milk, and egg prices.

REFUSES TO END $5,000 FEE FOR UNION ACTIVITY

Macon, Ga., July 31 [Special].—Federal interference with enforcement of a Milledgeville, Ga., city ordinance requiring labor organizers to pay a $5,000 annual license fee was refused today by United States District Judge Bascom Deaver.

The judge denied an application by R. E. Starnes, organizer for the CIO United Steel Workers of America, for an injunction restraining Milledgeville from prosecuting him for violation of the ordinance.

Union Agent Fined $150.

Starnes was fined $150 by the Recorder's court in Milledgeville on a charge of conducting labor organization work without a license, and an appeal is now pending in the Milledgeville Superior court. The ordinance, which also requires labor organizers to have resided in the city for a year before applying for a license, was passed by the Milledgeville council May 16.

Judge Deaver made no ruling in regard to the constitutionality of the license requirement. No circumstances justifying federal intervention were disclosed, he said, commenting that enforcement of a penal statute, "even one contrary to the Constitution" may be interfered with by injunction only where the danger of "irreparable loss" is both great and immediate.

Appeal in State Courts.

The judge observed that Starnes will have ample opportunity to test the constitutionality of the ordinance thru his appeal from the fine in the state courts.

Starnes came to Milledgeville several months ago and has been attempting to organize workers in the Milledgeville plant of the Reynolds corporation, engaged in the production of naval ordnance.

ASSERT SUBURB LOSS WON'T HIKE CITY WATER RATE

Altho the city is losing money thru the sale of water to suburban communities at uneconomically low rates fixed by state legislation, the gross charge for water to consumers inside the city will not be raised, Ald. Bowler [25th], chairman of the finance committee of the city council, said yesterday.

The gross charge is 8 cents for 1,000 gallons, and the discount allowed on bills paid within 15 days brings the net charge to 7.36 cents. This discount may be reduced or eliminated if the state legislature refuses to permit Chicago to raise its rates to suburbs which buy city water, Bowler said.

Under the sanitary district act of 1889 Chicago is required to sell water to suburbs at the same rate paid by city consumers. The expense of extending new or larger mains to the city limits to reach outlying communities, and the cost of pumping the water the greater distances, makes the actual cost of the water to the city more than 8 cents, Bowler said.

Bowler, Ald. Cowhey [41st], and Ald. Brody [39th], members of the finance committee, said they will recommend to the city council that it request the legislature to amend the sanitary district act to permit the city to increase its water prices to the suburbs.

ISBELL STARTS TODAY AS OPA 'AREA DIRECTOR

Marion Isbell, Chicago restaurant chain operator, will become acting area director of the office of price administration in Chicago today. He succeeds Paul A. H. Shults, who will return to private law practice next month.

Daniel Nicholson, price specialist in the area office, resigned yesterday to become a special representative of the Blue Moon Food Products corporation of Thorpe, Wis.

At a dinner meeting last night, at which Shults introduced his successor to 300 OPA employes and board members, Shults said he believed the area office had done a "good job" of administering OPA regulations, first under Michael F. Mulcahy, now sheriff, and later his own organization, and asked coöperation from his former associates for Isbell.
